Astronauts' Fire Death Leaves Nation Stunned

WHERE THEY DIED—Surrounded by the ponderous gantry crane, the smoke-blackened Apollo I spacecraft sits today. Investigators have been named to determine what caused the oxygen-fed blaze that scorched its interior and killed three astronauts. (UPI Telephoto)

TROUBLE-PLAGUED — The three astronauts were sitting in the cone-shaped Apollo cabin, 218 feet above ground, when the fatal fire flared last night. They could not escape because the gantry crane slowed exit, officials explained. (AP Wirephoto)

Cause Still Unknown; Program Marks Time

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP)—One of the three Apollo astronauts cried, "Fire in the spacecraft!" a split second before all three were to die in their moonship, the head of an investigating team said today.

Maj. Gen. Samuel Phillips, Apollo program director, said it was not known whose voice crackled over the radio monitoring system as a searing flash fire snuffed out the lives of astronauts Virgil I. Grissom, Edward H. White II and Roger B. Chaffee.

It was the first time in the U.S. space program that the chilling cry had been heard, for it was the first blaze ever to erupt inside a capsule.

"A flash fire originated inside the capsule and surrounded it for a matter of split seconds," said Phillips.

SIMULATED FLIGHT

The tragedy struck as the countdown on a simulated flight was being held at T-minus 10 minutes because of difficulty in the quality of communications between the spacecraft and the checkout building, Phillips said.

Phillips, head of a preliminary investigating team which began seeking the cause of the blaze that turned the space ship into a death trap, said the data would be turned over to a formal board of inquiry.

Until that board has made its findings, he said, he could not speculate on plans for future Apollo flights.

The pad crew rushed immediately to the spacecraft, Phillips said, extinguished several fires burning in the area, and got the spacecraft hatch open in five minutes.

NO EJECTION

Pilots cannot eject themselves from an Apollo spacecraft. The tower on top is designed to pull the ship off its launch rocket in the event of trouble.

In this case, the only escape would have been to open the hatch from inside, and the astronauts apparently did not live long enough to take this action.

The disaster may have stalled by months the U.S. drive to a landing on the moon.

The formal board of inquiry will be headed by Dr. Floyd Thompson, director of NASA's Langley Research Center.

One and one-half miles from Pad 34, site of Friday night's first great spacecraft tragedy, the bodies of astronauts Grissom, White and Chaffee lay in an infirmary.

The men were practicing for a two-week space mission, the first of the Apollo flights which will culminate in the lunar landing, when the hot blaze snuffed out their lives in an instant.

PROGRAM IN DOUBT?

Grimly, space officials said they would push on with the program, but the holocaust which capped a long series of troubles with the Apollo spacecraft will call for a soul-searching look before other lives are risked.

Apollo, first scheduled to blast off before the end of last year, has been plagued by malfunctions.

During the final checkout and testing of Apollo 1, many changes and modifications were made.

Two victims of the holocaust on Pad 34 were space veterans, the other a rookie.

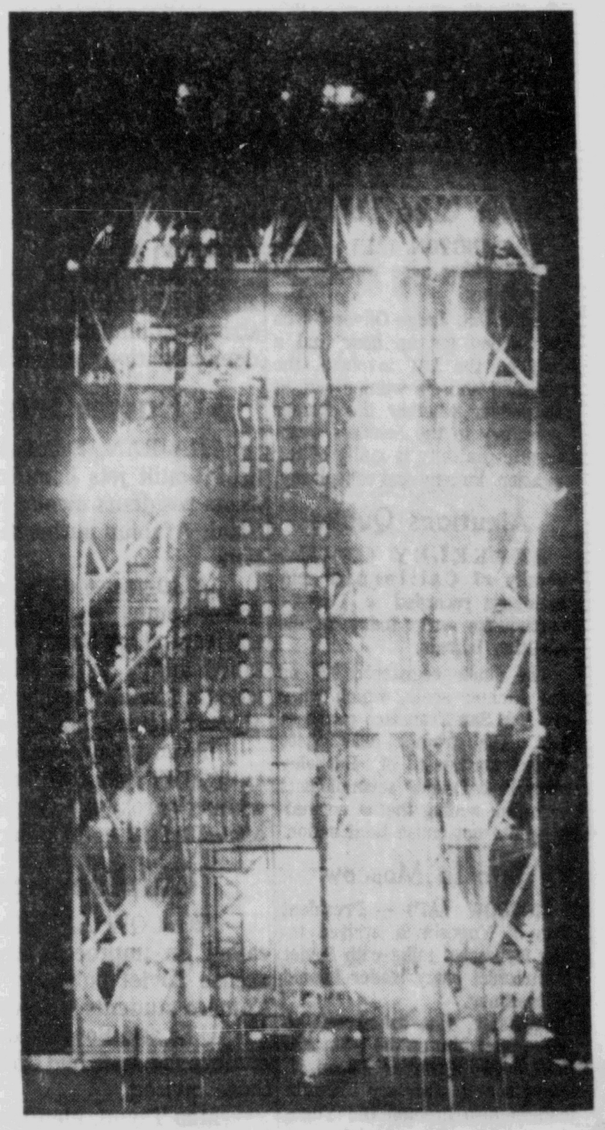

The 40-year-old Grissom flew in Mercury and Gemini programs, helping blaze the first American trails in space. White, 36, was the first U.S. astronaut to leave his ship and become a human satellite. Chaffee, 31, was training for his launch.

BOUND TO COME

Someday, every spaceman knew in his heart, it was bound to happen. It was too much to hope that the perilous route to the moon could be traveled without loss of life.

But when it came, they thought, it would be in the far reaches of space, not this way.

Two Killed, Two Missing In Icy Sierra River Plunge

VERDI, Nev. (AP) — Two persons were killed, two missing and six others injured when a small van plunged into the icy Truckee River today during a rainstorm in the Sierra.

"We thought they had a third body recovered," said Sgt. Don Wallis of the California Highway Patrol in Truckee. "But now we learn they don't."

The missing persons were presumed dead, the patrol said. Officers withheld the names of the victims until next of kin could be notified.

Of the injured, four were taken to Washoe Medical Center in Reno and two to the Tahoe Forest Hospital in Truckee.

HOSPITAL LISTS

The Reno hospital said it was treating Leon Braman, 23; America Santoro, 37, and Lt. Col. Erikka Lahdenpera, all of Monterey, Calif;. and Conrad Lewis, 18, of Carmel, Calif.

Being treated in Truckee were Carol Cline, 18, and Jerome McGhee, 22, both of Monterey.

The van was eastbound toward Reno on Interstate 80 when it went out of control two miles west of the California - Nevada border and plunged 100 feet down an embankment into the river.

Lewis identified himself to ambulance attendants as the driver of the vehicle, the Highway Patrol said. The other four men are stationed with the Army at Monterey.

Lahdenpera was listed in critical condition.

Officers said the missing persons probably died of exposure in the icy river if they weren't killed in the wreck.

Two Highway Patrol units from California, two from Nevada, a unit from the Nevada County sheriff's office in California and several Nevada search and rescue units were at the river.

BODY IN RIVER

A woman's body was recovered from underneath a large rock off the highway, the patrol said. Another body was found in a river eddy near a railroad bridge a quarter mile downstream.

The group apparently was on a ski excursion in the Sierra. Skiing equipment was strewn over the highway and in the river. The patrol said the van might have been pulling a small luggage trailer.

Officers said they couldn't find the trailer, but several pieces of luggage were recovered.

Marin Expects More Rainfall

The moderate rains, which began to fall on waterlogged Marin County early this morning, will continue through tomorrow, the United States Weather Bureau predicted.

There were no serious slides or flooded areas reported in the county today.

In San Rafael, rainfall in the last 24 hours to noon today was measured at .53 of an inch.

In the 24 hours to 8 a.m. today, Novato reported .15 of an inch, Bolinas .69 and Sausalito .36.

Winter Calls For Bombing Halt; Wait For Foreign Peace Effort

By JOHN F. KEARNEY

Using the logic of a lawyer and the delivery of a veteran radio commentator and reporter William Winter appeared to solve the dilemma of ending the Vietnam war for most of his College of Marin audience last night.

"The United States should stop bombing North Vietnam without imposing conditions," he said. "Then we should stop making statements."

"Keep quiet and let the international machinery get to work and lay the groundwork for peace negotiations," he advised.

Winter, attorney turned orator, was speaking on "The Current Crisis" in the concluding talk in the college's fall semester concert-lecture series in Olney Hall.

He began with a condemnation of United States policy in Vietnam and ended with a frank appeal to his audience to protest with every legal means available.

Admitting he was getting too liberal for many commercial radio sponsors, Winter found none of his listeners last night voiced disagreement with his views. At one point, he drew a round of applause.

"We must face up to the fact that we have not been told the truth about why America fights in Vietnam," he said. "The reasons are very hollow." And he listed them.

1. Meeting aggression. "The facts are that the first outsiders to come into Vietnam were the Americans fighting against the villagers who were disillusioned at not having their 1954 election," he said. "If the United States takes the position we are lawfully in the country because we were asked to be there by the Vietnamese government, the North Viet Cong are lawfully there because they are helping their people."

2. "It's conforming to the SEATO charter. There is nothing in the charter requiring any member nation to go to war without consultation," said Winter, who noted that the

Anti-Mao General Holds Atomic Testing Grounds

HONG KONG (UPI)—The Red army boss of Communist China's nuclear testing grounds on the Russian border is defying Mao Tse-tung and has the backing of seven of his eight Sinkiang province divisions, Japanese press reports from Peking said today.

Wall posters put up in Peking by Mao supporters announced the mass "desertion" and, for the first time, admitted the Red army is infected with ideas hostile to Communist party Chairman Mao.

The Peking correspondent of the Kyodo news agency quoted the posters as saying seven divisions—about 84,000 men—in Sinkiang province under Gen. Wang En-mao used grenades, machineguns and rifles against Mao's supporters in the sensitive frontier wastes where Red China developed and exploded its nuclear weapons.

The posters, reporting 100 persons died and "great numbers" suffered wounds in the bloody clashes, admitted anti-Mao forces seized the city of Shihotze in fierce fighting. It reported Wang, said to be loyal to Mao rival President Liu Shao-chi, had control of the province capital of Urmchi where he kept 12 tanks ready to repulse Mao supporters.

Calling for the loyalty of the rest of Red China's 2.5 million-man standing army, the wall posters spoke vaguely of anti-Mao military units going "underground" in Sinkiang's Mosowan City. The posters said anti-Mao forces controlled key points in the province where for years Russians have reported mass unrest among the non-Chinese population.

The full force of Mao's propaganda organs the past few days have been devoted to calling for army support. To observers here, the hint was clear—Mao is having trouble with the army.

Fire Bombs Rained Onto Red Hideout

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) —Giant U.S. B-52 bombers rained fire bombs on War Zone C today in an attempt to burn out the longtime jungle sanctuary of the Viet Cong near the Cambodian frontier.

It was the second incendiary raid this month by the high-flying Stratoforts.

Helicopter pilots reported destroying 33 sampans and killing 44 Viet Cong last night and this morning while flying "firefly missions" 28 miles southwest of Saigon.

In air action over North Vietnam yesterday U.S. pilots flew 85 bombing missions. They concentrated all their strikes in the lower part of the country as poor weather covered the northern portions.

During the raids, an Air Force F4C Phantom jet was shot down by Communist ground fire, U.S. headquarters said, but the crew was rescued.

The plane was the 467th an-

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

$500,000 Missing

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The bank is closed today but everyone is quite busy at Crocker-Citizens' big main office. A $500,000 bill is missing.

There were a number of possible ways the U.S. Treasury certificate could have disappeared. It could have been thrown out accidentally. Theft seemed unlikely.

But some bank customer might have received it in the mail by mistake, according to chief auditor Joseph D. Watson. The certificate is fully negotiable, a bank spokesman said, but it would be difficult to cash because no banker would accept it "without some very searching questions."

Employees launched a tedious and thorough "needle in a haystack" search through everything from desk tops to trash cans yesterday and today.

Baker Case To Jury

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Bobby Baker case went to the jury today.

After U.S. Judge Oliver Gasch expounded for an hour and a half on the law involved, the six men and six women retired to ponder whether the former secretary to the Senate's Democratic majority is guilty of tax evasion, larceny and conspiracy.

Aleutians Quake

The quake registered 6.5 on the Richter scale, which rates the 1906 San Francisco quake at 8.25. The tremor was 2,400 miles northeast of Berkeley near Fox Island, seismologists reported, adding that it normally would not cause tidal action.

Tito In Moscow

MOSCOW (AP) — President Tito of Yugoslavia arrived today for secret talks with Soviet Communist party leader Leonid I. Brezhnev.

Brezhnev, who asked Tito to come, met him at the train station. Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin and other top Kremlin leaders also greeted the Yugoslav leader. The Soviets are disturbed by the less rigid economic and political control now being exercised by the Yugoslav Communist party.

Veteran Flier Killed

ALAMEDA (UPI)—Navy Pilot Lt. Donald P. Zamburi, 28, who flew 157 combat missions in Vietnam, was killed yesterday in the crash of a propeller-driven Skyraider near the Lemoore Naval Air Strip.

The Navy said Zamburi's single-engine attack plane caught fire shortly after takeoff and crashed as he was trying to make an emergency landing.

Air Pioneer Dies

SANTA BARBARA (AP)—Walter T. Varney, 79, founder of the airline firm which eventually became United Air Lines, died Wednesday after a lengthy illness.

Conservatives Laud Rafferty

SACRAMENTO (AP)—Superintendent of Public Instruction Max Rafferty is listening to requests he challenge U.S. Sen. Thomas Kuchel—and encouragement is coming from the conservative-minded United Republicans of California.

Rafferty told a reporter he will listen "if there's a demand from the Republican Party for me to run," but he "wouldn't be interested in touching the thing with a 10-foot pole" if a number of people try for the nomination.

Yesterday Joseph Crosby, chairman of the 9,000 member United Republicans, said "as far as UROC's principles are concerned, I think Dr. Rafferty would" make the best candidate.

The board of governors of the volunteer group began a two-day meeting today.

Crosby told a news conference UROC members approve of Rafferty because of his insistence on "getting back to fundamentals" in education and his demand for revisions in a controversial history textbook, "Land of the Free."

He said, however, "I'm not going to get into a box . . . on making some sort of pre-endorsement."

Crosby said UROC's governors will endorse all of Reagan's program, including budget cuts and higher education tuition.

Crosby said he approved of the firing of University of California President Clark Kerr and said a strong administrator "could have averted" student demonstrations at the Berkeley campus.

Nasser Jets Kill 3 In Arabia

NAJRAN, Saudi Arabia (AP) — Two waves of Soviet-built jets bombed this oasis town near Yemen as its residents awoke for sabbath prayers yesterday. Saudi Arabian authorities said the planes were Egyptian.

A 10-year-old girl and a boy were killed when a dozen bombs fell along the main street of this provincial capital. A Saudi officer said an Englishman was killed and 3 to 10 soldiers were killed or wounded when a stick of bombs fell on a military camp. Other officers denied that a camp was bombed.

Twenty news correspondents watched from cover as eight Iluyshin bombers and two MIG escort fighters whined across the mountain frontier and dropped an estimated 32 bombs during the 18-minute raid.

Chinese Blast Moscow Fight

MOSCOW (AP)—The Chinese Embassy in Moscow called an unprecedented news conference today to accuse Soviet police of a "blood repression" against Chinese students who visited Red Square Wednesday.

U.S. and Soviet newsmen were barred from the conference and had to pick up their material from those invited.

Mao Tsyun, identified as the press attache of the Chinese Embassy, told the news conference that the Red Square scuffle was "one more example of collusion between the Soviet revisionist ruling clique and the U.S. leaders."

"In what way do they (the Russians) differ from the Americans" fighting in Vietnam, he asked.

Anti-Sukarno Pressure Builds

JAKARTA (UPI) — More than 10,000 students snake-danced through the streets of Jakarta today chanting "Sukarno is a Communist dog . . . Try Sukarno."

Leaders of the green-jacketed, yellow-vested demonstrators from the University of Indonesia said the march was but a warm-up to the business of oust-Sukarno as president.

As the students swarmed in the streets congressional sources indoors told newsmen the parliament probably will meet March 6 to decide the fate of the once all-powerful Sukarno.

Constitution Freeze Asked

SACRAMENTO (AP)—A stop sign should be put up for three years on legislative amendments to the state constitution, the Assembly Constitutional Amendments Committee contends.

The committee, in its interim report yesterday, said the Constitutional Revision Commission should be allowed to finish its work without having to worry about changes in the meantime.

The commission of leading citizens has been at work since 1963 on streamlining the bulky constitution. Its first product, revising a third of the constitution, was Prop. 1-A.

The committee recommended that the commission's proposals on the second third of the revisions be presented to voters in 1968 and the final third in 1970.

Baby Is Named

NEW YORK (UPI)—The newest member of the Rockefeller family yesterday was named Mark Fitler by Gov. and Mrs. Nelson A. Rockefeller.

The child was born prematurely Thursday and was reported in excellent condition today.

Top Banker Dies

SAN DIEGO (AP)—Ewart W. Goodwin, 59, a former president of the Mortgage Bankers Assn. of America, died of cancer yesterday.

Looters Hit Snow-Plagued Chicago Area

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Looters roamed Chicago's streets today and all police leaves were canceled as Illinois, Indiana and Michigan struggled free of a suffocating blanket of snow.

The record storm left at least 37 dead in Illinois — 28 in Chicago — as well as 10 in Michigan, 5 in Wisconsin and 3 in Indiana.

The storm slipped across the border into Canada, spraying rain and snow on Toronto and pelting the Laurentians of Quebec with what was expected to be a foot of snow. But its main force had been spent.

The Weather Bureau reckoned the blizzard "one of the biggest snowstorms of the century." The 23 inches dumped on Chicago in 29 hours and 8 minutes surpassed the 19.2-inch record for a single storm set March 25-26, 1930.

Chicago was hardest hit. Civic leaders estimated the storm would cost the city $35 million in lost business.

Temperatures tumbled toward zero in Chicago as police chased looters from the streets. The bone-numbing cold made it harder to get the snow off the streets so residents could get back to their cars, their jobs, their schools and their families.

A 10-year-old girl was shot to death in a West Side store during an exchange of gunfire between police and about 50 looters. A security guard was shot in the wrist and wounded during another looting episode in the same neighborhood, an area of West Roosevelt Road plagued last summer by three nights of Negro rioting and looting finally quelled by National Guardsmen.

Trains ran as much as 16 hours behind schedule.

Thousands of persons were stranded — in their cars, in service stations and in schools. Stores, short of supplies, rationed milk and bread.

More than 5,000 workers were snowed in at two steel mills in Gary and Burns Harbor, Ind. The New York Central Railroad dispatched an emergency train to plow its way from Cleveland into Indiana, bearing food and snow removal equipment for the stranded workers.

Angler Powell Vows He'll Pay Off Fine

BIMINI, The Bahamas (UPI) —Adam Clayton Powell said today he expects to be able soon to start paying off a New York court judgment that helped lead to his ousting from Congress.

At a well-attended news conference on this resort island, the free-wheeling Harlem Democrat discussed his new record album, introduced his attorneys and managers and talked about his court troubles.

PAYOFF PLEDGE

He said he expected to be able by Tuesday to pay $33,000 to Mrs. Esther James, a Harlem widow he was convicted of slandering by calling her a "bag woman" for New York police.

That is the amount of the original judgment, according to Powell. The rest of the $164,000, in accumulated interest, and other charges still held against him remain in litigation, he said.

Powell, who showed up for the much ballyhooed press conference in blue shorts and jacket, high blue socks and tennis shoes, also disclosed he was getting out another record and two books.

ANGLER'S HAUL

The media took the bait like the 1,306 pounds of wahoo, king, mackerel and barracuda Powell boated on his twin-engined 31-foot Adam's Fancy cruiser in the five days ending at 5 p.m. yesterday. It won him the local "World's Championship Fishing Rodeo" for the second time in two years.

They kept Chalks Flying Boat Service working overtime making it across the Gulf Stream from Miami, en route from New York, Washington and way points. They packed the Brown's Hotel and the Bimini Big Game Fishing Lodge.

There was a lot of happy talk about how many hundreds of thousands of pressings had already been ordered of the long-playing platter which Powell is counting on to bail him out of a $164,000 libel judgment that is the heart of his trouble.

"Keep the Faith, Baby," is the inevitable title, and Powell has assigned the 22 cents per copy royalty due him, as the chief performer, to a fund to pay off Mrs. Esther James. She is the Harlem widow he libeled, according to jury and inumerable judges, when in 1960 he called her a "bag woman" or graft collector for New York police.

SHE'LL RECORD, TOO

Powell, Harlem pastor and 22-year House veteran known as a swinger at home and abroad, has put in most of his time since Jan. 10 at his island hideout here. That was the day the House denied him his seat pending an inquiry.

When Adam's Fancy pulled into dock yesterday, there was no doubt how Powell had been spending the time.

When the weightmaster finished his work the bronzed and sports-shirted Powell was proclaimed King of the Rodeo and winner of the silver cup that promptly was filled with Veuve Cliquot Champagne, 1959, and passed from lip to lip as the assemblage of Powell's friends cheered.

Then Powell invited his buddies to the faded yellow frame hut from which the sign, "The End of The World Bar," had long since been taken by the wind.

He bought Cutty Sark for the house and mixed his with milk. Then he sat down for a hot round of dominoes with John the Baptist and other old friends.

"Where He leads me I will follow," they sang.

AIN'T IT FUN?

"Ain't it fun to be colored," said Powell.

Space Treaty Hailed As Cold War Hope

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Major compromises reached by the United States and Russia in the new space treaty hold out hope that the two world powers may be nearer to resolving their differences on earth.

The treaty, banning nuclear weapons in space and reserving the moon and other celestial bodies for peaceful purposes, was signed by 60 nations Friday at the White House and in Moscow and London.

It was the first major East-West agreement since the escalation of the Vietnam war. The last was the Nuclear Test Ban Treaty of 1963. Space treaty negotiations, which broke down last summer in Geneva, were later resumed in New York and a series of comprohises led to the agreement.

THANT PLEASED

U.N. Secretary General Thant hailed the treaty as an important landmark in "man's march toward international peace and security."

Soviet Ambassador Anatoly F. Dobrynin, who signed the treaty at the White House, expressed the hope "We shall not wait long for the solution of similar important earthly problems."

U.N. Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg, a U.S. signer, said he hoped the agreement could be followed by a nuclear nonproliferation treaty and by steps toward disarmament.

MONTHS OF TALK

Behind these statements of international goodwill lay months of tortuous negotiation. Among the key issues:

The United States insisted on the right to inspect Soviet stations on the moon. The Soviets said this could only be by "agreement," in effect giving them a veto. A compromise was reached allowing inspection after "reasonable advance notice."

The United States pushed through a provision that astronauts who land in the wrong country will be returned "safely and promptly."

TRACKING FACILITIES

The Soviets insisted any country permitting tracking facilities to be constructed on its soil should grant the same privilege to any other country seeking a tracking site. The final language promised that signatories would "consider" equal treatment.

The United States sought a provision allowing use of military personnel and equipment in space exploration, since most American astronauts are military officers. Compromise language was agreed on preserving the U.S. point.

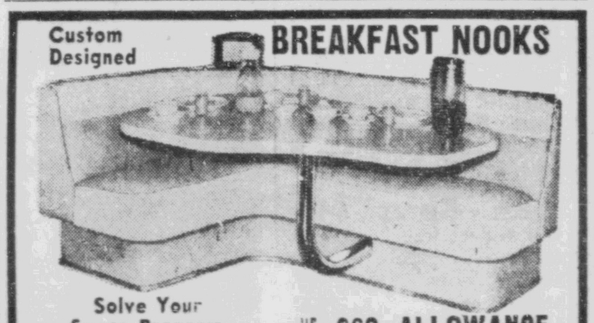

President Johnson called the treaty the "first firm step toward keeping outer space free forever from the implements of war."

Restaurant's Safe Prowled For $380

About $380 was reported taken from a safe at Burge's Drive-In, 6017 Redwood Highway, San Rafael by someone who evidently knew the combination, Sheriff's deputies said today.

The missing money was reported by office manager Dorothy L. Louis after she arrived for work Thursday. There were no signs of forced entry, said deputies.

TRAGEDY

The emergency escape system was closed to them, because the entire craft was locked in a protective gantry.

Fire hot enough to ignite metal seared and blackened the spaceship. Bodies of the astronauts were badly charred.

LBJ MOURNS

"Three valiant young men have given their lives in the nation's service," said a shocked and saddened President Johnson. "We mourn this great loss and our hearts go out to their families."

Twenty-seven launch pad crewmen were overcome by smoke in futile efforts to get through to the astronauts. Two were hospitalized.

Not until 1:55 a.m., more than seven hours after the fire broke out, were the bodies removed from the smouldering space ship.

"They didn't have a chance," said a NASA spokesman. "It was instantaneous."

Until this sudden disaster, so far unexplained, Americans had come through many daring space rides without a mishap. Three other astronauts had died, but in airplane crashes.

"If we die," Grissom once said, "we want people to accept it. We are in a risky business, and we hope that if anything happens to us it will not delay the program. The conquest of space is worth the risk of life."

The astronauts were in their space suits, in a pure oxygen environment, when the blaze flared up.

The spacecraft and rocket were not fueled and explosive devices aboard the spacecraft had been inactivated.

NEW TEAM

Navy Capt. Walter M. Schirra Jr., now steps into Grissom's role as command pilot for the first Apollo mission. Other members of the backup crew will be Air Force Majors Walter Cunningham and Donn F. Eisele, both space rookies.

Grissom, an Air Force lieutenant colonel, was one of the original seven astronauts and the first to ride a blazing rocket device into the skies.

With Navy Cmdr. John W. Young, he flew the first three-orbit mission in Gemini 3 and became the first man to maneuver a spacecraft in flight.

White, also an Air Force lieutenant colonel, was the first American to walk in space, orbiting outside the Gemini 4 spacecraft for 21 minutes.

Chaffee joined the space program in 1963 with the third group of astronauts after logging more than 18,00 hours in jet aircraft. He was a Navy lieutenant commander.

Parents of the dead astronauts were in seclusion, stricken with grief.

The President and five astronauts — L. Gordon Cooper Jr., M. Scott Carpenter, Neil A. Armstrong, Richard F. Gordon and James A. Lovell — were at the White House in the hour of tragedy. They were celebrating the signing of the treaty on peaceful uses of outer space.

Transportation Study Gets Federal Grant

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The Bay Area Transportation Study Commission has received a final federal grant of $450,667 to help finance its study in the nine-county Bay area.

The study, a $4.72 million project scheduled for completion in 1969, received a total of $1,083,000 from the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

Stubborn Blaze Hits Costly Tiburon Home

A stubborn, smoky fire destroyed about a third of a $42,500 Tiburon home, a car and a carport before it was controlled by Tiburon firemen yesterday afternoon.

The blaze started in the carport of the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Goheen Jr. at 347 Ridge Road while Mrs. Goheen was taking a nap.

She told firemen later that she awoke to smell smoke just before her 14-year-old son, George, saw the flames and called to her.

She called the fire department just as Fire Chief Franklin J. Buscher, who noticed smoke on the hill, was sounding the alarm. Young George sprayed the carport area, in vain, with a garden hose until firemen arrived.

Firemen, hampered by choking smoke, battled the blaze for 15 minutes and saw it spread to a large bedroom and bathroom in the house itself before bringing it under control.

The firemen wore masks because of the smoke and consumed their bottled air supply so that Belvedere Fire Department had to send a rescue truck with extra air tanks. A truck and men from the Alto-Richardson Bay Fire District were sent to stand by at the Trestle Glen fire station.

Chief Buscher said cause of the fire and the cost of damage are undetermined. The carport and a 1964 Chevrolet Corvair were total losses. Flames damaged a large bedroom and bath unit shared by the Goheen's four sons and there was smoke and water damage in the rest of the home.

Owner Thwarts Strawberry Store Thieves

An attempt by two men to drill their way into a Strawberry men's outfitting store was foiled by an unscheduled visit from the owner, sheriff's deputies reported today.

Robert R. Banks, owner of the store at 306 Town and Country Shopping Center, said he opened the front door at 11:49 p.m. Wednesday to pick up an address book when he heard a noise at the back. He saw two shadows.

The owner relocked the front door and drove to the rear of his store where he saw two men in the doorway. One had a drill in his hand.

At that moment, a camper truck drove up and the two men sprinted toward it and climbed in. Banks said he tried to head off the truck, but it was driven around him and the would-be burglars escaped along Belvedere Street.

Youth Who Fired Fatal Shot Made Ward Of Court

MARTINEZ (UPI)—A Pleasant Hill teen-ager, wrose random rifle shot killed another youth, was made a ward of the court Friday and ordered to take counseling from an outside agency.

Nicholas Antuna, 17, was released to the custody of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Maruillo Antuna of Pleasant Hill. He will remain a ward of the court until his 21st birthday.

Antuna was charged with voluntary manslaughter after the shooting death of Terry Maloney 18, Lafayette. Police said Antuna fired a random shot early Dec. 20 while working in a Danville Christmas tree lot. The bullet struck Maloney, who was riding in a car with his parents.

Blaze Damages Belvedere Yacht

A short circuit in electrical wiring set a fire which did an estimated $10,000 damage to a 40-foot sailboat at the San Francisco Yacht Club in Belvedere yesterday afternoon.

Fire in the cabin of the yacht, owned by Aldo Allesio of San Francisco, broke out at 1:30 p.m. Belvedere firemen controlled the blaze in about fifteen minutes.

Firemen, who estimated $10,000 damage to the cabin and the equipment inside, said the boat was plugged in to a dockside power unit at the yacht club. No one was aboard.

Cruelty Charged At Napa Hospital; Four Suspended

NAPA (UPI) — Four technicians at Napa State Hospital have been placed on involuntary leave after authorities investigated alleged abuse and mistreatment of patients.

Dr. Robert J. Spratt, superintendent and medical director of the hospital, announced the action but declined to give details of the reported mistreatment, it was learned yesterday.

Deputy Atty. Gen. Victor Sonenberg, who helped investigate the charges, said the alleged mistreatment consisted of "punching, goading and teasing patients."

Spratt said the technicians are now on forced leave and "possibly other technicians will be disciplined." The four are Jerold Duncan, 31; Clifford James, 34; Aaron Huddleston, 26, and William Green, 52.

The investigation was initiated after a group of technician trainees complained early this month of so-called "inhuman" treatment of patients.

FBI Checking On Dealings By Tiburon Man

A Chinese alien living in Tiburon may owe banks and importers $250,000 as a result of an export business he set up while in this country on a visitor's visa, the Federal Bureau of Investigation disclosed yesterday.

The FBI said it was investigating the dealings of Peter C. Wong, whose San Francisco-based firm, Mutual International Inc., was assertedly involved in shipping to importers in the Far East.

Investigators said 18 bills of lading, certifying that goods have been loaded aboard ships, have been found to be fictitious Wong allegedly sent them to importers through several Asian banks.

Wong, who once survived efforts to deport him, is now seeking permanent residential status in the U.S.

New Satellite Performing Well

WASHINGTON, (AP) — The government tried out its newest weather satellite today and reported the first results were excellent.

The first picture from the satellite launched Thursday showed weather patterns over the North Atlantic. It included the disturbance which caused record snows in the Illinois-Indiana area in the last several days before moving into Canada and out over the ocean.

WINTER

SEATO Charter was essentially a defense document which called for aid to any of the charter's members under attack after proper consultation. None of the signatories had been consulted and in any case Vietnam had not signed the charter, he said.

3. Containment of Communism. Winter contended China was giving no indications at the moment she was aggressive and that bordering countries, such as Mongolia and Burma, appeared to be in no immediate danger. He said, "In fact, other countries in Asia like Pakistan and Japan, are not at all worried about the threat of aggression. We are the ones who are interfering"

Winter, whose broadcasts to the Pacific during World War II won him the reputation as the "Voice of America" in that war zone, called the Vietnam war a tragedy:

"What we are doing in Vietnam — what they are telling us is lawful — is isolating us from the world, our biggest friends, our staunchest allies and our strongest supporters.

"They are gradually turning from the Goliath. They are not enthusiastic for our leadership. To be a good leader we must have loyal followers."

Looking to the future, Winter said he believed America wanted to stop the war but would not give up her foothold in South East Asia.

He said that if protests were to stop, the government might get the idea the policy "dictated" by the executive branch was meeting with approval.

Force of public opinion, he anticipated, would eventually force America to take decisive action to stop the war.

Douglas Stalls Execution Date

David Jacob Seiterle, 25, scheduled to die in the San Quentin gas chamber April 6, has been granted a stay of execution by U.S. Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas.

The stay was granted Friday, pending disposition of an appeal expected within three weeks.

Seiterle, of Riverside County, and two others were convicted in 1960 of the stabbing and strangulation of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Duvol, who also were robbed of $200.

Seiterle had argued the jury was not given guidelines in applying the death penalty.

WAR

In South Vietnam, two U.S. helicopters and a light observation plane were shot down by ground fire yesterday during widely scattered ground fighting.

In the northern part of the country, U.S. Marines reported killing 45 Communists in three actions with the help of artillery barrages and air strikes. In the central coastal region, units of the U.S. 1st Cavalry Airmobile Division and Vietnamese marines killed 21 of the enemy. Infantrymen of the U.S. 25th Division reported killing nine more.

U.S. headquarters said there were no casualties in the crashes of the two helicopters, one an Army craft and the other a Marine craft. The pilot of the spotter plane was listed as missing.

Every year about 25 million home accidents cause injuries serious enough to require medical attention or to restrict the activity of the victim for a day or longer.

OBITUARIES

Walter Wagner Dies At 68

Walter Wagner, retired chief rigger for the Radio Corporation of America, died yesterday at his Bolinas home at the age of 68.

Wagner's body was found at the foot of a flight of stairs and death may have been the result of an accidental fall, or a heart attack, according to County Coroner Donovan O. Cooke, who said an autopsy is to be performed.

Wagner was born in Plainfield, N.J., where he grew up and attended school. He joined RCA on the East Coast in 1919, when radio was in its infancy.

A little over 40 years ago, RCA set up its Bolinas transmitter, largest on the West Coast and asked Wagner to maintain them as chief rigger. The company agreed to pay his expenses west and to pay for his return east if he didn't care for Bolinas after a year's stay. Wagner stayed on the job in Bolinas until his retirement in 1962.

He was a member of Fairfax Lodge No. 556, Free and Accepted Masons and of the Bolinas Volunteer Fire Department.

He is survived by his wife, Alice; a son, Walter Wagner Jr.; two daughters, Annie May Crotts of Bolinas and Betty Helen Oleson of Petaluma; a brother Russell Wagner of Middlesex, N.J.; two sisters in New Jersey, Grace Wagner of Bound Brook and Edna Wagner of Plainfield; and seven grandchildren.

Funeral will be at 2 p.m. Monday at Harry M. Williams Mortuary, San Rafael.

JOSEPH AZEVEDO

Joseph Azevedo, 75, brother of Mrs. Minnie Morrell, Mrs. Louise Moran and Manuel Azevedo, all of San Rafael, died yesterday at his home at 72 Paradise Drive, San Francisco, after a long illness.

Azevedo, a retired laundry route salesman, was born in Marin County and lived here until moving to San Francisco about 40 years ago.

While in Marin, he worked as an apprentice butcher and projectionist at the old Lyric Theater in San Rafael.

A Navy veteran of World War I, he belonged to the American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Also surviving are his wife, Lillian; two sisters, Mrs. Yvonne Carey of San Francisco and Mrs. Barbara Olsen of San Bruno; a son, Clive Azevedo of Reno, Nev., and a sister, Mrs. Mary Costello of Tulare.

MARY A. HAYDEN

Requiem Mass for Mary Agnes Hayden, widow of former San Rafael Postmaster Hilary Hayden, will be at 9:30 a.m. Monday at St. Raphael's Church in San Rafael.

Mrs. Hayden, who lived at 1349 Lincoln Avenue, San Rafael, died in a local hospital Thursday after a long illness. She was 78.

Her husband died in 1955 and was postmaster in San Rafael from 1941 until the time of his death.

Mrs. Hayden, a native of California, lived in Marin County more than 30 years.

She is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Catherine Shaffer and Miss Analetis McFadden, both of San Francisco.

Rosary will be recited at 8 p.m. tomorrow at Keaton's Chapel in San Rafael. Interment will be at Holy Cross Cemetery, Colma.

EDNA S. INGRAM

Edna Sharp Ingram, mother of Robert S. Ingram of Belvedere, died yesterday in a Christian Science sanatorium in San Francisco. She was 76.

She was a native of California and lived most of her life in Gridley. Her husband, Raymond C. Ingram, died last year.

She was a member of the First Church of Christ Scientist in Boston, Mass.

Her survivors are two sons, Robert S. Ingram of Belvedere and Richard A. Ingram of Biggs, Butte County; a daughter, Barbara I. Leonard of Oroville.

Private funeral was scheduled today.

FLORENCE KITE

Florence Louise Kite, a resident of Marin County since 1951, died today in a San Leandro hospital to which she had been moved 12 days ago. She had been ill in Marin County hospitals since 1964.

Born in San Francisco, Mrs. Kite and her husband, Richard Kite, operated a turkey ranch in Marysville for many years. He died in 1946.

She was a member of the Ladies Aid Society; the Altar Society of St. Raphael's Parish, San Rafael; and the Confraternity of Christian Doctrine.

Mrs. Kite is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Hazel Hannigan of San Rafael and Mrs. Anne T. Price of Alameda.

Requiem Mass will be offered Monday at 9 a.m. at St. Phillip Meri Church, Alameda. Burial will be in Holy Cross Cemetery in Colma.

Rosary will be recited tomorrow at 8 p.m. at the Hagy-Keenan Mortuary in Alameda.

MRS. RUTH C. LEHMKUHL

Ruth Chatham Lehmkuhl of 303 Bridgeway, Sausalito, died yesterday in a San Francisco hospital after a short illness. She was 57.

She was formerly Mrs. George Tett until her marriage to Martin C. Lehmkuhl about six months ago.

A native of San Francisco, she graduated from the University of California at Berkeley in the class of 1932. Her sorority was Zeta Tau Alpha.

Mrs. Lehmkuhl was a director of the Sausalito Woman's Club and vice president of St. Bridget's Guild. She was a member of the altar guild of Christ Episcopal Church in Sausalito.

She headed the 1966 campaign in Sausalito for the Marin Chapter of the American Cancer Society.

She is survived by her husband; three brothers, William Chatham Jr., of Alameda, Russel W. Chatham of Sleepy Hollow and Carroll F. Chatham of Burlingame; and eight nephews and nieces.

Funeral arrangements are pending at N. Gray and Co. mortuary, San Francisco.

The family prefers memorial contributions to Christ Episcopal Church in Sausalito or the American Cancer Society.

RICHARD SUNDEN

Richard Sunden of Corte Madera, retired owner of a San Francisco auto repair business, died yesterday in a local convalescent hospital after a long illness.

Sunden, of 444 Oakdale Avenue, owned the Sunden Auto Repair Co. for 25 years until retiring 15 years ago. Upon retirement, he moved to Marin County. He was born in Sweden, coming to California 55 years ago.

He is survived by his wife, Linnea J. Sunden.

Services were held today at the Harry M. Williams Mortuary, San Rafael. Inurnment was in Mount Tamalpais Crematory,

TEACHING TOOL—H. Russell Hill, San Rafael High School teacher, prepared transparencies for use with projector in teaching composition through new method. Aim, he said, is to teach students how to build sentences, paragraphs and entire themes by example.

San Rafael Teacher Streamlines Writing

By FRANK FARRARA

These are the days when a high school student can see his handwriting on the wall and learn composition in the process.

The aim is "clarity of communication," explained H. Russell Hill of Fairfax, an English teacher at San Rafael High School, who has prepared a series of visual aids for teaching composition.

By this method, a student's composition is shown via a projector on a screen or wall for the class to view and comment upon.

"This makes the student writer involve himself with his audience rather than just answer a red pencil," said Hill. "Student audiences are tougher."

When a student writes his composition he has to decide what he wants to say, and when it is shown he finds out "if it says what it is supposed to say."

A visual presentation is more dramatic and has an advantage over reading a composition, Hill said.

This approach is not based on grammar, he noted. "You don't have to be an expert in grammar to write well." Under the old system, they take sentences apart to find out what the parts are, "but that isn't really connected with the business of writing."

The search now is to find "how you put it together," he said.

Old textbooks went "from simple to compound to complex sentences, but we look at good professional writing," he said. "A lot of educators don't know what writing consists of, so we look at how professional writing is built."

In his visual aids series, for which he arranged transparencies and wrote two teacher guides, there are samples of writing by Mark Twain, Ernest Hemingway, Rachel Carson, and the late President Kennedy, he said.

The emphasis of the series is "on building rather than tearing apart," Hill said. "By the use of overlays, phrases and sentences can be built out."

Hill's series is scheduled to be published this fall by the ThreeM Co.

Woman Motorist Hurt In Sausalito

Sherrin M. Benzler, 21, of South San Francisco, suffered minor injuries at 2:05 a.m. today when her car collided with a vehicle driven by Alan Rooney, 49, of 17 Tradewind Passage, Corte Madera, in front of 1203 Bridgeway, Sausalito, police reported.

Complaining of a back injury, she said she would see her own doctor.

Thief Kicks Door Open, Steals TV

Theft of a television set and a table radio in a burglary of the home of Donald Schilling at 54 Buckelew Street, Marin City, was reported yesterday by Sheriff's officers.

Deputies said entry apparently was made by kicking open a locked front door.

John Kovacs of 205 Tiburon Street, California Park, told officers someone pried open a locked rear door of his home and stole a camera and an undetermined amount of small change. Deputies said the intruders apparently were frightened off because they abandoned one of Kovac's suitcases which they had filled with more loot, including a transistor radio and jewelry.

John Edward Field of 40 Glen Road, Ross, told officers someone broke into a barn owned by George Charles Perry of San Francisco at the end of Crest Road, Fairfax and stole 10 bales of hay, two sacks of molasses meal, a sack of oats, and seven 55-gallon barrels used in a horse jumping ring in the barn.

Teen-age volunteers are collecting rain to help study a well-known but little understood phenomenon—the breezes that flow in from water to land during the day and out again at night.

Veterans Reception

A reception for new officers of Marin Barracks 550, Veterans of World War I will be held Thursday at 1 p.m. in the Community Recreation Center, Second and Brooks Streets, San Rafael. All future meetings of the barracks will be held on the first Thursday of every month.

Narcotics Talk

Louis Noel, Marin County agent of the Bureau of Narcotics Enforcement will speak on "Narcotics and the Teen-ager in Marin County" at the annual meeting of the Greenbrae Property Owners Assn., Feb. 7 at 8 p.m. at Greenbrae School. The agenda includes election of the 1967 board of directors.

College Adult Classes Lag

Registration for evening, noncredit courses at the College of Marin has been considerably lighter than expected, so it has been extended for another week, according to Dr. Eugene Farrar, assistant dean of adult education.

Students can register for evening classes Monday through Friday next week, from 9 a.m. to 7 p.m. Registration was to have ended yesterday.

Farrar said about 550 persons have registered, compared to a normal pre-registration of about 1,500. About 3,000 persons normally attend adult evening classes each semester, Farrar said, but about half of them enroll on the first night of class.

Final registration for evening credit classes will be Thursday, 7 to 8:30 p.m.

The long-abandoned Peter's mine in Guayana, South America, may have a production potential of about 160,000 or more ounces of gold.

Suspect Pleads Guilty On Check

Charles M. Byrnes, 29, pleaded guilty in Marin Municipal Court yesterday to an amended complaint charging him with a misdemeanor offense of passing a worthless $50 check.

Judgment is Feb. 16.

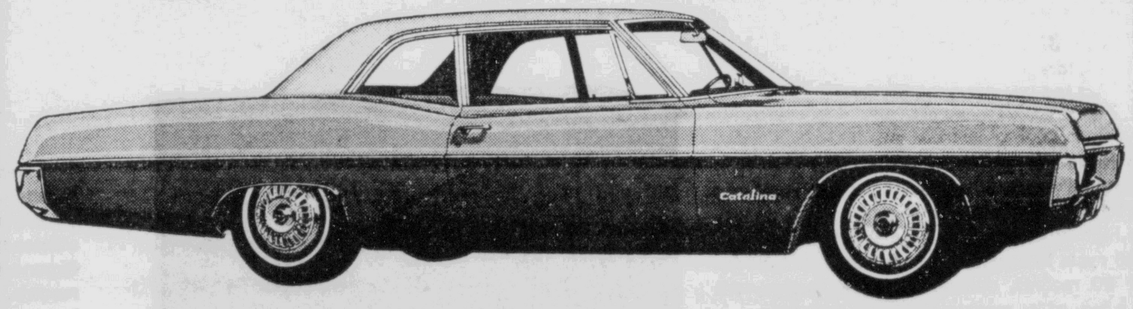

Byrnes, with the Navay at Coronado, San Diego County, originally was charged with forging two $50 checks on July 28 with intent to defraud Bradford S. Clark of 111 San Gabriel Drive, Fairfax.

OLDER CREAMPUFFS

Here are four of the cleanest older cars we've had in a long, long time. We usually sell them off to a used car lot but these were good enough to keep and sell ourselves.

'59 FORD 9-PASS. WAG. $395

Here's a really exceptionally clean, 9-passenger 4-dr. Country Sedan with V-8, automatic, power steering, radio, heater and lots of extras. Lots of life and use in this older wagon that local family just traded on new Buick.

'58 Chev. Sed. $345

A realy clean little V-8 4-dr. Bel Air Sedan with automatic, radio and heater. One owner car that we just took in trade on new Buick. Former owner has really taken loving care of this Chevrolet that would make a wonderful second car or car for the college boy.

'57 Ford Hdtp. $195

'56 Buick Hdtp. $195

White and green 2-dr. Special hardtop coupe with automatic, radio, heater, power steering etc. Used mainly by local family as second car. Clean as a whistle inside and out. Top shape mechanically for a 1956 car.

SYMBOLS FOR STARS IN ORDER OF BRIGHTNESS

Five Planets Visible In February

By JAMES STOKLEY
Science Service

All five naked eye planets -- Mercury, Venus, Mars, Jupiter and Saturn — will be visible on February evenings.

However, they will not appear at the same time since some will set before the last rises. Only one is in the sky at the times for which the accompanying maps are drawn.

Toward the southwest soon after sunset Venus, brightest of all the planets is visible. Long before the sky is completely dark it can be easily seen. On Friday evening, Feb. 10, the narrow crescent moon, about a day and a half past new, will stand a little to the right of Venus.

Probably the next planet to appear will be Jupiter, about a third as bright as Venus. It is in the constellation of Cancer the crab.

Saturn also is in the sky in the early evening but still fainter, about a 25th as bright as Jupiter. Standing in the southwest, in Pisces, the fishes, Saturn sets more than three hours after the sun on Feb. 1. Later in the month it sets earlier.

The moon, still a crescent, passes south of Saturn on Feb. 12. On Feb. 23 Venus passes north of Saturn.

Mercury, innermost of the planets, is so close to the sun that it appears in the evening only when it is fartheset east of the sun, which occurs on Feb. 16. For a few days around this date near dusk, Mercury can be glimpsed very low in the southwest. It will be about one twelfth as bright as Venus at this time.

Mars, the last of the naked-eye planets to appear, rises about 11:30 p.m. (your own kind of standard time) at the beginning of February and about 10 at the month's end. The "red planet" is in Virgo, the virgin, and about one-eighth as bright as Jupiter.

The accompanying maps show the skies as they appear about 10 p.m. on Feb. 1; 9 p.m. on Feb. 15 and 8 p.m. on Feb. 28. Jupiter is shown high in the south, in Cancer, the crab. Just below it is Canis Minor, the lesser dog, with brilliant Procyon. Still lower is the greater dog, Canis Major, where Sirius shines. Also called the "dog star," Sirius is the brightest star in the nighttime sky.

Higher than Sirius, and to the right, is the beautiful constellation of Orion, the warrior, with two first magnitude stars—Betelgeuse (above) and Rigel. Between them is a row of three fainter stars that are supposed to from the warrior's belt.

Taurus, the bull, is above and to the right of Orion, with the brilliant reddish star called Aldebaran. In the old mythical figures that were once drawn around the stars, Aldebaran marked the eye of the bull.

Almost directly overhead (shown partly on the northern sky map, partly on the southern) is Auriga, the charioteer, with still another star of the first magnitude — Capella. To the southeast of the zenith is Gemini, the twins, with the first magnitude star, Pollux. Quite close to Jupiter, to the left of Cancer stands Leo, the lion, with the bright star named Regulus.

In these articles we often refer to a star's magnitude, a term which may be a little confusing to one who is not familiar with the astronomical brightness scale. Those with the lowest numbers are the brightest stars.

This system was introduced about 120 B.C. by a Greek astronomer named Hipparchus, who prepared a catalogue of 1,080 stars. He divided them according to brightness into six classes, or magnitudes. The brightest were first magnitude and the faintest were classed as magnitude six. In more recent years, with accurate measures of star brightness, astronomers found that an average star of one magnitude is about 2.5 times brighter than the next magnitude fainter.

Later the system was adjusted to make the difference between each magnitude 2.512. This makes a difference of five magnitudes, e. g., between one and six, equivalent to a brightness ratio of 100.

The scale has been extended both upward and downward. Sirius and Canopus are considerably brighter than first magnitude, so they are given negative numbers: Minus 1.4 and minus 0.7. The sun, on the same scale, is magnitude minus 26.7.

The scale has been extended in the other direction, as larger telescopes revealed fainter stars. With even a small telescope you can se stars as faint as magnitude 10. The world's largest — the 200-inch Hale telescope atop Mt. Palomar in California — can photograph stars as faint as magnitude 23.

Commission Will Study Merger

The Marin County Local Agency Formation Commission Thursday is to consider consolidation of its duties with those of the Marin City-County Services Committee.

The meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m. at the Civic Center.

Commission executive officer John F. Barrows said he doubted the commission would go into the consolidation matter at length, in light of the Council of Mayors and Councilmen's turndown of the proposal last Wednesday.

Also on the commission agenda is the proposed 41-acre Maggiora and Ghilotti annexation to San Rafael. City officials are expected to ask that this be continued to the March meeting, Barrows said.

Preliminary 701 Study Presented

Planning consultants for Mill Valley's "701" program Thursday night presented a 22-page preliminary analysis of the program's goals to a 10-man citizen's committee advising the city on the program.

Planning Director Harvey E. Bragdon said the committee will review the analysis by Cooke and Sedway and Duncan and Jones on Feb. 9 at 8 p.m. in City Hall. The one-year $27,000-program to plan future development of commercial areas is to be completed this summer.

Transport Chief Practices Safety

LONDON (UPI) — Frowns turned to smiles for British Minister of Transport Mrs. Barbara Castle when she arrived half an hour late at a school prize-giving ceremoney and she explained why.

Mrs. Castle, whose responsibilities include regulation of road and highway traffic, confessed: "I was held up in a traffic jam."

Campbell Honored

LONDON (AP)—Queen Elizabeth II today awarded posthumously her commendation for brave conduct to speed ace Donald Malcolm Campbell, who was killed on Coniston Lake Jan. 4 when his jet-powered speedboat Bluebird overturned at more than 300 miles an hour.

Lethal Gas Found

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Police have recovered a five-pound cylinder of lethal gas, stolen from an exterminator's truck. The container, plus several cans of deadly weed killer, was found in bushes at McLaren Park. Police received an anonymous tip about their location.

Planners Approve Car Wash Service

Fairfax Planning Commission Thursday night approved an application for a self-service car wash business between 1573 and 1581 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, providing owner Donald K. Sherwood of San Rafael conforms to certain restrictions.

The restrictions involve access and exits and hours of operation, according to Mrs. Dell Blodgett, secretary to the commission.

Decision on an application by Paul D. Buchholz of San Rafael for rezoning land at Sir Francis Drake Boulevard from residential to commercial was postponed until county planners come up with their ideas of how the area should be zoned.

A rezoning application by Mrs. Mae E. Ralston of 71 Forrest Terrace which would permit a duplex was denied by the commission on the grounds it would be spot-zoning, said Mrs. Blodgett.

Rain Is Blamed For Car Pileup

Thursday's rain and a morning commute traffic contributed to a three-car collision on the Greenbrae Overpass in which one driver was injured.

California Highway Patrol reported that as traffic slowed on the crest of the rain-slick overpass, a southbound car driven by Eugene Mark, 65, of Sonoma, hit the rear of one driven by Leonard Alvin Kay, 41, of Santa Rosa and forced it into a third car driven by Stephen Manton Hardy, 24, of 647 Francisco Boulevard, San Rafael, at 7:30 a.m. Kay told the patrol he would see his own doctor for minor injuries.

Don't Worry Too Much About Facts

VAN DELLEN

Keep Well—Jan. 28—Dandruff Mor

Dandruff is a constant flaking off of the outer layers of the scalp. The scales are pieces of dead skin and are not, as many believe, particles of dried out oil. The bran-like flakes are gray or white in color and are more unpleasant from the aesthetic than the physical point of view. The only harmful aspect of dandruff is the irritation produced by scratching and the dermatitis and loss of hair that follows neglect.

WHEN THE disorder is severe, the powdery scales fall off whenever the hair is combed and brushed, or the scalp is scratched. If the scalp is studied carefully the scales are seen to accumulate in round patches until they are shed.

Thereafter, they gather along the hair shaft or fall on the shoulders like snow.

The hair may become dull and unruly and now and then dry and thin. Various microorganisms live in the scales but whether they are harmless intruders or actually cause dandruff is a disputed subject.

A yeastlike organism, for example, is found frequently, yet it has been isolated just as often from those without dandruff.

NOT EVERYONE with scaly flakes on the scalp has dandruff. Psoriasis is one of the exceptions. In this disease the scales have a silvery sheen and are heavy and coarse. Furthermore, involvement of the skin or nails may coexist, which helps in establishing the diagnosis.

Ringworm often is mistaken for dandruff and in some instances scaliness represents unusual dryness of the skin which has existed since birth.

THERE ARE many remedies but, in general, successful treatment requires the following regimen: perseverance, the frequent use of a soapy shampoo, and the application of a scalp lotion or ointment. Ordinary green or tar soap works as well as anything.

Several ointments are available but during the last decade selenium sulfide seems to be holding its own. This prescription product is simple to use and not only relieves itching but control scaling. Several applications may be necessary to keep the scalp clear.

ALCOHOLIC PSYCHOSIS

J. Z. writes: What is Korsakoff's psychosis?

REPLY

A type of insanity resulting from years of overindulgence in alcohol. The victim suffers from memory failure, emotional disturbances, and what is called "retrograde falsification" in which tall tales are told about imaginary experiences. Neuritis in various parts of the body and cirrhosis of the liver often accompany the condition.

WHISTLES IN SLEEP

Mrs. L. writes: What causes my husband to whistle in his skeep?

REPLY

If his front teeth are separated, the noise occurs as he breathes in and out through the narrowed openings. Whistling also is associated with the absence of two front teeth, as you will recall from the song, "All I want for Christmas is my two front teeth (whistle)."

ADHESIONS

New Sheriff Patrol Chief Takes Oath

Richard Cordall of San Anselmo was sworn in as captain of the Marin County Sheriff's Patrol last night at a ceremony at the Loch Lomond Yacht Club.

Taking office with him were William Muggenthaler of San Rafael, lieutenant; Al Miller of Novato, yeoman; Norman Tomlin of Fairfax, purser; and William Muggenthaler Jr., sergeant-at-arms.

Marin County Sheriff Louis P. Mountanos administered the oath to the new officers. Sheriff's Inspector Bowen Bridges presented the past president's trophy to outgoing captain Charles W. Yancey.

It was announced the patrol's new airboat has been refurbished and outfitted for service by the 78th Field Maintenance Squadron at Hamilton Air Force Base.

Money Order Charge Heard

August Anton Pfelzgraff, 52, was arrainged in Marin Municipal Court yesterday on a felony complaint charging him with possession of unfinished money orders with intent to defraud Travelers Express Co.

Span Director, Lawmaker Meeting Has Possibilities

SENATOR JACK McCARTHY'S proposal for a conference meeting of all Golden Gate Bridge directors with all state legislators from Bridge District counties has great possibilities.

McCarthy has perceived the essential truth that bridge directors and legislators "should start pulling together instead of in different directions."

FOR SOME YEARS the bridge board has seen fit to employ a legislative advocate for $10,000 to $16,000 per year to defend the bridge district against adverse legislation.

At the same time, the six bridge district counties are represented in the legislature by a total of four senators and eight assemblymen. Individually, a high proportion of these lawmakers are, like Senator McCarthy and Assemblyman Bill Bagley of Marin, quite influential.

This year, the proceeds of the sale of nearly 2500 commute books (at $6.50 each) will be required to meet the cost of hiring the bridge lobbyist at the capitol. This means that commuters will have to turn in their tickets for more than 100,000 crossing, just to pay for lobbying.

This just doesn't make sense at all.

THE RESPONSIBILITY OF both legislators and bridge directors to the public is clear. They must get together, as Senator McCarthy has said, "to exchange ideas and resolve differences" and thereafter "pull together instead of in different directions."

One thing that all the legislators should comprehend at the outset is that the best interests of Marin and San Francisco and all the counties of the bridge district demand that the district be continued in existence beyond the retirement of the present outstanding debt in 1972.

IT HAS BEEN A DREAM of more than three decades that when the last of the construction bonds are paid off in 1972, the bridge could become both debt free and toll free, with the State Department of Public Works taking over its administration and maintenance, using gasoline tax funds to pay future costs.

This makes sense. All bridge users are heavy gas tax payers. The bridge is on a state highway route. The state should maintain the bridge with gas tax funds.

But a new element has made itself evident in recent times.

Long before 1972, the Golden Gate Bridge will be inadequate to handle the mushrooming volume of traffic between San Francisco and Marin (and the bridge district counties to the north).

It is easy enough to say, "Let the state solve that problem."

Remember, however, the state would not and apparently could not solve the original problem; the district had to be formed to build the Golden Gate Bridge in the first place.

Look at the San Francisco-Oakland Bay Bridge. For more than two decades both San Francisco and the East Bay have felt the need for another crossing. The state has not yet come close to starting construction of a second crossing there.

One has finally been commenced, not by the state, but by the Rapid Transit District.

The toll revenues being piled up on the Bay Bridge are NOT available to help finance the Rapid Transit crossing. This is another thing that doesn't make sense.

If we allow the Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District to be liquidated, we can find ourselves in the same position.

If we retain the Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District, we will be keeping "the goose that lays the golden eggs."

The way is then open to use Golden Gate Bridge "profits" to help build a second crossing, presumably an under-the-bay rapid transit tube.

THERE IS INDICATION that San Francisco Senator McAteer's threats to seek dissolution of the Bridge District are in some way connected with his political ambitions in San Francisco.

On the one hand he threatens the bridge district's very existence; and on the other hand Senator McAteer criticizes the bridge district's hiring a lobbyist to defend its very existence.

To repeat, Senator McCarthy's proposal for a meeting of bridge directors with all the dozen legislators of the six bridge district counties makes good sense.

As he says, they should all be pulling together "for the public good" instead of pulling in other directions for other reasons.

HANDWRITING MAKES A DIFFERENCE

Poor penmanship causes plenty of trouble.

A delivery man in Washington, D.C., for instance, misread a scribbled order for fuel oil and pumped 385 gallons through a disconnected intake into the basement of a house from which the tank had been removed.

A bank in Philadelphia has a large "Who am I?" account for money turned in with unreadable deposit slips.

The toll resulting from bad handwriting costs American business about $70 million a year. Scrawled bills, orders, tickets, invoices and checks create waste, confusion and ill will.

Carelessness in small matters does more than hamper personal development. Chain reaction effects trigger inconvenience and hardships for countless others.

Ask God to help you do little things well and you will be preparing yourself for the bigger challenges of life.

"To act faithfully is a matter of your own choice." (Sirach 15:15)

Enlighten me, O Holy Spirit, so that I may see the far-reaching effects of even the smallest efforts.

Ex-Marinite Sad Over Storm News

Editor, Independent-Journal:

I was most unhappy to read in the local newspaper, The Parkersburg (West Virginia) Sentinel, the sad news concerning the heavy rains that plague Marin County and the Pacific Coast.

As a former Marin County resident, I am sending you this photograph (of collapsed duplexes in San Anselmo) and article with fond memories of Marvelous Marin.

The thoughts of many residents of the Untied States are with you, the fine residents of Marin County. With sincere hopes that the rains will subside.

High-Assessed Farm Owner Must 'Squeak'

Editor, Independent-Journal:

I have just been notified that the assessor, Marin County, is raising my land assessed valuation 220 per cent. This land has been in the family over 100 years. We are farmers not speculators. We cannot use the Williamson Act (Open Space legislation), which becomes a cloud on our title, nor AB-80 which is to make assessors smell like a rose and we cannot afford this bill. It will add $200 more in 1968 to this assessed valuation.

What Sonoma County will do to the balance of my ranch I am fearful of, when the assessor will not reveal the percentage of market value now used. The State Board of Equalization says he is below 20 per cent of market value. AB-80 says he must use 25 per cent of market value in 1968. So at the very least will be over a 5 per cent increase.

You food consumers and picketers should take note. I am at the age I will not produce at a loss. Most buyers of land are not farmers, so this productive grass land becomes speculative land, hedge against inflation land, income tax loss land, etc.

There is one ray of hope, Marin County Taxpayers Plan:

1. Do away completely with assessors office and staff.
2. What will the tax collector have to do? Nothing, so that will be closed up too.
3. The auditor staff should be reduced. Possible savings of over 1 million in either Sonoma or Marin counties.
4. The State Board of Equalization could collect an estimated 3.5 per cent gross transaction tax. Supervisors, cities and districts would make up budgets as now but could not increase it more than 8 per cent a year. Think of the relief this would give the elderly home owner who is being forced to sell the family home and go on relief.

To do this I need your help. Our new Governor has pledged relief for property taxpayers. The best Christmas present I have received was a personally signed letter from Gov. Ronald Reagan, in answer to a letter in regards to this matter. He cannot do this without help. The legislature must act-so write to your assemblyman and state senator. It is the squeaking wheel that gets the grease. Please help me squeak loud and long.

Handling Of Death Story Is Criticized

Editor, Independent-Journal:

I have often wondered exactly what the difference is between a good newspaper and a bad one. Now I think I know part of the answer.

I refer specifically to the article in your Jan. 20 edition regarding the young mother of three who lost her life in a tragic accident.

The fact that a very young girl who was to be remarried in two weeks was killed and three small girls were left motherless evidently counts for less than the fact that a relative of hers has been accused of a crime.

She was a separate entity, with thoughts and hopes and dreams for herself and her children, as are all of us. Anything else is superfluous and a deliberate attempt to seek out even a smattering of sensationalism.

I think we in Marin need another newspaper.

Handicapped Editorial Liked

Editor, Independent-Journal:

We note with satisfaction your editorial of Monday, Jan. 23, concerning the "Growing Trend Toward Hiring the Handicapped", and congratulate you for your stand.

For six years our agency has operated a two fold program for the mentally retarded handicapped in Marin County: a sheltered workshop for the severely disabled who are unable to work in competitive industry, and a limited program of work placement in industry for those more capable.

This year, with the advent of acceptance of other handicaps in our training and evaluation program, it will increasingly necessitate finding jobs for our trainees. We, too, "laud the enlightened attitude of business firms for taking the lead in widening the horizons of employment for the handicapped." We hope other businessmen will follow this lead, but there is an additional need.

For those disabled who are unable to compete in community employment, but are able to work in a sheltered environment, there is a need for local industry to provide sub-contract work to be done in the sheltered workshop. This is in essence "hiring the handicapped", and some Marin County industries have contributed work, notably; Handcraft from Europe-Importers, E. D. Bullard and Company, Trade Fair and Modern Community Workshop for the Handicapped, in this fashion.

Hoover Neutrality Being Used Against Soviet Consular Treaty

WASHINGTON (AP) — In the field of spying, J. Edgar Hoover is the American version of the Delphic Oracle. Politicians make a pilgrimage to the 73-year-old director of the FBI, seeking his words by phone or mail.

Hoover sticks in the public mind while staying pretty much out of the public picture except for an occasional statement on crime or communism or, more rarely, an argument.

NO ONE KNOWS better than Hoover he would not have been boss of the FBI 42 years if he had played politics. But this doesn't discourage politicians, or others, from sometimes interpreting what he says to suit their own purposes.

There's a recent example of it.

Almost three years ago the United States and the Soviet Union agreed on a treaty letting them open consulates in each other's country instead of being limited to an embassy, as they are now.

Because the treaty couldn't go into effect until the Senate approved, in 1965 Hoover was called before Congress to say what he thought of it.

He said Soviet consulates in the United States, staffed by Russians, would mean just that much more opportunity for Soviet spying and more work for the FBI.

THIS WAS interpreted by senators who opposed the treaty as meaning Hoover was against it, too. Right-wing outfits, seizing upon Hoover's words, rained letters on senators, protesting the treaty.

That same year the Senate's Foreign Relations Committee, after considering the whole problem, put its blessing on the treaty. But it still needed approval by the full Senate and it never got there.

The Democratic leadership held the treaty back, believing the opposition was too strong. Now once again the committee is holding hearings and this year the full Senate is expected to act, one way or the other.

But Hoover had never said he was against the treaty. He never said he favored it, either. What he did say was that once the Soviets opened consulates in this country life would be tougher for the FBI.

This week Secretary of State Dean Rusk, speaking for the Johnson administration on behalf of the treaty, went before the committee and made this main point:

Having American consulates in the Soviet Union would better protect American tourists there while the treaty itself would remove some of the difficulties in American-Soviet relations.

He acknowledged that permitting Soviet consulates in this country would increase the chances for Soviet spying. But he insisted the risks were small and could be handled by the FBI.

Rusk had a letter from Hoover explaining that his 1965 testimony about the increased danger of Soviet spying if consulates were opened did not mean he was opposing the treaty.

Then Sen. J. W. Fulbright, committee chairman, produced his own letter from Hoover, saying about the same thing. Fulbright favors the treaty. But another committee member, Sen. Karl E. Mundt, South Dakota, Republican, is against it.

Mundt had a third letter from the FBI boss in which Hoover spoke of extra work the consulates would mean for the FBI. But this time the Democratic leadership seems to think the full Senate will approve.

The irony in all this is that, while Hoover was talking about the increased danger of Soviet spying in this country if Soviet consulates were opened, little was said about American spying in the Soviet Union if American consulates were opened there.

Small Business Loan Vital To Minorities

By WHITNEY M. YOUNG JR.

That store on the corner may not seem like much, but it represents a livelihood to the folks who own it and provides service and convenience to the people in the neighborhood. Small business ownership is the fulfillment of the American dream of "being one's own boss" and it provides jobs for about 30 million people.

The economic health of a neighborhood is measured by the success of its small businessmen. They give a community a firm financial base. That is why it is such cause for concern that so few Negroes own their own businesses; about 1 per cent of Negro workers are self-employed, compared to 4 per cent of white workers.

THE ECONOMIC GAP which separates Negro citizens from the white majority won't be closed until Negroes play a greater role in business. This is something which should be encouraged by all levels of government as well as by industry.

The federal government had a program which was designed to help poor persons open their own businesses. Two years ago the Office of Economic Opportunity set up Small Business Development Centers around the country to make low-cost loans to such persons and to give them the training and counseling they needed. People went off relief roles and unemployment lines to open hundreds of small stores in ghetto areas.

No bank would have taken a chance on them, but the SBDC did, as a result, they became taxpayers instead of taxtakers. Although they were high credit risks, their defaults on loans were a mere 1 per cent.

LAST YEAR however, the centers were transferred out of OEO and into the Small Business Administration. New loan restrictions went into effect and the new rules with their tighter restrictions on applicants and types of business to be helped, have slowed the program. The majority of loans made in the past could not be made today.

This policy is short-sighted at best, and is a severe blow to thousands of persons who could have regained their economic dependence and strengthened the economy of ghetto areas. Instead of cutting back this help, efforts to encourage small business ownership should be expanded.

AN EXAMPLE of what might be done is a recently announced policy in New York City. The city's finance administrator said that city funds, which on any given day run from $20-$100 million, will be placed in banks which have branches in the ghetto and which agree to make loans to ghetto businessmen.

In order to get the city's deposits, they will have to expand job opportunities for people in poor neighborhoods, and also provide loan and management advice, teaching merchants in depressed areas the latest techniques in marketing, sales and credit.

Loans for such businessmen have been hard to get, and such a program can help stabilize the commercial life of the ghetto and expand job opportunities there. This is of course, no substitute for the SBDC programs which were aimed at the poor and those who couldn't ordinarily qualify for bank loans, but it is a program which could have far-reaching effects and should be emulated by other governmental bodies as well as private corporations.

CORPORATIONS and successful businessmen can help too. They can share their knowledge and experience with struggling storekeepers and small businessmen in the ghetto.

Such a program has been in operation through the Interracial Council for Business Opportunity, an organization of volunteer business executives and technicians who provide advice and counsel to less experienced small businessmen. The results of their efforts can be seen in many prospering enterprises.

There are thousands of people who, with a small assist in the form of loans and counseling, can set up small businesses which provide jobs and services to the community, and attain economic independence themselves.

IT IS HIGH TIME that government and industry gave priority to helping them.

Red Hot Spots Along The World's Longest Border

By HENRY S. BRADSHER

MOSCOW (AP) — While the Chinese are temporarily absorbed in internal conflict, the Russians are paying apprehensive attention to their long border with China.

There is a growing recognition in the Soviety Union that it has become a hostile border. The Soviet Communist party and government are trying to make sure the people understand this.

The 4,150-mile border, the world's longest between two nations, is a disputed one.

China has vague claims to Soviet territory as vast as all of Britain, France, West Germany, Italy, the Low countries, Switzerland and Denmark combined. More specific border treaty problems involve almost as much land as Belgium and the Netheralnds.

The border dispute is not itself the reason for today's bitter antagonism between Moscow and Peking. But that antagonism, arising out of reaction to the artifical sense of Communist brotherhood, has given new importance to the border dispute.

The Soviet Communist party is holding meetings throughout the country to tell the people that Chinese policy is anti-Soviet. The Defense Ministry newspaper says Chinese soldiers are being taught that the Soviet Union is their enemy — which means Soviet soldiers should realize that China is their enemy.

The Chinese Foreign Minister, Marshal Chen Yi, was recently quoted as saying the Soviet Union is cooperating with the United States and other countries to surround China. He accused Moscow of planning an invasion of China.

Chen Yi said the Soviet Union had moved 13 divisions — about 150,000 soldiers — from East Europe to the Chinese border.

Western publications had said earlier the Russians had 12 divisions close to the Far Eastern part of the border. Estimates of the number of divisions along the Central Asian part are unavailable. Whether the 12 and the 13 add together to mean 300,000 Soviet soldiers facnig China is unclear.

Moscow rumors of Soviet troop buildups on the Chinese border are impossible to confirm, but 300,000 might be too low a figure for Soviet soldiers within effective distance of the border. Reports from Taipei say Communist China has 17 border divisions facing the Soviet Union. The Russians do not comment on such reports.

It is hard to be sure just what the territorial dispute currently involves, the big, vague Chinese claims or the smaller specific border problems. The Russians are obviously determined to hold everything they now administer and show on their maps — which are generally followed by international aps.

Mao Tse-tung wrote in the 1930s and has repeated in recent years that Tsarist Russia illegally seized Chinese territory. "We have not yet presented our account," Mao said in 1964.

Tsarist Russia, expanding during the 19th Century, annexed 594,500 square miles that were at the time outside effective Chinese control. The territory was annexed by imposing unequal treaties on Peking the Chinese say.

This territory is in three sections. The largest, perhaps most important to the Soviet Union, is the Far Eastern region north and east of Manchuria. It contains the big military base at Vladivostok, industrial centers at Khabarovsk and Komsomol-on-Amur, and the Pacific end of trans-Siberian communications. Sakhalin Island is also involved in this area.

Another part lying west of China's Sinking Province includes some of the Soviet Kazakh and Kirgiz regions. Alma Ata, an industrial city, is there but the area is of little economic consequence.

The third part is the wild and unimportant Alichur Pamir Mountains of Soviet Tadzhikistan, touching China and Afghanistan. In 1920 the new Bolshevik government declared that it "renounces all the annexations of Chinese territory . . . and returns to China . . . all that was ravenously taken from her by the Tsar's government. . . ."

But the territory was not returned and some Chinese officials do not seem to expect ever to get it back. Chen Yi said last May that China is willing to take the unequal treaties "as the basis for settling the Sino-Soviet boundary questions and does not demand the recovery of the Chinese territory annexed by Tsarist Russia."

But, Chen Yi said, the Russians not only want to hold onto all the treaty territory but take more. Therein lies the smaller-scale dispute over specific boundaries, involving perhaps 23,000 square miles.

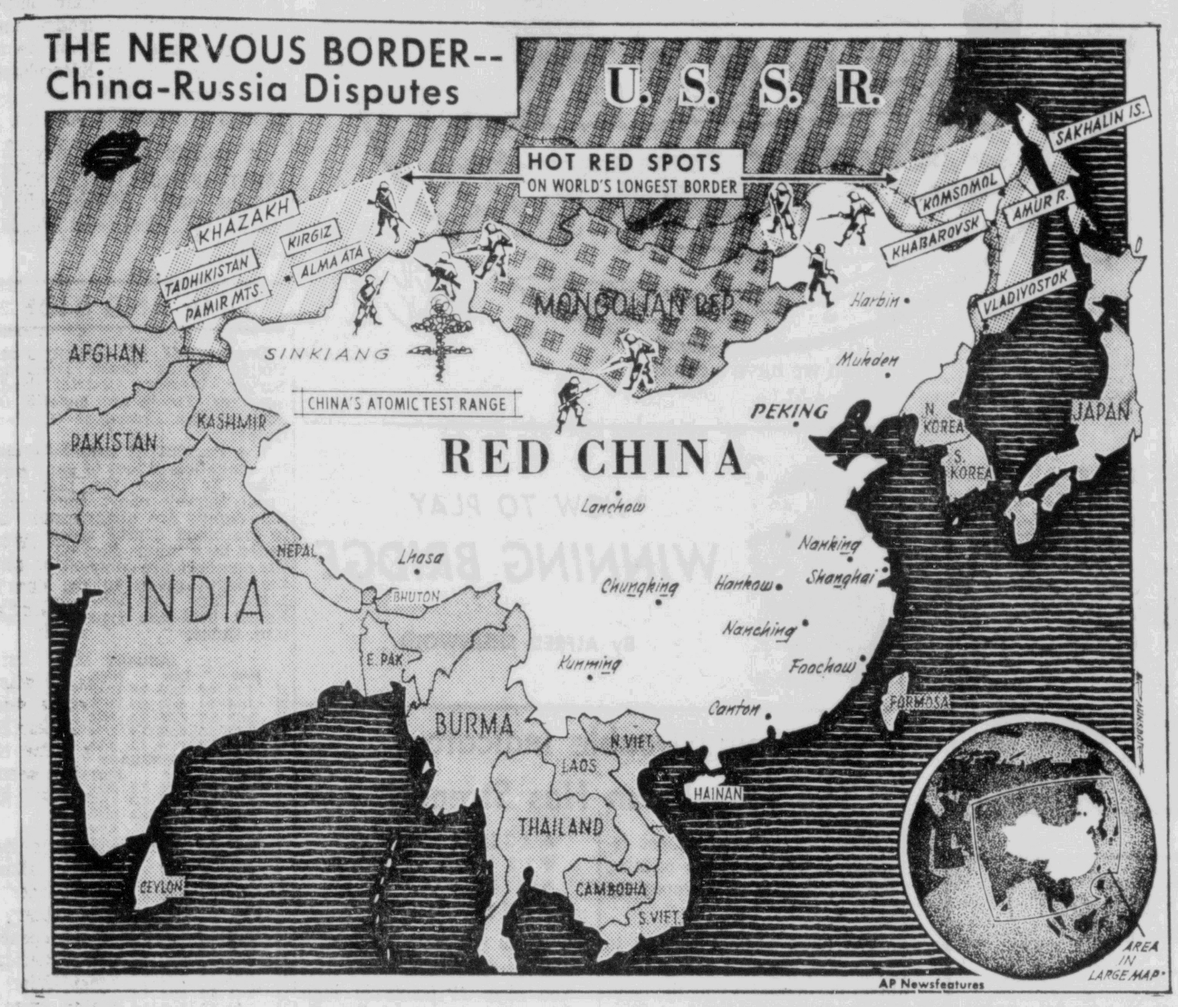

The Alichur Pamir Mountains area was never covered by a Russian-Chinese treaty. The Russians simply agreed with British India on borders in that remote area where India (now Kashmir, involving both India and Pakistan), Afghanistan, China adn Russia meet.

Other disputed points are along China's Manchurian border. At Manchouli on the western end is a small area where, the Chinese say, the Russians have encroached beyond the treaty line. The border is mostly formed by rivers and is unclear, especially where many channels of the Amur and Ussuri Rivers meet near Khabarovsk.

Soviet and Chinese delegations began talks on these specific disputes in 1963. They broke down with the general worsening of relations.

Now relations have become so hostile that the whole question of territorial disputes is part of a long-term problem between the two antagonistic giants of communism.

Congress In Too Deep Now To Back Out On Approving Space Feat Funds

WASHINGTON (SS) — Congress is in too deep to back out now. Having committed the country to spending $20 billion to land two men on the moon, the federal legislators would be less than popular if they promptly thereafter started cutting back the space program.

As a result, funding for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, which in fiscal 1967 fell below $5 billion for the first time since 1963, has exceeded the mark again in the $5.05 billion fiscal 1968 space budget Preisdent Johnson sent to Congress this week. NASA Administrator James Webb, using the commitment as a lever, has a good chance of getting most of what he wants.

If Congress buys the package, men in orbit around the earth for an entire year and on the moon for two weeks will be among the space spectaculasr to follow the first manned lunar landing in about two years.

Both are part of a plan to get more use out of expensive Apollo hardware, a plan that is getting by far the biggest boost of any item in NASA's budget for fiscal 1968—a whopping 568 per cent.

This jump is so great, that even though the Gemini program is over entirely and the Apollo moon project's funding is down almost $310 million, NASA is asking $45 million more for manned space activities than it did for the current fiscal year.

To get an early start on the Apollo Applications Program (AAP) NASA has proposed that in calendar 1968 it send some of the AAP equipment aloft aboard practice flights of the Saturn rockets that will later provide the push to the moon.

Such equipment, which would be "stored in orbit" until it was needed, might include upper-stage booster rockets, or adapters to convert empty fuel tanks into "instant space stations," complete with airlocks.

Space science, including physics, astronomy, unmanned lunar and planetary probes and biosatellites, will also get a major economic shot in the arm, NASA hopes, even though launch vehicle development is so far along that it can stand a $23 million cut — more than 40 per cent.

The chop also reflects NASA's feeling that despite considerable pressure for a reusable booster, there is not nearly enough space traffic to warrant such an expense.

The biggest new chunk of space science money will go for a string of Mariner probes that will go to Venus in 1967 and Mars in 1969 and 1971, plus a Voyager spacecraft that will orbit Mars and land a capsule on the surface to look for extraterrestrial life.

For the Voyager program, which has had to content itself with a paltry $11 million in fiscal 1967, down even from the $17 million sum the previous year, NASA is requesting almost $72 million.

A smaller, but equally interesting, area of growth is NASA's research into aircraft technology. The proposed budget calls for a raise from $35.9 million to $66.8 million, an indication of the value of NASA's research to the aviation industry, such as in the development of a supersonic transport.

In addition, the space agency is finally getting its administrative kinks straightened out, and has reached a plateau of facilities construction. Construction and administration costs have dropped drastically, from 9.5 per cent of the total requested amount to a mere 3.4 per cent.

IN THE ASSEMBLY

GOP Picks Up 10 Chairmanships

SACRAMENTO (AP)—Republicans and Southern California shared large gains in new Assembly chairmanships announced this week by Speaker Jesse M. Unruh.

Reflecting their gains at the November polls, the Republicans nabbed 11 of the 26 chairmanships. Last year they had exactly one. That leaves Democrats with 15.

Southern California, coincidentally, also got 11 chairmanships, reflecting another gain, in the number of legislators from south of the Tehachapi Mountains since reapportionment.

The important chairmanship of the Ways and Means Committee was retained by Robert W. Crown, D-Alameda. But a Republican was chosen to head the Revenue and Taxation Committee, John G. Veneman, R-Modesto.

Veneman's committee will play a key role in the Assembly's consideration of Gov. Reagan's budget.

The chairmanships also reflect another fact of life in the 1967 Assembly: New faces. A total of 21 freshman legislators, eight Republicans and 13 Democrats. The veterans get the chairman ships.

Unruh also announced that two former committees had been eliminated altogether and two added.

The old ones were the Civil Service and State Personnel Committee, and the Military Veterans Affairs Committee. The new ones are the State Personnel and Veterans Committee and the Retirement Systems Committee.

Unruh said that "the distribution of committee assignments reflects our determination to carry out the mandate given to the Legislature by the people when they voted 3 to 1 for Proposition 1A (reapportionment)."

The speaker said that most assemblymen will serve on no more than three committees and the membership of the committees has been slightly reduced "to encourage greater participation and greater concentration by committee members."

Other committee chairman are: Alan G. Pattee, R-Salinas; Agriculture; Pauline Davis, D-Portola, Conservation and Wildlife; Edward E. Elliott, D-Los Angeles; Constitutional Amendments; W. Craig Biddle, R-Riverside, Criminal Procedure;

Leroy Greene, D-Sacramento, Education; Jack R. Fenton, D-Montebello, Elections and Reapportionment; Kent H. Stacey, R-Bakersfield, engrossment and Enrollment; Bob Moretti, D-Van Nys, Finance and Insurance; Harvey Johnson, D-El Monte, Government Organization.

Lester A. McMillan, D-Los Angeles, Governmental Efficiency and Economy; Walter W. Powers, D-Sacramento, Industrial Relations; Charles J. Conrad, R-Sherman Oaks, Interstate Cooperation; William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, Judiciary; Willie L. Brown Jr., D-San Francisco, Legislative Representation.

Joe A. Gonsalves, D-LA Mirada, Rules; Eugene A. Chappie, R-Cool, Social Welfare; George W. Milias, R-Gilroy, State Personnel and Veterans Affairs; John F. Foran, D-San Francisco; Transportation and Commerce; Carley V. Porter, D-Compton, Water.

BAY AREA LIVING WITH TIME BOMB

San Andreas Fault Hasn't Jolted Hard Since 1906—When Will It Shake Next?

By JAMES O. CLIFFORD

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—I live about 60 feet from a timebomb which the experts say could go off anytime.

The "bomb" is the San Andreas earthquake fault which ticks in the earth's bowels along a 650-mile stretch of California's coast.

It just misses San Francisco, coming up out of the Pacific and slashing south through my San Francisco suburb of Daly City, a community of 60,551 which owes its birth to the fault.

After the great San Francisco earthquake and fire of 1906, which killed 452 persons, thousands of refugees fled to a huge dairy ranch owned by John D. Daly in what was then Vista Grande, a town with 50 inhabitants just south of San Francisco. From that beginning the town burgeoned.

The question today is will there be more quakes and if so what will be the chances of the homes and skyscrapers now in San Francisco and its environs?

To study and keep track of the area's earthquake potential the U.S. Coast and Geodetic Survey recently opened its National Center for Earthquake Research at Menlo Park on the San Francisco peninsula and just a few miles from the San Andreas.

The survey has "listening posts" along portions of the San Andreas and Hayward faults. The latter runs through the east bay area and combines with the San Andreas which runs to southern California.

Louis C. Pakiser, acting chief at the center, and his staff of more than 50 scientists hope they will eventually be able to predict earthquakes. Meantime there is little doubt among the scientists that California will have otner earthquakes, but few are willing to estimate where, when, or how big.

What would happen if they could predict the exact time and location of a temblor? Would people start leaving San Francisco or Los Angeles? Presumably this would depend on the circumstances, but scientists at a panel session of the Commerce Department's Environmental Science Service Administration agreed that evacuation would be a monumental task.

There is an alternative to evacuation—buildings and installations built to roll with the punch. This is the job of the structural and foundation engineers.

Henry J. Degenkolb, 53, a former president of the California Assn. of Structural Engineers, isn't sure things are entirely as they should be in the latter regard. He says that in the event of a major earthquake in the area not all present construction would be up to it and there "would be failures 10-story, 20-story or higher buildings of very recent vintage and supposedly designed to meet our earthquake code provisions."

(San Francisco's skyline in recent years has been changed by construction of high-rise apartment buildings and gleaming office structures, with some new buildings ranging from 35 to more than 50 stories high.)

"I'm not going to say which buildings," Degenkolb said. "You can say that I think there are several buildings in the Bay Area that have a great probability of coming down."

"After seeing Anchorage, I know we're going to have some major failures," Degenkolb said, referring to the disastrous 1964 Alaskan quake.

Yet these buildings have "supposedly been designed to meet our earthquake code provisions," he added.

"The building code becomes a handbook. And because it can be used in many respects as a handbook, engineers try to use it as a handbook on earthquake resistant construction."

The answer, Degenkolb thinks, is in "professional competence and education."

If a 10-story, steel-skeleton building can fail, what about the wood-framed homes along the faults?

Degenkolb took out a picture of a farm house, right on top of a fault and built before there was a code. The wooden structure had survived the 1906 jolt, he said, explaining that the wood frame tends to give with the shake and has given a good account of itself.

This Week In The World

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

Placed end to end, five billion single dollar bills would span the distance between the earth and the moon almost two times.

Placed in the hands of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration for fiscal year 1968 that much money may help land an American on the moon at least once.

In his budget message to Congress this week President Johnson called for that sum to initiate an effective follow-up of this nation's efforts toward a manned lunar landing.

"We will explore the moon," Johnson said. "We will learn to live in space for months at a time. Our astronauts will conduct scientific and engineering experiments in space to enhance man's mastery of that environment."

The space and technology outlay was only a fraction of the money asked by the President for the conduct of the war in Vietnam.

Johnson said that the expenditures necessary to support military operations in Southeast Asia will total $22.4 billion in 1968, more than one-third of the budget expenditures for national defense which reached a whopping $73.1 billion.

And even this figure was dwarfed by the record-breaking total cash budget for fiscal 1968 of $172.4 billion—a far cry from the $7,776 million spent by this country in 1789.

Around The World; Around The Nation:

Saigon: U.S. authorities disclosed that American combat troops have taken up permanent positions in the Mekong Delta for the first time. The area has long been dominated by the Viet Cong. The weeks-long Operation Cedar Falls ended with more than 700 Viet Cong reported killed.

Saigon: A total of 6,978 Americans were reported killed and 39,977 wounded in action in Vietnam since Jan. 1, 1961.

Hong Kong: Peking Radio claimed that forces loyal to Mao Tse-tung had crushed a 200,000 member "private" army in bloody clashes in the continuing power struggle on mainland China.

Chicago: Smashing winds and snowstorms of record depth roared into the Midwest leaving behind many dead and paralyzing highway movement.

Reopening Double Indicates The Frenchman Has Strength

When an opponent cannot respond to his partner's opening bid of one in a suit, reopen the bidding.

The hand usually belongs to your side, and it is overly timid to let the opponent play the hand undisturbed at one of his suit.

North	East	South	West
Pass	Pass	1 ♡	Pass
Pass	Double	All Pass

Opening lead — ♡ K

When today's hand was played in the European Championships last September, a Portuguese expert opened the South hand with one heart in the match against France.

Some experts might prefer to bid one spade, but there's nothing outlandish about the heart bid.

West passed casually, hoping that South would get into trouble. North also passed, hoping that the opponents would let South go down quietly.

HOW TO REOPEN

In this situation, a bid of one spade would show a fair suit but a weak hand.

CONVERTS DOUBLE

West was glad to convert the takeout double into a penalty double by passing.

He opened the king of hearts, planing to draw trumps.

South refused the first trick, took the next with the ace of hearts, and led the king of spades to East's ace.

East returned a low diamond, and South finessed with the 10, losing to the king.

West drew trumps and then led a low club, after which the defenders took the rest of the clubs.

South was lucky to get four tricks, but the penalty of 800 points didn't make him feel particularly lucky.

It's worth noting that East would have let South off the hook by reopening with a bid of one spade.

A reopening double allows partner to spring the trap if he has been lurking in wait for declarer.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with one spade, and the next player doubles.

You hold:

♠ A J 10 5 4
♡ 7 3
♦ Q 7 4
♣ K J 2

What do you say?

Answer: Redouble.

You have 11 points in high cards, 1 point for the doubleton, and at least 1 point extra for length in trumps.

You intend to jump-raise in spades later, thus showing game-going support.

ALMANAC

Today is Saturday, Jan. 28, the 28th day of 1967 with 337 to follow.

The moon is approaching its last quarter. The morning stars are Mars and Jupiter.

Polish concert pianist Arthur Rubinstein was born on this day in 1889.

On this day in history:

In 1922, the roof of Washington's Knickerbocker Theater collapsed under the weight of heavy snow, killing 95 persons.

In 1963, Harvey Gantt became the first Negro to attend school with whites in South Carolina by enrolling without incident at Clemson College.

A thought for the day — American writer Henry Brooks Adams said: "Chaos often breeds life, when order breeds habit."

600 Expected To Attend College Conference On World Missions

More than 600 college students and college-age youth are expected to attend the seventh annual World Mission Conference to be held Feb. 3-5 at Golden Gate Baptist Theological Seminary.

Conference theme will be "God's Action—My Response."

Plenary session addresses will be given by Rev. Bill Lawson, pastor of Wheeler Avenue Baptist Church, Houston, Tex., and Dr. Glendon McCullough, personnel secretary of the Southern Baptist Home Mission Board. Also Dr. David Lockard, director of missionary orientation for the Southern Baptist Mission Board.

Twenty-five seminars will project the conferees into every area of Christian mission in the nuclear age.

Missionaries on leave from their fields, including Paul Box of Malaysia, Ted Lindwall of Guatemala, and Samuel DeBord of Rhodesia, will give first-hand information on the life challenges and opportunities of the Christian mission.

Seminary leaders include Dr. Eva Marie Kennard, director of International Student Work, University of California, Berkeley; Dr. Ernest Guy, assistant professor of anesthesiology, U. C., Medical School, and chairman of the seminary's board of trustees; and Rev. Travis Wiginton, pastor of the Foothill Baptist Church, Los Altos, and a former missionary to Korea.

Two faculty members, Dr. Francis M. DuBose, professor of the Chair of Missions and Evangelism, and Dr. J. Edward Humphrey, for 18 years a professor in the Nigerian Baptist Seminary, will lead seminar discussions.

Dr. Robert Lee, professor of ethics, San Francisco Seminary, will join with ethicist and sociologists to lead discussions concerning the present social crises.

Personnel secretaries of the Foreign and Home Mission Boards will outline new advances in mission opportunities for young people, including the Journeyman program, an overseas assignment, and the US2 program for domestic mission service.

Unique mission services to language minorities, transients, and socially deprived groups will be presented by missionaries who now serve in these areas.

The conference will begin at 7:30 p.m. Friday, Feb. 3, in Broadus Hall on the Strawberry Point campus. The closing session ends at noon Sunday.

THE FOUR CHURCH CORNER IS NO LONGER

A church on all four corners is no longer true in Jacksonville, Ill. Last week the steeple of the former Central Baptist Church came down. The church had been at the site since 1832. In the column "Believe It Or Not," the intersection was listed as the only one in the world with a church on all four corners. The other three remaining are (left to right) First Baptist, Grace Methodist and Trinity Episcopal. (UPI Telephoto)

New Officers Installation Is Tomorrow

Good Shepherd Lutheran Church of Novato will install new officers at tomorrow's 10:30 a.m. service.

To be seated are Lt. Col. Glen Grews, president; Martin Fossum, vice president; Maj. Ray Fredrick, secretary; Larry Nelson, treasurer; Gaylord Headrick, financial secretary; David Eisenhauer, assistant treasurer.

Also Peder Bakken, Roger Bow, Roy Johnson, Kurt Knobelauch, Robert Sletten and Lt. Col. Frank Wegner, councilmen.

At a meeting on Tuesday the new board decided to work with five committees as outlined by the proposed constitutional change.

Chairmen selected were Fossum, evangelism and worship; Gay Headrick, stewardship and finance; Wegner, education, and Bakken, property and management.

The council meets at 8 p.m. on the third Tuesday of each month.

Four Classes Underway At Jewish Temple

A joint seminar of Jewish studies is being held on Monday nights for six weeks at Temple Rodef Sholom, 170 North San Pedro Road.

Classes on the Bible are being taught by Rabbi Morton Hoffman of Temple Rodef Sholom and beginning Hebrew by Mrs. Milton Nichaman. Both are held on Mondays from 7:30 to 9 p.m.

The basic Judaism workshop, given by Morris Bode, and Israeli folk dancing by Jeff Moss, are held on Mondays from 9 to 10:30 p.m.

Grace Cathedral Conference Scene

The Episcopal Diocese of California, which includes churches in Marin, will hold its annual convention at Grace Cathedral in San Francisco on Feb. 3 and 4.

Presiding at the meeting will be Rt. Rev. C. Kilmer Myers, who was recently installed as the diocese's sixth bishop.

Students To Discuss Issues Close To Them

Beginning on Sunday, Feb. 5 and continuing on Feb. 12, 19, and 26, high school students throughout the greater Bay Area will discuss current problems on KXKX-FM, the United Presbyterian Church's closed circuit network.

The 90-minute program, beginning at 7 p.m. each of the four Sundays, will feature folk-rock music, discussion of current problems, and audience phone-in conversations.

Marin Presbyterian churches with closed KXKX circuts include the Belvedere-Tiburon church, San Anselmo First Presbyterian, San Rafael First Presbyterian, Novato Presbyterian and Christ Presbyterian in Terra Linda.

NEW DIRECTOR—Msgr. Edward T. O'Meara, pastor of St. Louis aCthedral, has been named national director of the Catholic Society for the Propagation of the Faith. He succeeds Bishop Fulton J. Sheen. (UPI Telephoto)

Special Quiz For Children

A quizz between the fifth and sixth grade students will be held by the Novato Community Methodist Church at 2 p.m. tomorrow at the church.

Parents of these children will also take part, backing up the answers of the children. All questions in the quiz are based on the curriculum used during the winter quarters, "The Church."

Leaders will be Mrs. Peter Pierrett, fifth grade teacher; Ray Dougherty, sixth grade teacher, and counseling teacher Art Howell.

Ecumenical Venture

NEW YORK (UPI) — The United Presbyterian Commission on Ecumenical Mission and Relations and the Catholic Foreign Mission Society of America have announced plans for joint publication of a unique multi-media communications service, entitled NEW.

Special Class To Be Given For 6 Weeks

"The Predicament of Man and the Way Out" will be the title of a course taught by Garrett Conklin, starting Feb. 7, from 8-10 p.m., for six consecutive weeks at the Community Congregational Church of Belvedere-Tiburon, 145 Rock Hill Road, Tiburon.

Conklin is assistant to the dean of the Layman's School of Religion in Berkeley. His course deals with the way in which faith renews man by providing him with a new understanding of his indentity.

It will show how an understanding of the Bible gives a sense of direction in solving today's moral dilemmas and personal alienations.

There is a fee for the course, which is open to the community, not just to church members. The church may be called for further information.

Special Officer Rites Tomorrow

Newly elected officers of Christ the Victor Lutheran Church, Fairfax, will be installed at services tomorrow.

To be installed are Cliff LeRud, president; Charles Starhlendorf, vice president; Doti McAuliffe, secretary, and James McKennedy, treasurer.

Eliot Is The Name

ST. LOUIS (UPI)—Rev. William Greenleaf Eliot, who resigned as pastor of the Church of the Messiah Unitarian here became first chancellor of Washington University, originally called Eliot Seminary. Now, Thomas H. Eliot is starting his fifth year as Chancellor. The two Eliots are distant cousins.

Many Issues Are Viewed By Chaplains

Almost any problem that could possibly be confronted by an Army chaplain came under scrutiny at a recent three-day chaplain's conference at Fort Baker.

Calling upon civilian as well as military specialists, the conference director, Lt. Col Boyce H. Creamer presented a spectrum of subjects that ranged from the danger of drugs and drug addiction to the impact of contemporary change upon the American family.

The subject of drugs and addiction was discussed by Fred Dick, district supervisor of the Federal Bureau of Narcotics while Dr. Ralph Lane, chairman, department of sociology, University of San Francisco, spoke on the problems confronted by the average American family of today.

Other civilian speakers were Robert M. Podesta, assistant district attorney, San Francisco County, and a Berleley Baptist Divinity School professor, Boyce Van Osdel.

Besides being addressed by Col. Melvin R. Russell, 6th Regiment deputy commander, the conferees were briefed by region staff officers and heard a presentation by Lt. Col. Phillip B. Remark, deputy chaplain of the Sixth U. S. Army.

Other speakers were Edward Weber of Sixth Army who discussed funding; Col. Thomas B. Hauschild, chief, department of psychiatry and neurology, Letterman General Hospital; Rabbi William Z. Dalin of San Francisco, and Lt. Col. Robert R. Keim, chief of Letterman Hospital's Psychiatric Consultant Department.

Youth To Present Church Program

Sleepy Hollow Presbyterian Church in San Anselmo will observe Youth Sunday at its 10:30 a.m. rites tomorrow.

Speakers will include Don Stone, Carolyn Molica, Judy Gurall and Nancy Schultz, speaking on "What Faith Means to Me." Junior choir members will offer the anthem, "I Want to Be A Christian."

Mission Program Is Topic Of Adult Inquirers Class

Mrs. William F. Halpenny will speak tomorrow at Novato Community Methodist Church's adult inquirers class.

Speakers next month will include Dr. James Kershaw of Novato High School on Pompeii, Italy, during 79 A.D., Feb. 12; Joseph D. Gargiulo, also of Novato High School, academic community at San Quentin, Feb. 19, and Lt. William Porter of the California Highway Patrol, "Christian Principles and Law Enforcement," Feb. 26.

The class is directed by Donald A. Jackson, who each week invites guests to discuss various issues, school positions and general problem areas of interest.

Poll Against Public Church School Funds

NEW YORK (UPI) —A Gallup Poll of the adult American population on whether public taxes should be used to support religious schools as well as public schools shows 38 per cent for, 50 per cent against, and 12 per cent undecided, says The Catholic Digest, which sponsored the survey.

The overall percentages were only slightly changed from an identical poll in 1952, but Jewish sentiment against such aid to religious schools skyrocketed from 49 per cent to 74 per cent since the last survey. Catholic opinion in favor of public taxes for religious schools dropped 8 percentage points, possibly, says Catholic Digest, through fear of outside control. Protestant totals remained practically unchanged.

Divinity School Film At Services

As part of Theological Education Sunday, St. Stephen's Episcopal Church in Belvedere will present the film, "Into the Harvest," at both 9 and 11 a.m. tomorrow. The film describes the life at Church Divinity School of the Pacific in Berkeley.

Week Of Evangelism Will Start Tomorrow

The Southern Marin Assembly of God Church in Mill Valley will launch a week's evangelistic program tomorrow.

Speaker for the week, including tomorrow's 11 a.m. and 7 p.m. services and nightly at 7:30 through Feb. 3, will be Rev. George Holmes.

Rev. Holmes pastored a church in London, England, during World War II and was also a teacher at the Assemblies of God Bible College in London.

He has also served in Bay Area churches and is presently a traveling evangelist.

Castillo Features Bloomers—

By SHEILA WALSH

PARIS (UPI)—Bloomers, buttons bermuda shorts and bosoms sparked the French spring-summer high fashion shows today.

The Castillo collection, the first on this fifth day of Paris showings for international buyers and press, was short-skirted and youthful.

Carven, the second house on the fashion program, was equally jaunty but featured bosoms for evening.

The bloomers came out in the Castillo collection in pale yellow chiffon with jeweled cuffs set above the knee. The top was long-sleeved, with a plunging neckline slit to the jewel belted waist.

BERMUDA SHORTS — A hot item in Paris this season -- were shown for night and day at Castillo. He gave them an off-beat, schoolboy look for day-time. One outfit consisted of navy blue flannel shorts worn with an elongated, brass-buttoned jacket, matching navy blue stockings and a navy-and-white polka dot silk blouse with a Lord Byron bow.

Shirt buttons formed a bulls-eye pattern on a short, black knit sheath. A pale pink wool coat with a slight flare had collar and cuffs made of larger pearl buttons.

Castillo kept his skirts three or four inches above the knee and encased legs in opaque textured stockings. Low-set, loose belts and pocket details marked suits and coats.

THE CLASSIC FRENCH beret was the hat of the Castillo collection. It was worn flat as a pancake and tilted over the face.

The daisy was Castillo's favorite spring-summer flower. He put them on flat, black patent leather shoes, on belt buckles and used long stemmed daisies as appliques down the front of his knits.

The House of Carven paid some attention to the bosom — a generally overlooked portion of the feminine anatomy this fashion season.

Carven cut evening bodice like bras to give maximum exposure and shape. One gown was in a hot pink crepe, with a big inverted pleat giving flow to the back and dangling pom poms highlighting the neckline.

Yellow was the top color in the Carven collection and stockings were kept pale and sheer. He showed a flaring acid yellow flannel coat with half belt in back over a silk dress in a dark, geometric print. The dress was a whirl of pleats and belted with a gold chain.

The jackets of the Carven collection were long — sometimes turning into three-quarters coats. Belts were favored in this collection. In some cases this designer used two — as in a beige gabardine dress with pockets, pleats, long sleeves and one slim belt in orange and another in green. Both were set low.

THE BRIDE — the traditional closing number of every Paris collection — appeared to be a setup for bigamy at Carven. There were two brides — one wearing a white gown embroidered with fans and the other wearing a gown stitched with feather fans. The lone groom who escorted both wore a short tail coat with a gold vest.

FIT FOR A QUEEN

Britain's Monarch Discards Queenly Garments For Needy

LONDON (UPI) — Any day now some fine lady in London's East End slum district will be wearing a coat or dress fit for a queen — and in fact, though the wearer won't know it, it will have been worn by a queen, Queen Elizabeth II.

This is usually the time of year when the British queen goes through her wardrobe with her maid, Margaret Bobo MacDonald, and assistant dresser, Peggy Hoath, to see what she will keep and what she will discard.

The discards include all sorts of queenly garments except the so-called "state" gowns, which are pulled apart and destroyed. The rest have the labels and all other identifying marks removed and then are turned over to various centers for distribution to the needy.

As she discards, the queen also must plan ahead for what she'll need in the months ahead. This year, among other things, she'll be visiting Canada, Austria, Denmark and other places and will need the proper wardrobe for all occasions.

In planning her wardrobe the queen consults not only her immediate assistants but her dressmakers, Norman Hartnell and Hardy Amies, who prepare sketches and submit materials for Queen Elizabeth's selection.

Once, as a bride, Elizabeth always consulted her husband, Prince Phillip, first. Today she doesn't trouble as a rule. She is smart, she is elegant, she has good taste and the magnificence of her state evening gowns is nationally recognized.

Few, however, would claim that the queen, at 40, is a leader of popular fashion in 1967. The mass market is geared at the moment to ideas designed by the young for the young and such things as the mini-skirt are hardly regal.

The queen is keeping her hemline at the knee. She has to follow certain royal rules and these include getting in and out of cars without showing an undignified amount of leg.

She also wears colors that will stand out in a crowd. Apple green is sure to be featured in her new outfits because she likes the shade very much. The same goes for daffodil yellow, which many experts consider suits the queen better than any other color.

Even if the queen isn't a leader of fashion now, she has chalked up some memorable successes. She spent much thought on what she would wear on her American tour in 1957, made a success out of it and entered the list of the world's 12 best dressed women.

QUEEN ELIZABETH'S state gowns, such as seen at left on a 1966 visit to Belgium are pulled apart and destroyed when no longer useful, but her other clothing, such as the day-time dress and coat worn to a ceremony at London's Guildhall, is stripped of labels and identifying marks and turned over for distribution to the needy. THE SUBURBAN SCENE

Entertaining For Visitors From Midwest And Sao Paulo

By MOLLY MARIN

Guests from St. Paul, Minn. "fleeing from the snow" visited Dr. and Mrs. H. Corwin Hinshaw in Belvedere last week. The Hinshaws entertained Dr. and Mrs. Corrin Hodgson at luncheon at the Dock restaurant in Tiburon on Saturday and at a small dinner party at their home on Belvedere's West Shore that evening.

MOLO LOWELL, who has a craft school for children and collection of antique toys in Mill Valley, had one of her more unusual experiences Thursday that she has had over many years of following her hobby of doing things for children. While she was having lunch at the Bermuda Palms restaurant in San Rafael, a group of more than 100 children from Sao Paulo, Brazil, came in with their leaders.

Since Mrs. Lowell speaks French and the children spoke a French-Spanish patois, she was delighted to be able to talk with them. Before they left she had rushed out and bought candy and little gifts for each one of them and invited them to her studio.

AFTER THE COVE PLAYERS performance of "The Seven Year Itch" tonight the players will get together to celebrate three birthdays at a party at Tiburon Tommie's restaurant, next door. Honored will be the star of the show, Mrs. John B. (Maudee) Wilcutt, Bill Carter, president of the players, and Mrs. Marie McDonough, secretary. Also cause for celebration by the cast and members of the little theater group is news of the extension of the play's run for two more weekends beyond the originally scheduled Feb. 11 closing date.

TWO HUNDRED socialites, local dignitaries and art aficionados have been invited to a champagne reception at the Tiburon Gallery at 7:30 p.m. tonight. Hosts are Mr. and Mrs. Paul Allsman, who will be assisted by their daughters Leonarda, Annette and Karen, Mr. and Jrs. Gerald R. Schiffman, and Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Lowe. Mayor and Mrs. John R. Moore of Belvedere, and Mayor and Mrs. John S. Hoffmire of Tiburon will be among the guests who will have an opportunity to preview the art gallery before it opens officially on Monday.

Haase-Rothrock Betrothal Told At Birthday Party

On the occasion of her 21st birthday yesterday the engagement of Virginia Lee Rothrock to Gottfried Haase was announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry D. Rothrock of Ross.

The sister of Kate and Meg Rothrock, Virginia is a junior at the University of California at Davis. She was graduated from Redwood High School.

The future bridegroom, who is completing work on a Ph. D. degree at the Davis university campus, has a master's degree from U.C. and is a graduate of the Agricultural University of Vienna.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Walther L. Haase of Maria-Enzersdorf, Austria, and the brother of Gertrude and Walther Haase.

The couple will be married after his graduation in June and plan to live in Europe.

Mill Valley Church Setting For Baucom-Craig Nuptials

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Clifton C. Craig of Modesto and the late Mr. Craig. The bridegroom is the son of Lyle Baucom of Mill Valley and Mrs. Alice Hobbs of Concord.

Alvis Bell Jr. of Susanville served the bridegroom as best man, and ushers were John Cooper and Elmer Collett of Mill Valley.

Following a reception held at the Mill Valley Golf Clubhouse the couple left for a wedding trip to Southern California and Las Vegas. They will live in Mill Valley.

The new Mrs. Baucom was graduated from Thomas Downey High School in Modesto, attended Chico State College three years and is now attending San Francisco State College. Her husband was graduated from Armijo Union High School in Fairfield, attended the College of Marin and is also attending San Francisco State College now.

New Congresswoman Has Been Woman-On-The-Go In Capitol

By ERNEST G. WARREN

WASHINGTON (AP) — It's easy to spot the new congresswoman, even on the crowded floor of the House. Just look for a fast-moving, vivid splash of color.

Rep. Margaret Heckler, R-Mass., likes vivid colors, like the bright blue dress she wore at the opening session of the 90th Congress. And since she arrived in Washington, Mrs. Heckler has been a woman on the go.

There was her congressional debut with votes on whether to seat Rep. Adam Clayton Powell, D-N.Y., she voted against seating him and on a change in House rules she voted for it and then the President's State of the Union message.

Sandwiched in between were visits and telephone calls from well-wishers and the details of getting settled in a congressional office and preparing to move into a rented home in suburban Virginia.

On her second day, the color had changed to a bright raspberry and the pace was a little less frantic. The third day of the session found her outfitted in a reddish-pink dress.

A slender 5 foot 2½ inches tall she dislikes being called "petite," Mrs. Heckler has bright blue eyes and wears her dark reddish hair in bangs across her forehead and a French twist in back.

At 35, she challenged former House Speaker Joseph W. Martin Jr., R-Mass., in the primary election, and scored an upset. At the time of his defeat, Martin ranked second in seniority in the House, having entered Congress several years before Mrs. Heckler was born.

In a quick glance at her first couple of days in Congress, she pronounced the experience "monumental and quickly sobering."

As for the opening day controversy over seating Powell, she said, "I feel strongly that there is a need for a code of congressional ethics. It should set the standards for all, and those who violate the code should be brought before their peers."

A lawyer, she said she was especially anxious for judiciary committee appointment.

She and her husband, John, an investment broker who has transferred to a Washington firm, have rented a home for themselves and three children in nearby McLean, Va. They hope to move in by Feb. 10. Mrs. Heckler said moving the children here created no problem.

"They, Belinda, 10, Alison, 8, and John Jr., 6, are young, healthy and adventuresome. It is adding new dimensions to their lives."

Patriotic Theme

Hike Up Those Hemlines And Look Younger For Spring '67

By EUNICE FARMER

My head is literally filled beyond capacity with the many, many new and interesting ideas in fashion that I have seen this past week in New York. Each week I shall try to tell you about the new details, fabrics and overall fashion picture so that you can plan your new clothes wisely.

The first thing everyone asks is always the same thing, "What is the length of the skirt going to be?" If there is going to be any change, it certainly won't be this spring. If anything, the skirts seem to be even shorter.

One well known designer, Mollie Parnis, says that taking an inch off the length of your skirts will take 10 years off your age. So please listen and shorten your skirts for spring and look new and younger.

Always consider your age but most especially, your legs. Most women can easily settle for the middle or top of the knee. Let's don't make the hems too wide. You won't be letting your skirt down again because when they do change, it will be a radical change and an extra inch won't help.

For those of you who can't sew, try the new press-on hem tape. However, be sure not to use the steam iron, and also use enough heat to clearly show the two bonding lines through the tape. It's a good idea always to check a sample of the fabric with the tape before proceeding.

DEAR EUNICE,

I'm making a winter coat with a very heavy fabric. When I tried to finish the buttonholes on the wrong side, it was impossible to turn a small edge of the fabric in without making it too lumpy. How would I finish the back of buttonholes in these heavy fabrics?

MRS. F. S.

DEAR MRS. F. S.:

I have purposely checked with some of the very expensive coats made of this heavy firm fabric and find that many of them have been finished by simply using a blanket stitch very close together which will overcast the cut edges and prevent raveling.

This is a detail that most of us worry about too much. Just do the neatest job possible, press well and forget it.

DEAR EUNICE,

I have to make a dress for a very fancy occasion. Do I dare put sleeves in it? My arms aren't too good, and I feel self-conscious in anything sleeveless?

MRS. C. C.

DEAR MRS. C. C.:

We must all modify our clothes so that they do the most for us. If the fabric is dressy, I see no reason why you can't use a sleeve instead of making your gown sleeveless. As a matter of fact, sleeves are definitely replacing that sleeveless look in the expensive clothes. If sleeves are your downfall, you will want to send for my step-by-step instructions called "All About Sleeves." Send 10 cents and a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Eunice Farmer in care of the Independent-Journal with your request.

Other officers of the group are Mesdames Rudolph Kopfer, vice president; Edward Bulkley, treasurer and Richard Forbes, secretary.

Pilfering Plagues Markets

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UPI) — Many hands that push supermarket carts come equipped with sticky fingers.

Pilferage and rifling of packages are on the increase in groceries and some store managers say bluntly that customers are less honest today than in the past.

But the housewives answer that probing fingers are primarily to see that they get their money's worth, as they merrily open egg cartons, cookie boxes, meats and other products. Are the eggs all unbroken, for instance? Or is the carton all butter or has some sly somebody else switched out some butter and replaced it with margarine?

The supermarkets counter with another charge—price tag switching—when jar or bottle caps are interchangeable, or switching prices on meats. The latter seems the more serious, with 44 per cent of supermarket managers questioned in a poll reporting many shoppers deft at transferring price labels from cheaper cuts of meat to the higher priced ones.

FOOD INDUSTRY sources estimate dollars lost annually either through theft or opened packages no longer saleable range from $330 million to $3 billion. Some sources say the loss is about one-half of 1 per cent of food sales (estimated at almost $66 billion in 1965) and others peg it from 1 to 5 per cent.

To find justwhat can be done about pilferage, Kleen-Stik Products of Chicago, maker of pressure-sensitive adhesive paper and other materials for the graphic arts industry, made a pilot study.

They talked with 50 supermarket managers in neighborhoods serving high and low income groups, in both metropolitan and suburban areas of New York and Chicago. They also interviewed 166 consumers in the same areas.

ONE QUESTION of managers-"Is the breakopen on a package primarily pilferage or just curiosity to see what's inside?" Sixty-six per cent said pilferage, 46 said curiosity. (when percentages added up to more than 100, there had been multiple answers).

Seventy-eight per cent of the managers reported customers breaking open packages. Most often opened, in percentage order: cookies, candy, drugs, produce, cereals, dried fruits, crackers, salad dressings, chips, meats, cakes, packaged soups and doughnuts.

Seventy-eight per cent reported on shoppers doing price switching, 44 per cent saying "especially on meats." Eight per cent said, "the situation is getting out of hand."

DRAMA REVIEW

Audience Helps Out 'Any Wednesday'

By JAMES E. WILLIAMS

If the audience is the gauge to the success of a play—musical, drama or light comedy—the Ross Valley Players have another hit with the delightful "Any Wednesday."

The Muriel Resnik vehicle opened last night in the Barn, Marin Art and Garden Center in Ross, with a well-rehearsed cast of four headed by Virginia O'Brien as the zany Ellen, who has a thing about bright balloons, champagne and her wild apartment.

AUDIENCE HELPS

From the start, the audience joined in the spirit of the comedy with laughter at the right places which added to the quickness of pace on stage.

It's a simple situation comedy with Ellen's apartment "the executive suite" (for reasons of tax purposes) of her tycoon boyfriend, John, played by Bill McCall.

To his wife Dorothy, given a sparkling performance by Ursula McCarthy, to his secretary and business associates, to everyone except Ellen, John is out of town every Wednesday. This is where the the fun begins.

Here enters Cass, the good natured struggling Ohian who comes to town to see the tycoon, ends up minus a hotel room and is sent to the "executive suite" by an innocent secretary. Joe Wadlington takes the part of Cass and handles the big lovable guy in robust fashion.

MORE MIXUPS

Dorothy then appears on the scene and attempts to patch things up between the scatterbrained Ellen and her boarder, Cass, believing they are a young married couple in the early traumatic stages of wedlock.

From then until the end, things really pop with Dorothy filing for divorce and holding out for the tax-dodge apartment, Ellen getting John with a few misgivings and Cass reappearing to take Ellen away from the maddening jungle of New York.

Success of the play must go to director Stuart Rasmussen who got 100 per cent cooperation from his cast. They knew their lines well, played just right to their warm audience and had a sense of timing. This speaks well for any cast—amateur or professional.

The brightness of the set by Rey Collins added to the spirit of the evening. Also contributing to the gaiety were the smart costumes worn by the two women leads.

"Any Wednesday" continues tonight with an 8:30 p.m. curtain. It will also be presented Friday and Saturday nights through Feb. 18.

While Evangelist Billy Graham spoke to 8,000 University of California students last night, his appearance was picketed by a handful of sign-carrying adults.

Graham Tells Campus Try Christ, Not LSD

BERKELEY (UPI)—Evangelist Billy Graham told a spiritual rally at the niversity of California yesterday that students should try to "experience Christ" the way they pursue sex, LSD and "pot."

"There is no university where a spriritual awakening would have a greater impact on the world than here," Graham said. "You could change our generation. I challenge you to do it today."

Addressing some 8,000 persons in the outdoor Greek Theater, he said that among the growing problems in the world was a "student crisis" with young persons searching for answers to basic, underlying problems and seeking to overcome a sense of emptiness. The answer, he added, was faith in Christ.

He spoke for about 35 minutes, and his talk was warmly applauded. His appearance was the highlight of a week-long national meeting of the Campus Crusade for Christ.

Graham told newsmen after his address that he was "quite frankly surprised" by his warm reception. "I thought there might be difficulties or problems," he added.

The student newspaper, Daily Californian, criticized crusade delegates for antagonizing some students. The paper said the delegates tried to telephone every person registered in school and woke some in the morning.

The publication said it did not object to religious activities on campus but "there are limits to these activities which should not be overstepped; this group of zealots has managed to transgress those boundaries with gay abandon."

Sausalito Composer's Works To Be Played

SAN FRANCISCO — First program of the San Francisco Symphony Assn.'s contemporary "Musica Viva" series opening Monday will be new works of Karlheinz Stockhausen. One of the world's leading avant-gardists and specialists in electronic music.

Stockhausen is now a resident of Sausalito.

The noted American composer, Aaron Copeland, is coordinator for this festival of contemporary music, consisting of concerts at 8:30 p.m. at the San Francisco Opera House on Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday.

Stockhausen will be at the concert Monday night to discuss his "Mikrophonie I" an "Telemusic." In "Mikrophonie I" he believes he is utilizing microphones for the first time as musical instruments. The piece is scored for one large tam-tam (seven-foot gong), two microphones, two filters and potentiometers, four sine-wave generators, and one ring modulator.

"Telemusic is a combination of pure electronic sounds and sounds of nature. The composer dedicated it to the people of Japan and their struggle between the old and new Japan.

Copeland will give a free lecture on the series tomorrow at 3 p.m. in the auditorium of the creative arts building at San Francisco State College.

Ex-City Aide Faces Check Case Charge

A former Fairfax public works superintendent was held today at Marin County jail, charged with stealing $450 in money orders from the Model Market in San Anselmo Thursday at 6:30 p.m.

Bail was set at $825 for August A. Pfalzgraff, 52, of 46 Belle Avenue, Fairfax, charged with grand theft.

Pfalzgraff was acting superintendent of the Fairfax Public Works Department from October, 1957 to May, 1958. He worked for the department from April, 1954 to October, 1961, when he resigned.

Phillip Gresser, 18, of 119 Ricardo Drive, Mill Valley, a clerk at the store on Saunders Avenue, told police a man entered the store about 6:30 p.m. and asked for $450 in money orders.

When Gresser turned to ring up the charges, he said, the man grabbed the money orders and fled. San Anselmo police issued an all-points bulletin with the thief's description, and a sheriff's deputy stopped Pfalzgraff at 7:05 p.m. on Highway 37, just south of Atherton Road, and took him to jail.

Neighbor Thwarts Apartment Burglar

An unidentified resident of the Ardilla Apartments at 55 Rodeo Avenue, Sausalito, foiled a burglary try at a neighbor's apartment last night when he shouted at two intruders, causing them to drop the stolen merchandise and run.

The neighbor told police he heard the thieves break in the front door of Eli Weis, Apt. 22, about 6:15 p.m. After calling police, the neighbor saw the men come out, carrying a television set. He followed them outside and shouted, causing them to drop the television and run.

Grace Doty To Dance Ballet In Florida

Charge Filed In Fatal Bay Crash

A San Francisco man has been charged with negligent operation of his power yacht which collided with another boat Aug. 4 in Racoon Strait, killing one elderly fisherman and injuring another.

Dist. Atty. Bruce B. Bales said his office filed the misdemeanor complaint against Ben Ishisaki after receiving investigation reports from the U.S. Attorney General's office. The Coast Guard also investigated the accident, Bales said.

Ishisaki—to be arraigned in Marin Municipal Court at 1:30 p.m., Feb. 10—was operating a 27-foot cabin cruiser which collided with a 15-foot outboard motorboat, occupied by Matteo Pacini, 68, and Pedro Orosco, 65, both of San Francisco.

Pacini was killed. Orasco was hospitalized for two days.

Teen-Age Star $28,600 Richer

The 18-year-old star of the television show "Karen" and "Tammy" appeared at the county courthouse yesterday to pick up the $28,600 in savings bonds put away for her under a minor's contract.

Miss Watson was allowed to receive the bonds since she is now married and under California law is an adult.

The actress and record company executive Richard Orshoff were wed last June. He accompanied her to court.

Contractors Back Union

Marinn County painting contractors are supporting union objection to Sausalito firemen decorating the interior of the city firehouse.

In a letter to Sausalito City Council, Robert V. Kunst, secretary-treasurer of Marin County Chapter of Painting and Decorating Contractors of California, states:

"It is preposterous to require city business licenses for members of the Marin Chapter, and then not allow them to compete for city work."

One of six questions posed by Kunst asked: "If a fire occurs during the application of paint, what do you do? Do you ruin the paint job to fight the fore or finish the paint job and allow the fire to burn?"

On Monday, members of Painters Union Local 83 of San Rafael began picketing the firehouse claiming the do-it-yourself firemen were unfair to 50 per cent of local painters who were out of work.

Cooperative Library Fund Trouble Seen

Federal funds for the North Bay Cooperative Library system, of which the Marin County Library is a member, will probably be entirely withdrawn in fiscal 1968 and there is a likelihood that state support will dwindle.

That is the forecast from Edna Francis Hanna, administrator of the six-county cooperative. She said $30,000 in federal funds for the system this year cannot be expected next year. She said she also expects less money from the State Public Library Development Act fund.

The changes will affect Marin's budget, County Librarian Virginia Keating said yesterday.

She recalled that when the county first entered the program five years ago, the federal government contribution was $90,000. At that time it cost only 50 cents a book for processing. Now this is up to $1.50 a book, but it is still less costly than if done by the county staff.

Book processing, including ordering of new books, putting on library covers, and inserting cards and envelopes, is one of the services provided by the cooperative.

Another service is distribution of research books and films. Each member library has a research volume specialty. Marin's, for instance, is in the field of art.

Requests for books or films are transmitted through a teletype network and deliveries are made twice a week.

The county contribution to the cooperative this year was budgeted at $17,697.

"We can be pretty sure that will have to increase," Mrs. Keating said, "but we don't know by how much."

Topless Dancer Ordered To Leave

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Topless dancer Yvonne D'Angers failed to impress the immigration and naturalization service with her 44-24-36 attributes yesterday and was ordered deported for entering the country illegally.

Immigration officer Chester Sipkin of San Rafael appeared unimpressed by Miss D'Angers' low-cut blue lace dress. He ordered the topless go-go girl deported to France. The government says she entered the country illegally by marrying Howard Ettlinger for the sole purpose of gaining U.S. citizenship.

"Since I began working as a topless girl," Miss D'Angers said, "I don't dare go back to my parents." Born in Iran, she chose to be deported to France.

Fire Truck Plans Viewed

Specifications for a new 1,000-gallon fire truck pumper were presented Wednesday by Fire Chief James Cameron to the Marinwood Community Services District Board.

Final action on the specifications and call for bids was postponed to an adjourned meeting to be held at 8 p.m. Feb 1 at the Marinwood Community Center.

The board voted to have Osmundson and Staley, landscape architects, named along with Christian and Ferguson, contactors, as defendants in the district's $1,000 suit rising out of paving for the district pool.

Symphony Guild's Delayed Concert Set For Feb. 5

The Marin Symphony Guild's Richard Strauss concert, rained-out Sunday by the weekend storm, has been rescheduled for Feb. 5 in the College of Marin gymnasium at 8 p.m.

The program will be directed by Sandor Salgo and will present three Marin County soloists, Jean Mitchell, cello; Lucien Mitchell, viola, and Charles Meacham, violin.

Sunday's concert was postponed at the last minute and was the first cancellation in the 15-year history of the Symphony Guild, said its president, Mrs. Howard M. Morse.

Officials managed to contact all but one performer, Cohleen Bischoff, dramatic soprano, who was en route from her home in Salt Lake City. She returned home and will take part in the Feb. 5 concert.

About 55 million Americans ride bicycles. Wisconsin recently established the first cross-state bikeway where cyclists can pedal in safety.

Property Owners Planning Battle Over Reappraisal

Marin Property Owners Assn. will set up a committee to study and resist the county's proposed reappraisal of rural properties this year, the executive director of the association declared yesterday.

Melvin Rupp also commented that the association will continue to scrutinize the county's budget in an effort to keep costs down in all departments of county government.

President A. J. Bianchi, who presided at the luncheon, declared that "ranching in Marin will come to an end" unless steps are taken to halt the tax boost on open land.

State Sen. John F. McCarthy and Assemblyman William T. Bagley were guest speakers at the luncheon, which drew a crowd of more than 150 to Nave Lanes, Ignacio.

The two Marin legislators predicted that legislation to lower property taxes will be pushed through the Legislature this year. They added that it is too early in the session to predict the new sources of revenue that will be needed to offset the property tax relief and to make up for the more than $400 million in deficit which the state now faces.

Senator McCarthy said he plans legislation to eliminate the personal property tax and "gradually reduce the inventory tax."

During the question and answer period, almost every member of the Property Owners Assn. who spoke was bitterly opposed to the rising taxes on dairy and farm land.

"Would cows be better off just because they are grazing next to the road?" one rancher asked.

Several speakers charged that the Agricultural Preserve Act, designed to give tax relief to land which will remain open for 10 years, "has fishhooks in it." They declared that once a landowner signs up for 10 years, there is no provision to allow the owner to get out of the contract, even if death or other emergencies necessitated a sale of the land.

"Unless there is a major reduction in the tax rate, we will not be able to pay taxes off the income from our dairies," a dairyman declared.

Rupp, executive director of the association, reported that President Bianchi will appoint a committee to study the proposed reappraisal of rural property. He said amendments may be needed in the Agricultural Preserve Act "because many farmers feel it is unworkable."

The legislators urged local organizations like the Marin Property Owners Assn. to send representatives to Sacramento to testify before legislative committees and make their wishes known.

Plea Entry Set On Contributing

Zoey Katherine Burns, 43-year-old housekeeper, was arraigned in Marin Municipal Court yesterday on a charge of contributing to the delinquency of a minor.

Judge Alvin H. Goldstein Jr. scheduled plea entry for 1:30 p.m. Monday.

Mrs. Burns, of Fern Court, Stinson Beach, allegedly contributed to the delinquency of a 16-year-old Sausalito runaway youth by giving him intoxicating beverages while she was working for a family in Marin Heights above Homestead Valley, and by transporting him to Phoenix, Ariz., on Dec. 9.

Carpenter Injured In Corte Madera Fall

An Oakland carpenter suffered a fractured wrist when he fell from a 16-foot ladder at the Corte Madera public safety building Thursday at 2 p.m.

William Hawley of Western Overhead Door Co. of Oakland was repairing a door at the back of the building when the ladder slipped. He was treated for cuts on his forehead and a fractured wrist at Marin General Hospital.

Crosby Washout Passes Arnie In Los Angeles Open

By BOB MYERS
Associated Press Sports Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The life and experiences of a professional golfer can be a changing thing, subject to change by the day and week, as Don Massengale, a young pro from Texas, can attest.

Massengale, a graduate of the sand greens of his native Jacksboro, Tex., and a former star golfer at Texas Christian University before he turned pro in 1960, was the leading man today going into the third round of the $100,000 Los Angeles open.

A week ago, he was in the midst of four rounds of play in the Bing Crosby in which he could not break 80 during the entire tournament.

Massengale now has his two best ever back-to-back rounds of 67-65 for a 36-hole score of 132, tying the tournament record set in 1956 by Lloyd Mangrum for the Rancho Golf Club course.

And he held a lead of two strokes over Arnold Palmer, 10 over National Open champion Billy Casper Jr., and 11 over Jack Nicklaus.

This may seem heady stuff for the tall, personable Texan. But he seemed unawed. After all, Don captured the Crosby tournament last year, and also the Canadian Open.

Records? "I don't worry about records," Massengale said, explaining that he was far more interested in beating some guys. Some guys could be Palmer or any of the other 86 pros left in play for the final two rounds today and Sunday.

Palmer blasted out a seven-under par 64 yesterday. He finished ahead of Massengale, and it appeared the round would belong to Arnie and his army.

His score over the par 36-35—71 Rancho course was a brilliant 32-32—64 for 134.

But Massengale began to make noises with a 32 at the turn, and he came home in 33 for 65.

Independent-Journal Sports

24 Independent-Journal, Sat., Jan. 28, 1967

Palmer had eight one-putt greens, and only one bogey — he three-putted the par 3 third hole — in a round that compared to his 62 in the third round here a year ago.

Massengale had six birdies, no bogeys, and missed only two greens, each time chipping on in great fashion to get his par.

Nicklaus, said, "I started out bogeying the first three holes and I never could get going.

"I played like I usually do at the first of the year. You can say I got back on my game."

Five shots back of Massengale were the first round leader, Jacky Cupit, with 66-71; Bill Martindale and Gay Brewer, each 67-70, and Bert Yancey, 67-70.

Among those who failed to qualify for the final rounds — 145 was the cutoff score — were two past winners here, Dow Finsterwald and Ken Venturi, as well as New Zealand's Bob Charles and Lionel and Jay Hebert.

Tars Press Past Napa For Sixth League Win

Straight Hitting From Franks In Pre-Season Press Meeting

HANLEY

Herman Franks tagged all the bases and hit all the fences in his annual pre-season press conference at Candlestick Park. The manager of the Giants didn't once parry a query with "What kind of a question is that?" which used to be his favorite answer to questions he didn't want to answer.

There wasn't one question that Franks evaded this time. Forthrightly he answered all of them, including a pointed pennant inquiry. "Yes," said Franks, "if we get all the help we expect this year, I think we have no way to go but up." Since the Giants finished No. 2 last season, that implies a No. 1 finish this year if help materializes.

FRANKS READILY acknowledged he was "looking for a good year from Ray Sadecki" who wasn't much help last year; better production in the pinch-hitting department "where we improved ourselves by acquiring Norm Siebern" and better production in the double play department to which "we are going to devote a lot of time this spring."

AS FAR AS right and left field are concerned, Franks said he is going to let Jay Alou, Ollie Brown, Ken Henderson and Frank Johnson fight it out for the jobs. "They're open," said Franks. He made it seem like a happy problem choosing among the four young outfielders.

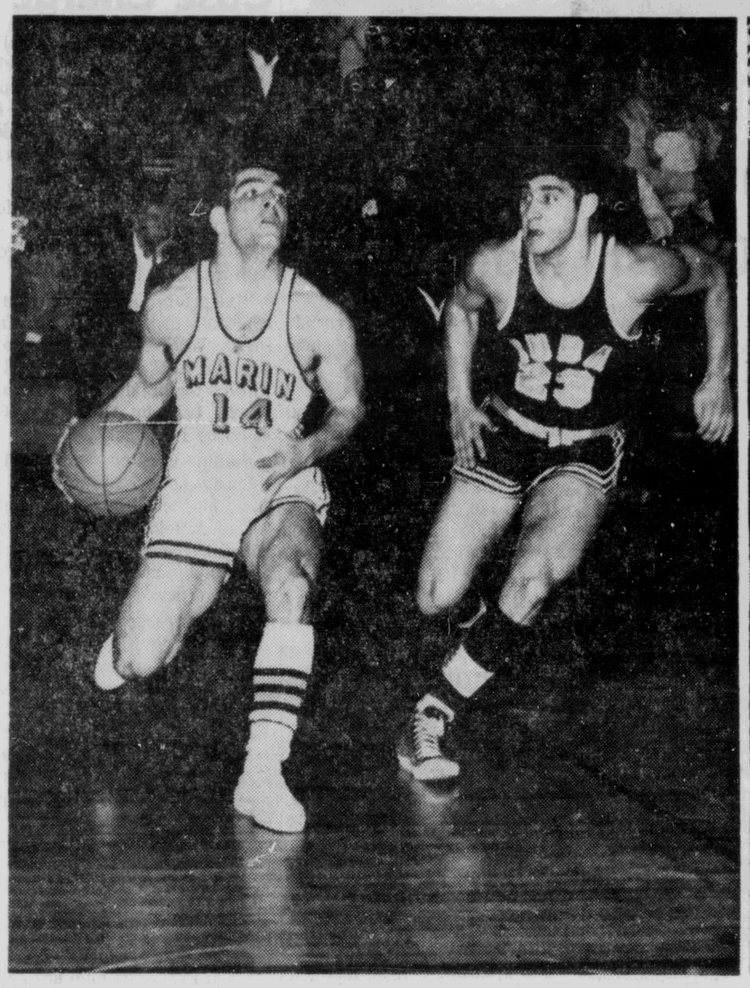

Every answer Franks gave to a stream of questions was optimistic except one. Was he going to give the team captain, Willie Mays, more rest this year? "I hope I don't have to," said Franks. "I'll play it by ear. I don't like to play without him."

BUT WHEN it did become necessary to rest Mays who would be his stand-in centerfielder? "Right now I'd have to say Henderson." Franks left no doubt that the Giant hierarchy has tabbed the 20-year-old switch-hitting rookie as Mays' heir apparent.

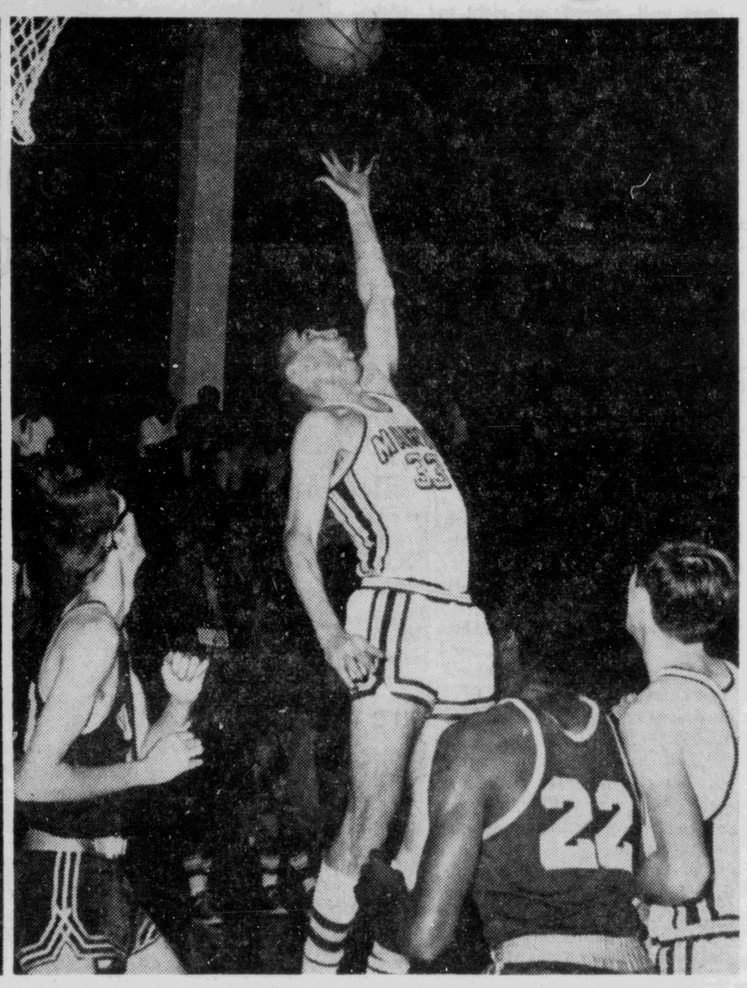

ACTUALLY this came as no surprise because Henderson literally stole the show one August afternoon in 1965 at Candlestick when Mays was given the day off because the Giants were playing the Mets. Henderson, then a bonus protectee on the Giant roster, hit a two-run double and personally scored the other run in a 3-2 win over Jack Fisher and the Mets.

LAST YEAR Henderson played his first full season of pro ball and he hit triple A Coast League pitching at a .272 clip for Phoenix. At the tail end of the season he was called up and hit .310 for the Giants in 11 games when Mays was shifted to right field during late innings to conserve Willie's strength.

This season Franks indicated he also will shift Willie to right, with the rookie assigned to the wider spaces of center whenever the occasion warrants. As a fielder, Henderson is the most graceful to appear on the baseball scene since Joe DiMaggio.

Pandiani, Phillips Lead Way

By RALPH CHATOIAN

College of Marin Tars will be trying to win their second Golden Valley Conference basketball game in as many days when they host the Lassen Junior College Cougars tonight in Kentfield.

Tip off is scheduled for 8 o'clock.

The Yuba 49ers were the Tars' sixth conference victims last night, Marin bumping Yuba 85-81 on the College of Marin court.

All five Marin starters hit for double figures, led by Bill Pandiani's 25 points. Bob Phillips had 20 points, followed by Tom Stetson and Terry Overlid with 14 each and Russ Smith, 10.

Yuba, throwing up a full court press, rattled the Tars into miscues early in the game and roared to a 16-5 lead. After a time out, Marin coach Cal Riemcke sent his troops back on the court with some kindly instructions.

ERRORS

Now it was Yuba being forced into ball control errors, four straight, and before you knew it Marin was down by only a point, 19-18. Then two buckets by Pandiani and it was all tied, 22-22. Stetson's tip-in put the Tars in front at 24-22, then a driving lay-up by Phillips and two free throws by Ken Blasingame boosted the lead to 28-22.

When it looked as if Yuba was on the ropes, the 49ers rallied for four straight buckets, two by guard Steve Perkey, and the Tars were behind again, 28-30. But a drive in the key by Stetson and a 18-footer by Smith put the Tars ahead again. It was tied again at 32-32, but Overlid's three-point play with 5:54 left in the first half put Marin in front, 35-32. The Tars kept the lead through the rest of the half, and at interimssion it was Marin 45, Yuba 43.

STING GONE

Although Yuba tied the score three times in the second half, the last time at 69-69, Marin never gave up the lead. Every time Marin looked like it was going to run away with the game, back would come the 49ers.

A lot of Yuba's rebounding sting died when 6-6 forward Brian Egly fouled out with 4:21 left in the game, Marin in front by two, 71-69. But a big play came when it was 73-71.

Wilt Foregoes Scoring While 76ers Battle

That familiar 7-foot-1 player with a goatee and wearing No. 13 on his back in last night's Philadelphia 76ers—Cincinnati Royals game was really Wilt Chamberlain, although it would be hard to tell it from the scoring figures.

Chamberlain, who holds the National Basketball Association single-game record of 100 points, took only four shots and scored just five points through the first three quarters of the 76ers 110-107 victory.

It wasn't that Chamberlain didn't have the opportunities to score. He apparently chose not to go for the basket, consistently handing off to driving teammates.

The sleeping giant finally awoke in the fourth quarter in which he scored 12 of his 17 points and led the rallying 76ers to their victory, the 21st in the last 23 games.

Asked after the game what the problem was, Chamberlain replied, "the object of the game is to win and we won."

"It's like a person who has two children and one of the two is an outstanding child," Hannum said. "You learn to expect more from the outstanding one.

"And when he doesn't perform up to expectation, you wonder why.

"There was nothing physically wrong with Wilt. We all have our off nights. He was there when we needed him and all's well that ends well."

Hornets Give Tamalpais Stiff Fight

But with Pat Schafer and Steve Woodward doing their best to shoot the cords off the hoop with 47 points between them and a pesky press that stymied the rallying Hornets, the Indians finally struggled to a decisive 83-64 count as some 1,200 watched.

Despite Tam's 25-point explosion in the first quarter and 46-33 halftime bulge, the Hornets surprisingly pulled within six points in the second half, but then fell back to 13 when the Indians again rallied and put on their tenacious full-court press to pull away for keeps and ice it with five minutes left in the final stanza.

Tam now is 6-0 in Marin County Athletic League competition, while when you say "Novato," reverse those figures.

Schafer, a string-bean 6-3 junior center, came through with a sterling 25 point performance, canning 11 field goals and five free throws. All-conference senior guard Woodward was next in line with a fine 22-point showing on eight fielders while Leroy Barrow had 10 points and Steve Johnson had nine. And this trio of speedsters make the Indian press roll.

As usual, Novato had trouble hanging on to the round ball and had 19 turnovers. Tam had 11.

Tamalpais shot a so-so 39 per cent from the field (33x86) while Novato canned 44 per cent (23x52 and won the battle of the boards 41-35 with Herrnberger getting nine rebounds, Bruce Piper and Howard seven and Fain six.

Vancouver, Seals Both Ice Cold In Chilly Trip

And so it was that yesterday's 5-2 romp by Seattle over the Seals did not hurt them too much. Vancouver lost to Portland 3-2 to stay only a point ahead of the Seals in their battle for second place.

Last night's loss was witnessed by 9,752 fans who saw Bill Dineen of Seattle score a hat trick. Guyle Fielder and Jim Powers also tallied for the Totems while Danny Belisle and Forbes Kennedy blinked the red light for the Seals.

After starting the season with a hot road record, the Seals are now only 11-11-7 away from home and 3-2-2 against the Totems.

Terra Linda Cools Cold Wildcats

Terra Linda parlayed a 54 per cent field goal percentage and a hot first half into a 61-49 Marin County Athletic League basketball victory over Marin Catholic in Kentfield last night to even its record at 3-3 in loop play.

The Trojans, led by Fred Smith and guards Paul Lee and Steve Congdon, popped to an 30-14 halftime lead as the Wildcats simply couldn't find the range.

The Cats trailed by only two at 12-10 after one period but scraped up only four points in the second period to fall into a big hole.

The Trojans canned 25 fielders with Lee and Congdon blitzing from outside for a combined 30 points, 15 each. Smith, the league's leading scorer chipped in with 17 points on five fielders and seven free throws while combining with Bruce Kilby to control the boards. They got nine each.

The Trojans held Paul Vickers, who had scored 16 against powerful Drake earlier in the week, to nothing flat. But Jim Ingrassia, Rich Garms and Ches Bornia picked up the scoring pace for the Wildcats, with Bornia topping the list at 16 points, followed by Ingrassia with 14 and Garms with 12.

The Wildcats also had their troubles at the free-throw line where they made only five of 13 shots. A frantic second-half press could not save them.

ASHE ALMOST IN AUSSIE TENNIS FINAL

ADELAIDE, Australia (AP) — American Arthur Ashe was leading Australia's John Newcombe, 12-10, 9-9 today when darkness forced suspension until Sunday of their semifinal match in the Australian tennis championships.

The winner will face defending champion Roy Emerson in the final Monday. Emerson, a five-time winner of the title, outlasted countryman Tony Roche in their four-hour semifinal, 6-3, 4-6, 15-13, 13-15, 6-2.

In the women's final Monday, Nancy Richey of Dallas, Tex., will meet Lesley Turner, Australia's No. 1 women's star. Miss Richey beat Australian Kerry Melville, 6-4, 6-1, and Miss Turner downed Rosemary Casals of San Francisco, 4-6, 61, 6-4, in the semifinals Friday.

Last Visit For Bullets Is Another Warrior Rout

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The San Francisco Warriors must feel somewhat sad to have to say farewell for the season to the Baltimore Bullets, the spent cartridges of the National Basketball Association.

The Warriors thrashed the Bullets 143-116 last night at the Cow Palace for their seventh victory in nine games over the Eastern Division doormats in their last meeting until next season. It increased the Warriors lead in the West to 10½ games over second-place St. Louis.

Despite some close hand guarding, Rick Barry led scorers with 39 points for San Francisco, getting 20 in the third quarter. Paul Neumann and Nate Thurmond scored 20 each for the Warriors with Thurmond leading rebounders, blocking shots and otherwise terrorizing any Bullets who ventured close to the basket.

Gus Johnson paced the Bullets with 24 points. But he was removed from the game at the end of the third quarter because Baltimore was completely out of contention. The Bullets trailed by as much as 39 points.

Ray Scott played his first game for Baltimore after leaving Detroit and got 16 points. Guard Jeff Mullins suited up but did not play for the Warriors because of a bursitis condition in his heel.

Salukis Nearly Upset

By Associated Press

Southern Illinois, the small college giant killer with victories over such major powers as Louisville, Texas Western, Wichita and St. Louis, almost was upset by Abilene Christian.

The Salukis, No. 1 in the Associated Press small college basketball poll, came from 15 points back on their home court in Carbondale, Ill. to beat the invading Texans 58-55 last night. Abilene started the game with a so-so 7-7 record, the Salukis with 11-2.

Holy Cross won its fifth straight by defeating Colgate 87-67 at Hamilton, N.Y. while Miami of Florida also won on the road, beating Florida Southern 55-49.

In home court victories on yesterday's slim program, Colorado State University whipped the Air Force 81-62, Bates crushed Coast Guard Academy 116-75 and Washington humbled Montana 85-72.

Ralph Johnson's basket put Southern Illinois ahead of Abilene Christian 50-49 with four minutes left, and the Salukis stayed in front. Johnson was high for the Salukis with 14 points, 12 of them in the second half. John Godfrey's 15 points led Abilene.

Holy Cross, led by Ed Siudut's 20 points, trailed at the half 38-37 but exploded for 50 points after the intermission to beat Colgate. John Buller's 19 points paced Washington over Montana.

gressive players in the conference, was surrounded by three 49ers under the Tars basket. There was a loose ball. Phillips dived on it like he was recovering a fumble in the end zone, scooped it up, spun, jumped, and in went a basket for two points to stretch the lead up 75-71.

That was all the inspiration the Tars needed. Although playing almost the entire game, the Tar starting five was still outrunning the 49ers at the end. And Yuba coach Rex McDougal was substituting in platoon fashion.

Stetson broke away for a layup to make it 85-79, then Yuba's Andy White scored a jumper just before the final buzzer.

Pandiani, the 5-7 guard with the accurate eye, made 11 shots from the floor and three of four free throws. Phillips, always driving in to draw fouls, made 7 buckets and 6 of 11 charities.

As a team, Yuba beat Marin from the field, 35-31. But Marin made good advantage of the 24 Yuba fouls, sinking 23 of its 32 free throws to Yuba's 11 of 22.

Leading the 49ers scoring were Ken Griffin with 14 and Egly and Ken Davidson with 13 each.

Soccer Official Has To Be Quick To Keep Up With New, Fast Game

By GARY TISCHLER

So you think you know what a sports official is like?

You say he's the paunchy guy who turns red in the face every time he blows his whistle? The guy in the convict outfit who breathes so hard you think he's shoveling ice boulders on a rockpile? The fellow that looks so flabby you think somebody will package him for dessert? Who looks just like the man for whom the old Atlas ads were intended?

Would you believe a man that jogs eight hard miles every week, who is about as flabby as a brick and who goes 80 minutes of hard running every time he steps onto a field?

Believe it or not, you have a soccer official.

Henry Landauer of San Rafael is a soccer official. He is the marked man of the booting world and it is not a life for a softy or a ham.

Landauer, will be officiating an exhibition game pitting two of the world's top soccer teams, River Plate of Argentina and Santos of Brazil, featuring the great Pele, at the Los Angeles Coliseum tomorrow at 1 p.m.

The exhibition feature will mean something more than just a tidbit for Wide World of Sports since professional soccer will invade the United States, ready or not, this year.

Landauer thinks soccer will make a go of it with American fans and he ought to know.

He was born in Germany, Stuttgart to be exact. Germany and Europe generally are to soccer what Brooklyn used to be to baseball. The only difference may be that the fans yell "Rauss Mit Du" or some thing less kind instead of "Moidah dah bum." Europe is the haven of the kicking set, the mecca of the drop kick and a graveyard of broken ankles and bruised shins, with South America rating a close second.

Landauer started playing when he was 12 which is just about right or maybe even a little late. He came to the United States in 1947 "looking for greener pastures" and has lived in the Bay Area since then. He gave up his kicking shoes in 1957 and turned official.

"I thing soccer will become popular here," he said. "It is a fast game, and it is not as complicated as it looks. There's plenty of action and the basic rules can be learned fast. It will catch on."

He admits that the life of an official can be a precarious one.

"You have to be strict right at the start of the game," he said. "Otherwise it will get off out of hand. But you must do it inconspicuously. Someone once told me, the best referee is the one you do not see. You can't go out there wanting to be seen by everyone."

In Europe, officials' decisions have started riots and panic.

"I had some fans rush at me once," Landauer said. "When I was still young and green."

"The American players are very good," he said. "I think when the sport becomes professional it will get bigger. The younger players in school will have something to shoot for."

"You have to be in top condition to be a referee," he said of his sporting life. "You have to be able to keep up during 90 minutes of play with only one five-minute time out. You can't be slow."

"The official is a very lonely man," he said. "He is alone on a field of 80 by 140 feet, with only two linemen to help him. The final decisions are his."

"You know, it's funny," he said. "The officials really can't make mistakes but there are 22 men out there that make so many mistakes."

Landauer will be officiating in the North American League which will start play this year.

He and Fred Reynders, who is also a soccer official, are co-owners of the Pier 15 restaurant on Francisco Boulevard.

A Switch—Clay Claims Terrell Talks Too Much

"I don't like people who talk too much," Clay said. "I can't stand a braggart."

Clay, or Muhammad Ali as he prefers to be called, commented yesterday as he loosened up and whacked the heavy bag before a large audience.

Clay and Terrell meet Feb. 6 in the Astrodome for the undisputed heavyweight championship. Clay is the concensus champion and Terrell is recognized as heavyweight king by the World Boxing Association.

"Since this well may be the last big, big fight, I plan to let it go at least seven or eight rounds," Clay grinned. "You know . . . I'll talk to Terrell a while and punish him . . . talk to him and punish him."

"We'll see about that," he snapped after doing six rounds of ring work with his sparring mates.

"I didn't see Williams throw one really good punch," Terrell said. "Clay hits no harder than any heavyweight, and you'll find out Feb. 6 that he can't punch at all when he's getting hit."

Terrell shrugged when reminded that Clay put Williams down three times.

"If you're a hard puncher," he said, "when you hit somebody they go down and stay down. Ask Joe Louis."

Clay appeared at a Houston theater last night and read poetry. He will be in Cleveland tomorrow to attend a dinner for Jimmy Brown, former Cleveland Browns fullback. Terrell planned regular workouts today and tomorrow.

Four-Day Ski Holiday For SRMA Cadets

San Rafael Military Academy cadets with an academic "B" average will be participating in a four-day ski holiday Sunday through Wednesday in preparation for the All Invitational Independent School Ski Meet Feb. 10.

The ski holiday, the first of what is hoped to be annual midweek event, will consist of skiing in the day and recreational events, including a smorgasbord party with other schools, in the evening.

Schools that will be participating in the ski meet Feb. 10 include Robert Louis Stevenson School of Pebble Beach, Menlo, Fleur du Lac and San Rafael Military Academy.

Pirates See Flag For 1967

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Put a few Pittsburgh Pirates together in the same room, and you'd better crack a window to let out some of the optimism.

Roberto Clemente was a bit cautious. He said the Pirates won't sew up the pennant this year until, well, maybe as late as early September.

Brand new Pirate Maury Wills said: "On paper we have the best club in the National League. I honestly believe we should win the pennant this year, and we will."

Manager Harry Walker tried to play it cool and shy away from predictions, saying things like: "I definitely feel we have improved our ball club."

Then he blurted out a prediction that pitcher Al McBean, a four-game winner last year, might just win 20 or 25 games this year.

So confident is Walker he says only on occasion will he turn loose Wills, base stealer supreme. He figures Pirate power will move Wills around the base paths.

Said Walker: "We have a club that can score runs, so it won't be absolutely necessary for Maury to pick up that base."

Wills, acquired from Pittsburgh in a winter trade with the Los Angeles Dodgers, said his injured right knee is 100 per cent healed.

Clemente, last year's Most Valuable Player in the NL, said that when he heard about the trades his first thought was: "We're going to win that pennant now, probably by the early part of September." He said the prediction stili sticks.

The players, in town for a sports banquet, made the comments yesterday at a news conference.

Robinson Again

NEW YORK (UPI)—Baltimore outfielder Frank Robinson was named winner of the Van Heusen Outstanding Achievement Award yesterday for taking the triple crown in 1966 to lead the Orioles to the world championship.

Snead Leads PGA Seniors Tournament

PALM BEACH GARDENS, Fla. (UPI) —Sam Snead has been around a long time. Not so long, however, that he can't still display the form that wins PGA Seniors titles, as he demonstrated in the second round of the annual Seniors golf championship yesterday.

The West Virginia slammer scored an eagle and four birdies to leap into first place two strokes ahead of his hottest competition at four-under 140. His second round was a 35-34—69.

Marty Furgol, who shared the opening-round lead with John Barnum, kept up his steady pace at the halfway point in the $40,000 tournament to fire an even-par 72 and claim second place with a 142. Barnum fell back to 146 after firing a second-round 76.

In third place was Joe Lopez Sr., of Miami with a 70—143 that came despite a double bogey on the par five 12th.

UCLA Grad To New Orleans Job

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP) — Tom Fears, who was schooled in coaching by the great Vince Lombardi, has been selected to mold New Orleans' new National Football League team into "a championship contender as soon as possible."

Fears' selection as head coach, was announced last night by John W. Mecom Jr., president and chief stockholder of the New Orleans Saints.

Underlying the announcement was proof that Mecom, scion of a Texas oil multimillionaire family, intends to be the boss of the New Orleans franchise.

It had been reported that the job would go to Tom Nolan, defensive assistant of the Dallas Cowboys. Nolan was being pushed by Bedford Wynne, who sold his minority interest in the Cowboys to take a portion of the Saints' stock under Mecom, and by Larry Karl, the Dallas assistant general manager, who also is joining the New Orleans organization.

It was learned that Fears got a five-year contract. No salary was disclosed by Mecom, but it is believed the contract calls for around $30,000 annually.

"We will be a well-disciplined ball club," said Fears, when asked how he intended to coach.

Would be coach like Lombardi of the Green Bay Packers?

"When you try to duplicate something, you come out only second best," said Mecom before Fears could reply.

Fears was an end at Santa Clara in 1941 and 1942, then a pilot for three years in the Army Air Corps. He finished college at UCLA.

Fears, now a balding 43, was a top receiver for the Los Angeles Rams for nine seasons. His NFL record of 18 pass reception in one game still stands. He also caught a 73-yard touchdown strike from Norm Van Brocklin for the winning score against Cleveland in the 1951 NFL championship game.

In 1950, Fears was the NFL's Most Valuable Player and he was an all-league selection in 1948, 1949 and 1950.

He retired from playing at the end of the 1956 season and three years later joined the Packer coaching staff during Lombardi's first year. He went to the Rams coaching staff for 1960 and 1961, then returned to Green Bay for four campaigns.

When Norb Hecker was hired a year ago to coach the Falcons, he chose Fears as offensive coach.

Mecom said Karl, a former Duke University football player, would join the Saints as executive assistant to the executive committee. He explained that the executive committee, which will run the club, would consist of himself, New Orleans attorney Edward Poitevent and Wynn.

Lew Finally Stopped Cold . . By Storm

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Bruins and Illinois were snowed out last night, but the UCLA basketball squad, 14-0 and No. 1 in the nation, swings back into action tonight against Loyola of Chicago, 7-6.

The Illinois game has been rescheduled for tomorrow afternoon.

The only Pacific-8 Conference team to play last night was Washington, an 85-72 winner over Montana in Seattle.

The Huskies' John Buller, a 6-foot-6 sophomore, came off the bench to replace Dave Carr, ill with the flu, and scored 19 points, high for the game. Dave Hovde added 15 for Washington.

Norm Clark and Rick Johnston each scored 11 points for Montana, but the Grizzlies were never in contention after Washington pulled away midway in the first half.

In an abbreviated schedule, only three other major games were played on the West Coast. Fresno State downed Cal Poly San Luis Obispo, 79-63; San Francisco State beat Chico State, 97-78, and Hayward State topped UC Davis, 66-58.

Three other Pacific-8 teams join UCLA in non-conference action tonight — Southern California at UC Santa Barbara, Washington at home against No. 3-ranked Houston and Washington State at home against Idaho.

Loyola of Los Angeles visits San Jose State for a West Coast Athletic Conference game, while WCAC member Pepperdine plays at San Diego University.

Litchfield's Heads For Title Drive

Litchfield's of San Rafael, its 19-game winning streak of over two years snapped, hopes to start a new one in its bid for a second straight San Francisco Triple A Winter Baseball League title tomorrow when it tangles with Flying Goose at Funston's Hennessy diamond in San Francisco at 2 p.m.

Val Snow, a righthander recently signed by the Cleveland Indians, will make his first start for Litchfield's. He'll be opposed by Stanford ace Harry Shenk.

Another newcomer to Litchfield's will be shortstop Ted Parks, a slugger who was hign in the homer derby of the California State League last year. His arrival will move Ron Gasper to catcher, replacing John Laberrique, who was drafted by Uncle Sam.

There are six league games remaining with Litchfield's holding a one-game edge over second-place Ellis Brooks Chevrolet.

Simpson Will Go To Southern Cal

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Halfback sensation O.J. Simpson will go to the University of Southern California.

Simpson, who scored 14 touchdowns and rushed for 2,551 yards in his two seasons at City College of San Francisco, announced yesterday that he would play for the Trojans.

WEEKEND SHOWS

An Hour Of S.F. Music

"The Sounds and Sights of San Francisco," an hour-long program showing the varied musical life and many of the impressive sights of the cosmopolitan Bay Area metropolis, will be seen and heard on "The Bell Telephone Hour" tomorrow at 6:30 p.m. on Channels 3 and 4.

The program will show both the classical and popular music activities of many talented groups and individuals, as well as some of the musical recreational life of the Golden Gate City.

Other shows of special interest this weekend:

TONIGHT: The 1967 "Hollywood Stars of Tomorrow Awards," presenting 10 of the most promising young national and international actresses in motion pictures and television, will be telecast at 9:30 p.m. on Channels 7 and 11.

A traditional hootenanny with Pete Seeger, Joan Baez, Sonny Terry, Brownie McGhee and others will be seen as an hour-long music special at 9:30 p.m. on Channel 9.

Lawrence Welk will offer a musical tribute to the late Walt Disney on his show on Channels 7 and 11 at 8:30 p.m.

Comedian Irwin Corey and comic-musician Dizzy Gillespie make up a pair of unpredictable guests on Jim Lange's "Oh, My Word," game show on Channel 7 at 10:30 p.m.

Paul Newman, Laurence Harvey, Claire Bloom and Edward G. Robinson star in "The Outrage," based on the 8th century Japanese story "Rashomon," but set in Western America, to be seen as "The Best of Hollywood" movie at 11:15 p.m. on Channel 7.

Doris Day, Clark Gable, Mamie Van Doren and Gig Young appear in a comedy about a journalistic triangle in "Teacher's Pet" to be presented on "Saturday Night at the Movies" on Channels 3 and 4 at 9 o'clock.

SUNDAY: Ronald Ribman's original drama, "The Final War of Olly Winter," with Ivan Dixon in the title role, will be presented as a 90-minute special on "CBS Playhouse" at 9 p.m. on Channels 5 and 10. "The Final War of Olly Winter" deals with a Negro master sergeant serving a tour of duty in Vietnam in 1963.

An NBC news special exploring Great Britain's royal palaces and their fabulous art treasures will be presented at 10 p.m. on Channels 3 and 4.

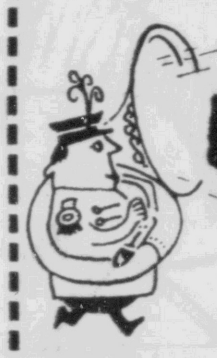

Roberta Peters of the Metropolitan Opera will be soprano soloist in "Laudate Pueri," a motet by the 18th Century Italian composer Antonio Vivaldi, on "Lamp Unto My Feet" at 8 a.m. on Channels 5 and 10.

Uta Hagen and Fritz Weaver star in the television version of the original Broadway production of "The World of Carl Sandburg" on "NET Playhouse" at 8 p.m. on Channel 9.

Sen. George Murphy will be interviewed on "Face the Nation" at 9:30 a.m. on Channels 5 and 10, and Mervyn Dymally, state senator from the Watts area, will be the guest on Channel 5's "Encounter" at 10 a.m.

Jazz authority John Hammond will explore the range of jazz from the spiritual to 1967 on "Sunday Showcase" at 5:30 p.m. on Channel 9.

"Lizzie Borden," an opera in three acts dramatizing the life of the famous Fall River spinster who was acquitted of murdering her father and stepmother in the mid 1890s, will be presented at 3 p.m. on Channel 9 as a special.

Arnold Palmer will defend his championship in the Los Angeles Invitational Golf Tournament, to be shown at 1:40 p.m. on Channels 2 and 3.

The San Francisco Warriors meet the Cincinnati Royals in a National Basketball Assn. game at 11 a.m. on Channels 7 and 11.

Highlights of the International Grand Prix and Governor's Cup Invitational races will be seen on Channel 4 at 4 p.m.

The National Rodeo Finals at Oklahoma City, the National Claybird Tournament finals and the Johnson-Jeffries 1910 heavyweight title fight will all be presented on "CBS Sports Spectacular" at 2:30 p.m. on Channels 5 and 10.

The Smothers Brothers, the Woody Herman Band, Mel Torme, Gale Martin, Nipsey Russell and Enzo Stuarti are on the guest list for "The Ed Sullivan Show" at 8 p.m. on Channels 5 and 10.

Gallegher, an adventure-prone cub reporter for the Brimstone Blast of the Old West, becomes involved in a headline-making murder mystery, in a two-part continuation of "Gallegher Goes West" on "Walt Disney's Wonderful World of Color" at 7:30 p.m. on Channels 3 and 4.

Richard Widmark, Jane Greer and Trevor Howard star in "Run for the Sun," based on Richard Connell's "The Most Dangerous Game," to be presented as the "Premiere" movie at 7:30 p.m. on Channel 2.

Robert Taylor stars with Chad Everett and Ana Martin in "Return of the Gunfighter," a Western adventure film made especially for television, to have its first showing on "The Sunday Night Movie" at 9 p.m. on Channels 7 and 11.

Bill Cosby Makes His Contribution

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Two years ago, Bill Cosby was a former athlete trying to make a name as a comedian.

Today he is a television star and a prime symbol of the ascending status of the American Negro.

The first of his race to succeed as co-star of a television series, Cosby expounded on his new position during the lunch break of "I Spy." In lieu of lunch, he puffed a cigar and relaxed in his dressing room, which features photos of Ben Turpin, W. C. Fields, Laurel and Hardy, and other great comedians he admires.

COSBY SEEMED tired. He admitted that the rigors of an hour-long drama filmed in far-off locations, and the pressures of being a civil right symbol, had left him mentally exhausted.

"You do what you can without killing yourself," he said. "Every Negro has a stake in the civil rights movement, and each of us has his own way of operating. Muhammad Ali has his way, Martin Luther King has his, Stokely Carmichael has his."

The Cosby way is less vocal. He figures he is advancing the Negro cause by his partnership with co-star Robert Culp in "I Spy."

"OF COURSE there are people who will ask, 'Has Bill Cosby done more for himself or for the cause?' " he said. "I don't argue that. But I do think that the sight of two men, one white and one black, working together and living together in a dramatic context on weekly television must be doing some good for racial understanding."

BILL COSBY
'You do what you can'

Cosby also plays benefits for Negro causes and spends some time at Studio Watts, an organization to help Negroes in the Los Angeles neighborhood torn by rioting in 1965.

Cosby figures his best contribution to the Negro cause will come from his own performances as an entertainer. In his night club and concert appearances and on his records, he has never stressed his Negro-ness Next he hopes to star in movies in which his race will not be an issue.

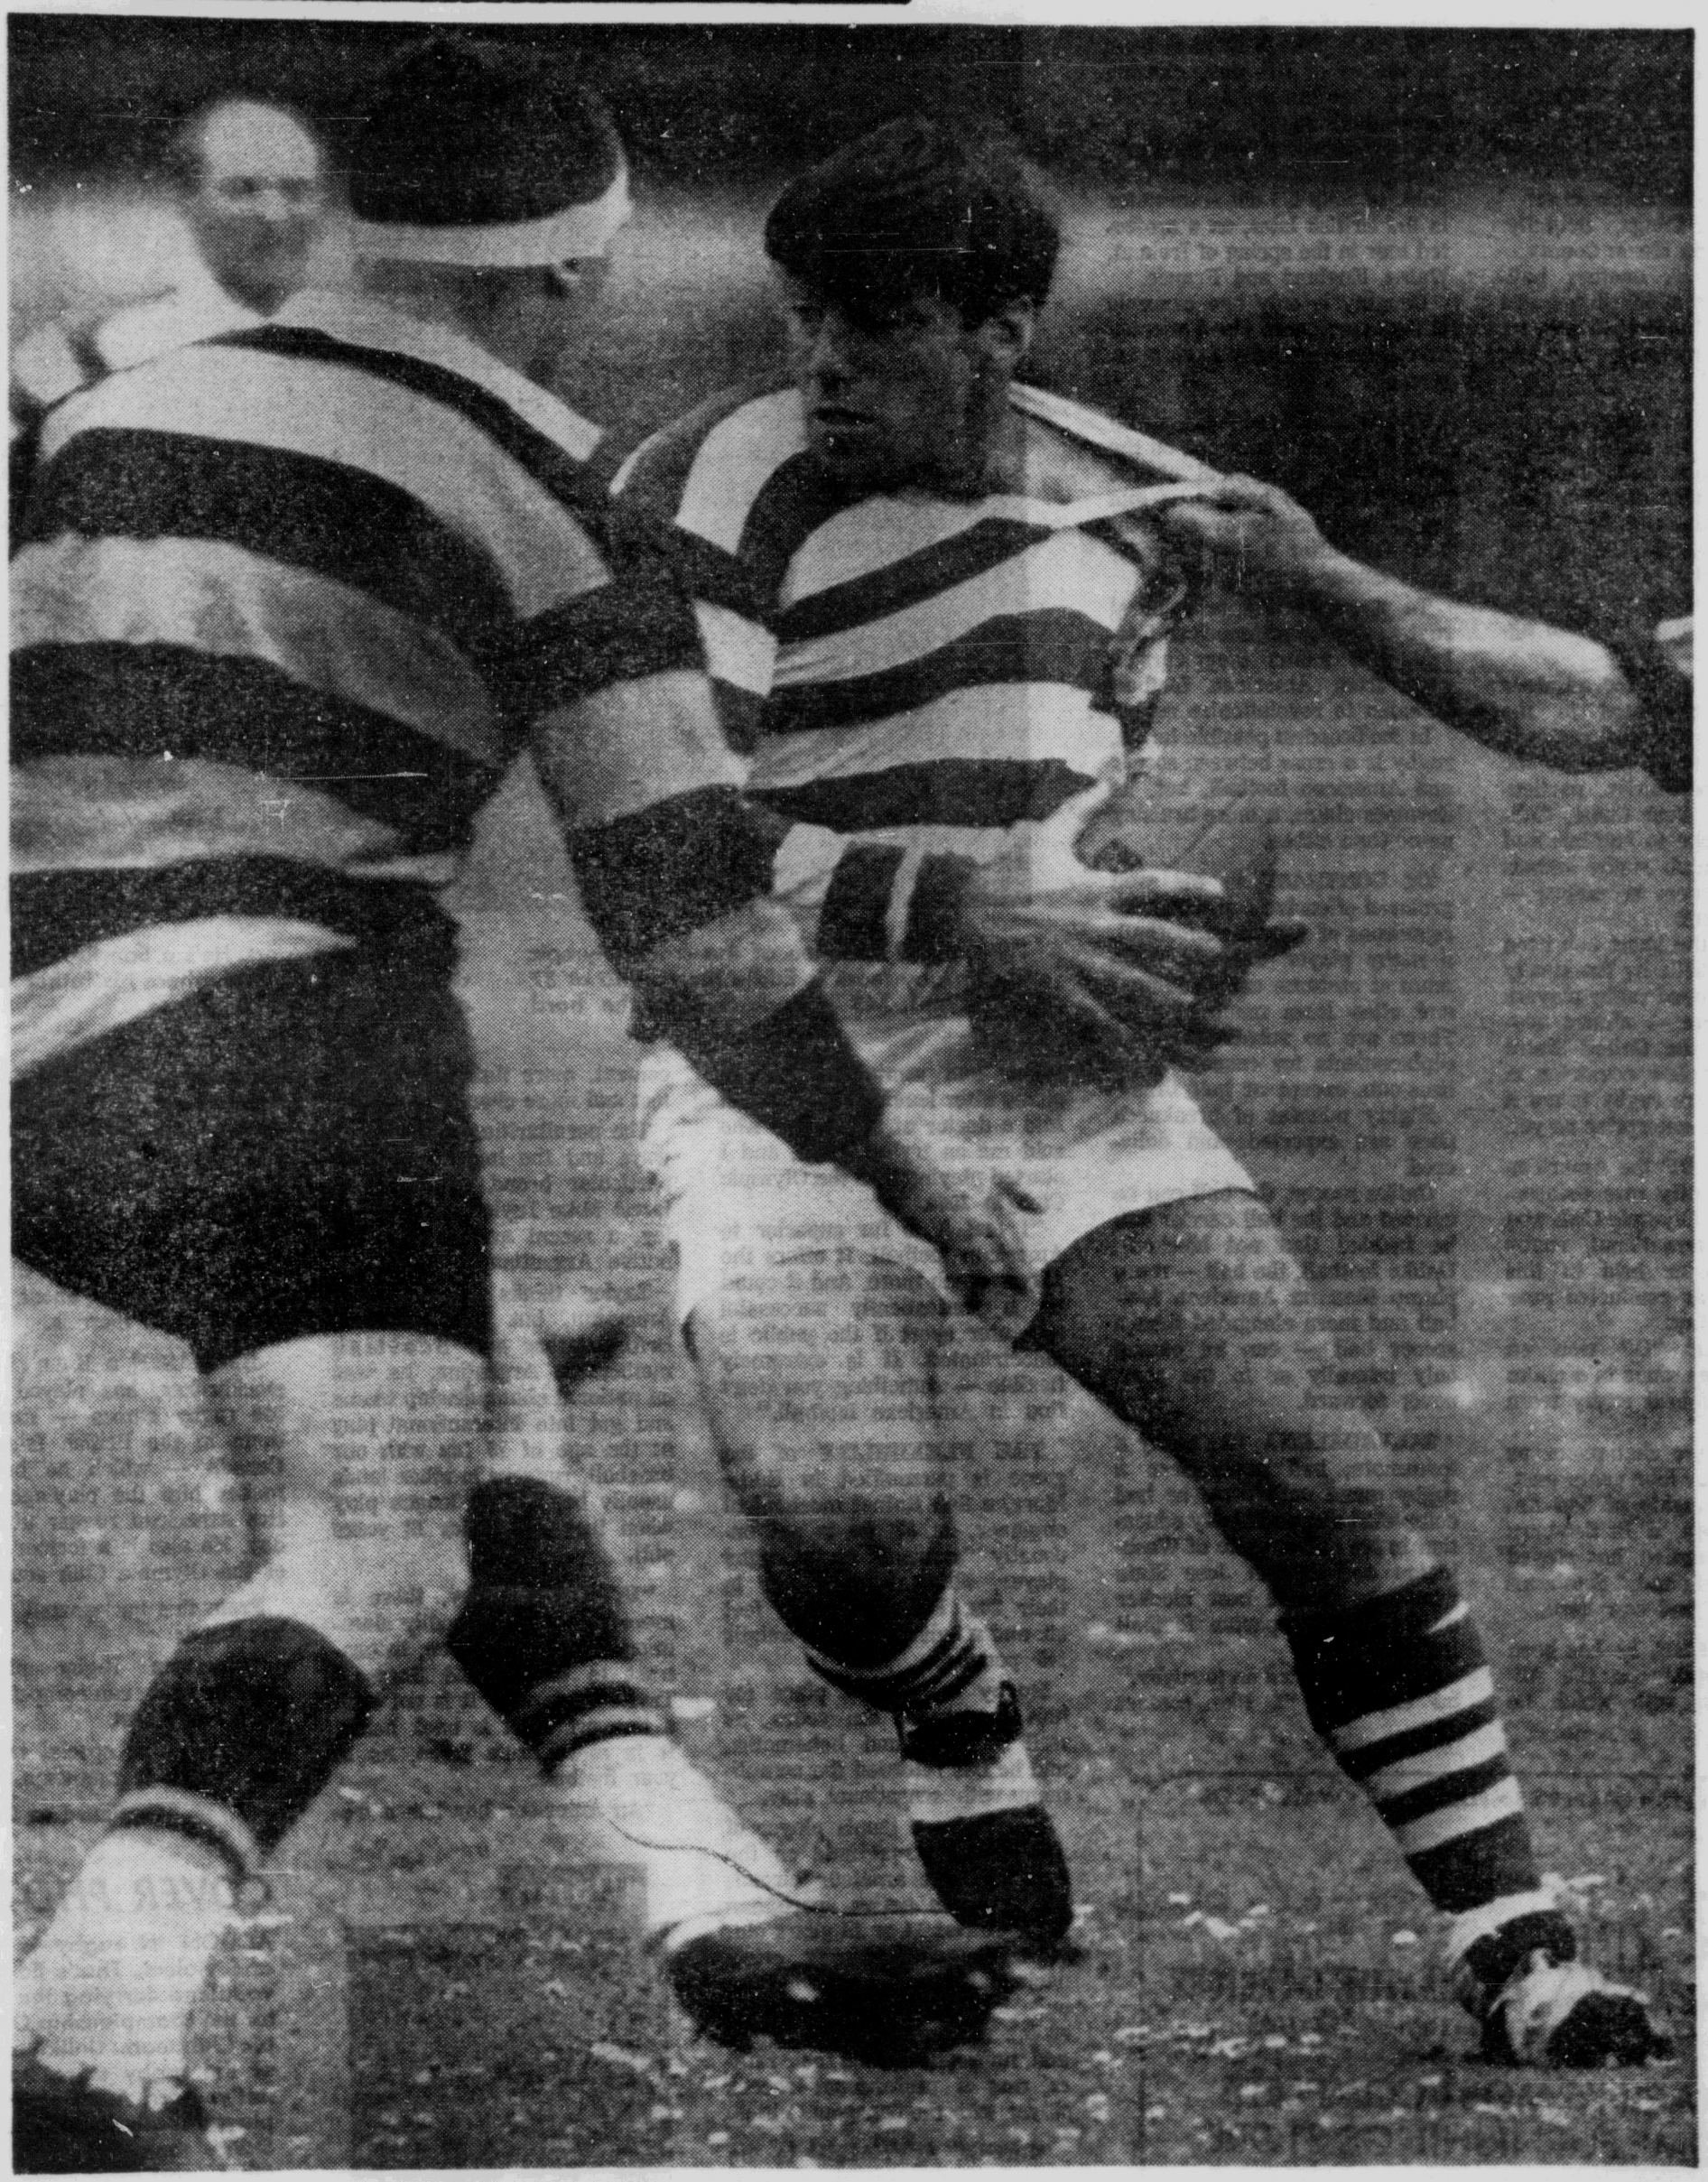

"When I do a film, I would like it to be something along the line of things that Jack Lemmon and Tony Curtis do," he said. "Or I might even play a spy. Why couldn't I make black 'Goldfinger'?"

"THE OUTRAGE," a drama based on the Japanese story "Rashomon," but set in the American West of the late 1870s, stars Claire Bloom with Paul Newman, and with Laurence Harvey and Edward G. Robinson. It will be shown tonight at 11:15 on Channel 7.

The Bruising Sport Of Rugby

See Page M2

International Champions Rely Upon Talent From Many Lands

TYPICAL OF the men of the crack Olympic Club rugby team is Eddie Marr, who at 37 years and 145 pounds, enjoys the hard contact of the sport. He's a San Rafael resident born in Scotland where his father was a professional soccer player.

Question: What do a physical therapist, a former British officer in the battle to flush Communist guerrillas out of Malaya, a patriotic Argentinian who looks and talks pure American and a Montgomery Street stockbroker all have in common?

Well, two things, actually. They all live in Marin County.

And all, plus another ballplayer's dozen of Marinites, are hard-core rugby football players for San Francisco's Olympic Club.

SO MANY Marinites figure on the roster of the club's Winged "O" first team and Olympian second team that the club's annual rugby clash with the Marin-based Peacock Gap 15 or (XV as ruggers like to express the number) amounts to a homecoming celebration for both aggregations.

Among the imported amateur sports still relegated to the "minor" classification, rugby is showing the most promise for widespread popularity, particularly on the West Coast. California has close to half-hundred college and club rugby squads and two leagues, or unions — north and south.

Growth of the sport has been helped not a little by the steady inflow of seasoned rugby players from elsewhere — almost anywhere, since the United States is one of the few countries in the world where rugby is not a major athletic enterprise as yet.

PRESTIGE OF the American rugby community rose measurably when the Olympic Club won the first international rugby tournament ever held in this country. It was conducted near Boston last May.

The Winged "O" won on points, and has since laid claim to the title of best rugby team in the nation.

Captain of the champions, as he has been for four years past, is John S. Doughty of San Anselmo. Doughty, a British-born insurance executive, has played rugby in England, Southeast Asia, Canada and now here.

EVERYWHERE, he has been a star — notably on the All-Malaya Team with which he met the best in Thailand in 1955, as a change of pace from his duties of the day, chasing jungle Communists as a British Army lieutenant.

These days, he is ardently preparing the 1967 Olympic Club team to whip his old teammates in the British Isles, on a projected tour in the spring of Ireland, Wales, England and France.

EDDIE R. Salvadalena, a Mill Valley physical therapist, on the other hand, is typical of the Americans who have gone into the game, usually by accident and often after a rousing collegiate career in other sports.

To a man, they pronounced rugby superior to American football. But habits they carried over from American football threaten to revolutionize rugby.

IN CONTRAST to the well armored offensive and defensive squadrons of American football, a rugby player wears a minimum of costume and padding—and often loses much of that. There are no substitutions, no replacements for casualties, no time-outs except at half time.

Unlike soccer, the ball can be carried and the ball carrier can be tackled (but not blocked). Unlike football, the ball — more plump than an American football and more elongated than a soccer ball — can be passed only laterally or to the rear, never forward.

SALVADALENA, like many a teammate, had never seen a rugby game until after he had completed a sports-heavy education in his native state of Washington and at San Jose State where he won a best blocker award on the Spartan football team.

"I just stumbled on to rugby," he explains. "I like contact sports and wanted to stay in shape after leaving school. I ran into a doctor at St. Mary's who sold me on trying it out, and I started playing with the Olympic Club in 1960.

"I feel it is far superior to American football. It offers the player much more. And it could be a fantastically successful spectator sport if the public is indoctrinated. It is extremely flexible — something you don't find in American football."

THE FLEXIBILITY of the game is personified in Eddie Marr, a San Rafael mechanical engineer. At 37, he is not unusually "ancient" for a rugby player, although most are in their 20s. He stands five feet six and a half inches and weighs 145 pounds.

Rugby has had a place for him throughout the years, as well as 250-pound behemoths, and he has returned the compliment with sensational play.

Marr, also a tennis player of more than casual note on the Pacific Coast amateur circuit, has been an active sportsman since he was 14 or 15 years old.

There was a family crisis back in the homeland when he and his brother abruptly switched from soccer to rugby, and, no wonder, since their father was a professional soccer player with the Glasgow Celtics.

"RUGBY APPEALED to me more," Marr explains simply. "At the time, I was five feet five inches tall and weighed 135 pounds. I found that in rugby, if you use your wits, you get along better. There is more body contact, more thrill of the contest and more chance to score."

Taylor thinks like a Latin American, but talks like his British father and Scottish mother. In Argentina, he was on national championship teams and got into international play at the age of 16 (as with our baseball, ruggers in other lands usually begin little league play when they are under 12 years old).

"IN YOUR rugby, there is more emphasis on bodily slammings and bodily force, in contrast to tactics and finesse," Taylor declares. "It is not such a fine art as it is back home. It is more brute force, as in your football.

"An American boy has a tremendous possibility of developing himself in rugby, because he usually is big and strong and there is a national emphasis on physical training."

JIM WASTE, a Kentfield stockbroker, has played about 360 rugby games — many of them in the British Isles and Canada — which he believes makes him the playingest native American rugger alive today. He also is a former coach of the Olympic Club squad.

"There is no special trick to this. There is mathematics on our side. England, with a population of about 40 millions, has thousands of rugby teams. The United States, with nearly 200 millions, has a few hundred teams — and rugby is one of the very few team sports that a man can continue to enjoy after leaving college and going to work.

ACTION IN rugby is fast and violent. That's Ed Salvadalena carrying the ball for the championship Olympic Club team. Unlike many of the rugby stars, he's a native-born American who played football at San Jose State, then took up the other sport after college as one means of staying fit. He says he prefers rugby to American football.

"SO WE CAN and do draw upon top quality athletes from college. And, if they didn't play rugby in college, it is an easy game to learn."

That Olympic Club teams are strong is no accident, Waste stresses. He pointed out that many players were American football stars in college — "of sub-All American quality" in his estimation.

"A European plays the game instinctively," Waste continued, "starting out at 10 or 12 years of age. Your American doesn't play as well, but what he does do is play with much violence.

"WE ARE defense-minded, tackle-minded from American football. Much skill can be transferred directly to rugby from football. Our strategy is to let the European opposition have the ball and wear themselves out in the first half. When they are tired out, we have them. We're a second half ball team."

"We can throw the ball a lot farther," Waste claims, "and this really wows the crowds over there. They couldn't believe we play rugby, let alone good rugby.

"NOW, IF there is an American anywhere on the field, they want to see a long pass — what they call a torpedo pass. I never was a great passer, but when I played overseas, I had to practice up for a few throws and switch from my regular position just so I could throw a pass.

The biggest American handicap in Waste's opinion is that the usual American season totals 15 games, while overseas they go 40 games a year or more.

BUT AS participation and competition grows, that will become less and less a factor.

Tours such as the contemplated British trip by the Olympic Club this spring cannot help but upgrade the caliber of the sport in this country as well. "You improve by going up against the best," is the way Waste puts it.

Drake's Goodwill Envoys

By DON KEOWN

So spoke one teen-ager upon his return from a summer stay in Europe under the auspices of that non-profit, educational organization.

Experiment in International Living is the oldest private, non-sectarian organization active in the United States in the field of international education.

FOUNDED IN 1932 in Putney, Vt., by Dr. Donald B. Watts, the Experiment has sent more than 16,000 young people on visits to 50 countries on six continents.

Last year, the Experiment sent 2,000 young Americans abroad, and welcomed nearly 2,500 youths from other lands to our shores.

The George Wheelwrights of Marin were instrumental in introducing the program to California. Nine high schools in California participate and four — Redwood, Terra Linda, Novato and Sir Francis Drake — are Marin institutions.

THE MARIN programs have helped to make the Bay Area the busiest center of Experiment in Living activity in the country.

Sir Francis Drake High School, where a parent, Mrs. Jack Wagstaff, organized the first Experiment in International Living Chapter in 1957, is at the score mark in the number of students it has sent abroad to learn the ways and thinking of other peoples.

Mrs. Wagstaff and her fellow organizers first sought the support of service clubs, then organized the rummage sale that has become the annual fund-raising event of the Drake Experiment. This year's sale will be held next Saturday, 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., in the Drake High gymnasium.

THAT FIRST year, two youths went abroad. Since then, from one to four Drake students have made the trip annually.

This year three — all girls — will go.

The trio were chosen from among a dozen eager and able applicants by a committee made up of Drake teachers and parents, through written applications and oral interviews.

BEVERLY BARNES, Drake history teacher, student exchange adviser and a former student traveler herself, says the committee looks for students "who will be more interested in people than in things."

"THEIR RESPONSES indicated they would be adaptable, courteous, honest and amicable ambassadors for Drake," Miss Barnes says, and adds:

"Although it was not of ultimate importance, all three girls have maintained records of academic excellence throughout their high school careers."

Joan Diamond says she chose Denmark for her Experiment in International Living destination for the very reason that she had heard so little about it "except that the people are very friendly."

"THAT WAY," she explains, "I thought I would have no preset images, and would receive a more objective learning experience."

Ann Claire Hiaring will travel to Sweden along with nine other students from schools throughout the United States and under the guidance of an experienced group leader.

In Sweden, she will stay in a home for one month as the "daughter" of a Swedish family, learning first hand about an unfamiliar way of life by living it.

THEN SHE will rejoin the other American youths, plus one member of each of the host Swedish families, for a three-week tour of the country including a one-week stay in a large city.

LIKE PAUL Chourre, the three Drake girls, upon their return, will share their experiences and new knowledge with their schoolmates and with other groups in the community.

THREE Sir Francis Drake High School girls get together to talk about their plans for this summer. They will be spending those weeks in Europe, living with European families and learning about a different way of life under Experiment in International Living auspices. Left to right are Ann Hiaring, Joan Diamond and Pat Stamper.

In the meantime, their experiences this summer might well serve as the basis for some future involvement, professional or otherwise, in the field of international relations.

EXPERIMENT IN International Living notes proudly that it has produced such "alumni" as Dr Harlan Cleveland, U. S. ambassador to NATO, and R. Sargent Schriver, Peace Corps director.

It claims, too, to have contributed more to the training and encouragement of Peace Corps volunteers than any other single private organization.

This, it is pointed out, is exactly the role these young people will be playing—experimenting with and testing their own abilities to adjust and cope with an unfamiliar environment.

LEFT BEHIND temporarily will be their usual interests, which are many.

Pat, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. Stamper of San Anselmo, is especially active in Drake's drama department, and enjoys writing and reading out of school "everything I can get my hands on." She also finds pleasure in the outdoors — especially hiking.

Joan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Irwin Diamond of San Anselmo, is active in Young Life, the youth group of the Sleepy Hollow Presbyterian Church that performed service work in Marin City last summer. She has taught swimming and is now a tutor.

LAST SUMMER she spent a far different summer from the one she will be enjoying in 1967. She traveled with Gov. Edmund G. Brown's campaign party, serving as babysitter to his grandchildren. She also reads and embroiders.

Like Joan Diamond, Ann Hiaring, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Hiaring, recalls pleasurably her previous major experience in traveling — trips to Mexico. Ann is also interested in art and jewelry-making.

She has participated in experiments in communication called "sensitivity labs." And she enjoys books and music.

What makes the prospects for the summer ahead so exciting for the three girls is the knowledge that they will not be visiting the three European states as tourists, but they will be seeing Denmark, Sweden and Holland as the Danes, Swedes and the Dutch do.

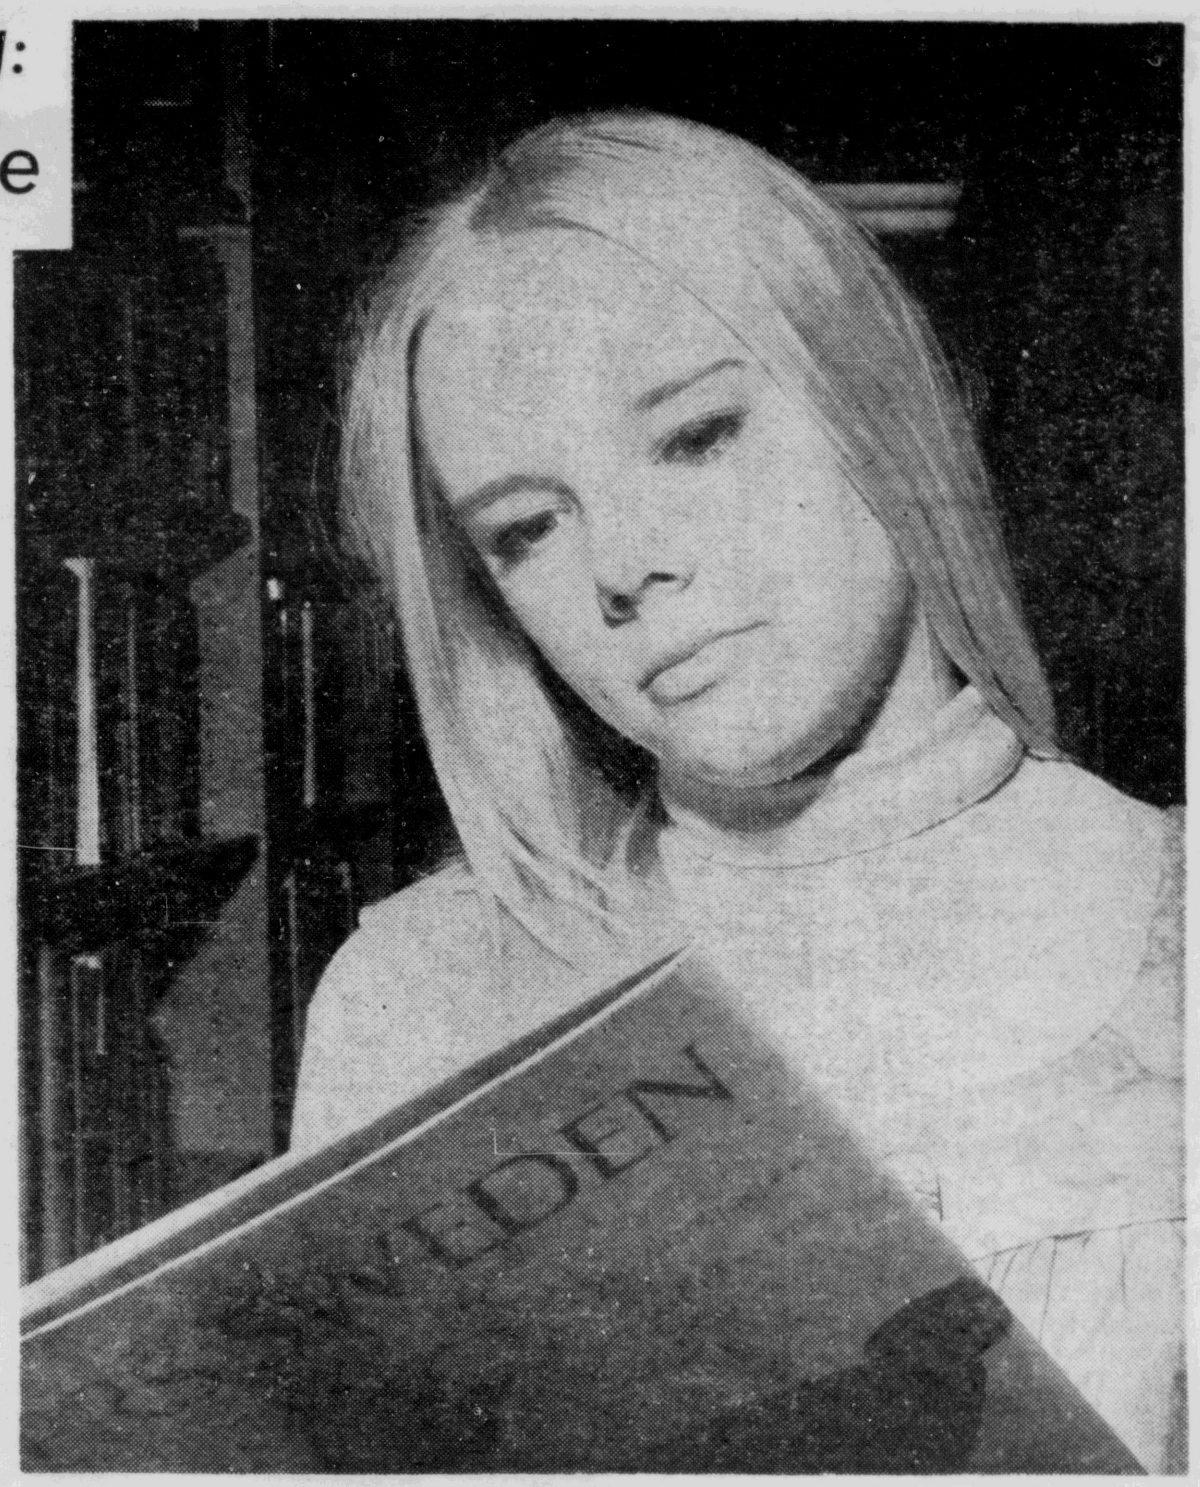

"WHILE BASICALLY an educational program — educating the people of one country to live with another — it is not primarily a highly refined intellectual experience," says Experiment in International Living headquarters of what it has to offer young people. "The home stay is as much an emotional experience as it is an exercise in tact, understanding and adaptability."

Or as that teen-ager who labeled the Experiment as a "United Nations on a small scale" put it:

"We came back with an enriched point of view: wiser, more understanding ambassadors of goodwill and more perceptive in regard to others and ourselves . . . It takes an Experimenter to exclaim with genuine feeling 'let's live together in our world!'

"I FEEL SORRY for all the people who cross the ocean only to take what is second best by seeing the sights only."

THE DESTINATION of Ann Hiaring when she goes abroad this summer with an Experiment in International Living group will be Sweden. So she does a little advance preparation with the help of a book about Sweden. (Photos by Brooks Dutt)

ARE YOU A DO-IT-YOURSELF TYPE? If so, let me suggest a project that will give you and your family years of excellent enjoyment, pride to the builder, and save you money. Build your own Stereo Home Music System. Stereo in kit form can be fun, but most important is that by selecting the proper kits, you can have a spectacular music system. If you are misguided and purchase poorly designed kits, you will have a dull distorted system, not to speak of the waste of time and money.

There are two basic types of kits; the cheaply designed kit using inexpensive grade parts, and the expertly designed kit using the highest quality parts. Naturally, we recommend, sell, and service only the quality kits.

Basically, two companies fall into this category. H. H. Scott, and Dyna. The Dyna Company offers three units which have been considered laboratory standard equipment for many years, an FM-Stereo Tuner, a separate Control Center, and a very clean (undistorted) dual 35 watts stereo power amplifier. This equipment will provide the listener with unequaled performance and its listening quality is unrivaled by any regardless of price.

H. H. Scott offers beautifully designed solid state equipment, an FM-Stereo Tuner using the latest in Field Effect Transistors for optimum reception of stereo broadcasts; and, a stereo Control Amplifier (pre-amp amp combined) which is capable of delivering 120 watts completely undistorted.

When you purchase any of these kits from us, we ask you to return the unit after assembly for complete laboratory check out and adjustment to insure that your unit is operating at its best. NO CHARGE IS MADE FOR THIS SERVICE.

Drop in to our store and let us demonstrate the excellent lines of kits we have to offer. You can buy practically anything in kit form, lovely furniture in contemporary styling, excellent electronic equipment in tubes or in solid state—above all remember, you pay no more when you buy from a reputable, experienced firm like ours, but you gain from the valuable advantages of our engineering department and services.

May we help you soon?

FOUR-YEAR-OLD Pamela Neil, daughter of S/Sgt. and Mrs. Ronald Neil of Hamilton Air Force Base, may be physically handicapped, but her courage remains undaunted as she starts her daily walking exercise at Marindale School for Orthopedically Handicapped. Pam attends the public school free of charge, thanks to California's cooperation with the U.S. Air Force's Children Have a Potential program.

A Helping Hand For Hamilton

The exchange of the "helping hand" when needed has marked the relationship between Hamilton Air Force Base and the communities of the Bay Area ever since the big Air Defense Command installation was first located in North Marin.

One of the more recent facets of that cooperative spirit is being seen now in the several special education schools for mentally and physically retarded children that are operated in Northern California.

THESE SCHOOLS have opened their doors and their hearts and made available their skills and facilities, free of charge or at nominal costs, to the Air Force's and Hamilton's CHAP (Children Have A Potential) program.

CHAP was established several years ago at the direction of former United States Air Force Chief of Staff Gen. Curtis E. LeMay. It provides information, guidance and financial assistance to Air Force families who have mentally or physically handicapped children.

The Air Force believes it is the only program of its kind to be sponsored by an armed force anywhere in the world.

THIS AVAILABILITY of special Bay Area schools to Air Force families has enabled the service to retain capable men who otherwise might be lost to the service, according to Mrs. Clella Ashmore, first volunteer chairman of Hamilton's CHAP program.

"This is doubly compounded when an officer, sergeant or airman has a child who must have specialized care because of mental or physical disabilities. If he is to stay out of debt, he must either get out of service, obtain assistance from the state or the Air Force, or both."

MARRIED TO Lt. Col. Vincent H. Ashmore, assigned to Hamilton as assistant director of communications - electronics for Headquarters Fourth Air Force and Western North American Air Defense Region, Mrs. Ashmore is well versed on the demands made of Air Force families. During the past 26 years, she and her three children have seen practically every state in the union and have accompanied the colonel on his varied military assignments.

Under the CHAP concept, Mrs. Ashmore emphasizes, a man obtains reassignment to any Air Force base that can offer, or is near facilities that can offer the needed special care for his child — provided there is a requirement for his job specialty.

"Sometimes, even this presents a financial dilemma to an officer or sergeant," Clella Ashmore relates. "Although CHAP and the Air Force Aid Society will pay a large amount of the fees for special schooling, it cannot pay all of them in many cases. And over a long period of time, this can cause a tremendous financial burden on the lower ranking enlisted and officer personnel."

GLOWING WITH praise over California's assistance to CHAP, she told how distraught Air Force parents were amazed when they discovered their handicapped children could be helped without hurting their household budgets.

Among the facilities made available to 116 handicapped Hamilton Air Force Base children, within a 30-mile radius, are those schools that specialize in physical and occupational therapy; auditory training, lip reading, language, speech development and correction; heart, cancer and rheumatic diseases; evaluation, care and training of the mentally retarded; special education, tutoring, individual, group and family therapy of the emotionally disturbed; care and training for the deaf and hard of hearing, the blind and those who can barely see.

"How can you describe the joy of a little boy who can hear for the first time, or a little girl, who has never been able to say a single word, when she can call her daddy?" asks Mrs. Ashmore as she commented on two of the CHAP cases locked in her files.

"AND HOW CAN I explain the experiences I have shared with parents who, almost crying, have told me how their child

The teacher is Mrs. Natalie Weil.

NURSERY GROUP instructor Donna Beckett of Terra Linda has a discussion at Marindale School on the night-time reading habits of a monkey with Jimmy Freeberg, son of Maj. Donald Freeberg of Hamilton Base, and Chuckey Braam, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Beedle of San Anselmo.

walked for the first time or came out of the dark void of emotional hostility into the light of hope and readjustment?"

She says there is not a week that goes by without some note of "encouragement" reaching her on cases previously termed hopeless — thanks to the assistance being provided to CHAP-guided children by Bay Area schools.

One such school is Marin's Marindale School for Orthopedically Handicapped. There, doctors, technicians and special teachers work with the child who struggles to walk, to pronounce a one-syllable word or to understand simple instruction.

He also lauded the well staffed pediatric-cardiology clinic at the U.S. Army's Letterman General Hospital in San Francisco. It is there, at the Presidio, that top military doctors perform open heart surgery or delve into the complex causes of why a boy wants to kill his parents or a young woman walks the thin line between normalcy and dope addiction.

"In all instances, when there is a way some Hamilton Air Force Base youngster can be helped, you can bet Mrs. Ashmore is on the phone making valuable contacts," the principal concludes.

ON CALL SEVEN days a week, the CHAP chairman describes her non-paying job as that of a "registrar." Her duties consist of enrolling children in the right school, counseling and helping process medical, educational and financial assistance paperwork.

Working closely with the personal affairs officer and the Family Services Center, she also helps military personnel apply for humanitarian reassignment under CHAP policies.

During an average month, the dynamic Air Force wife will make hundreds of phone calls to a dozen schools, counsel numerous parents on the progress of their child and process into the CHAP program several new families.

"FOR EACH new CHAP family," she stresses, "we have a sponsor who has a child with a similar affliction. This way, an officer or sergeant can find out where to buy special equipment at cheaper prices and what to expect while at Hamilton."

Describing the success of the CHAP program at Hamilton, Lt. Col. Rudolph R. Picarelli, of Shamokin, Pa., director of base personnel, says it has been rated one of the three best in the Air Force.

"This is because," he says, "a housewife, with more than 20 years experience of raising happy, well-adjusted children, decided to share her happiness with those a little less fortunate."

SPECIAL ASSISTANT Theurman Barnes helps ready 5-year-old Geoffrey Cutler, son of Maj. and Mrs. Dale E. Cutler of Novato, for a ride on a special school bus from Marindale School. Geoffrey's smile shows why he was chosen 1966 Muscular Dystrophy Poster Boy for the Greater Bay Area.

EVEN WHEN A little girl is just on the verge of walking, or only becoming accustomed to an artificial arm, she still must find the time to keep her dollhouse spic and span. Michelle Gravel, left, daughter of S/Sgt. and Mrs. Paul Gravel of Hamilton Base, and Cherie Bijok, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Bijok of Mill Valley, perform those household duties in their classroom at Marindale School which Michelle attends through the cooperation of California and its communities with the Air Force Children Have a Potential program.

The Prison Doctor—

Escape Artist Richard Palmer Failed In Daring Attempt At His Specialty

By DR. LEO L. STANLEY

A few days after my return from New York, in picking up the morning paper I was more than surprised to see the headlines: "San Francisco Gem Thief, in Liberty Break, Nabbed—Richard A. Palmer leaps from moving train after unshackling himself as guard sleeps."

Before I had gone East to attend a medical convention, I had tentatively promised the prison authorities that, if proper arrangements could be made and a suitable schedule worked out, I would be glad on my return trip to assist Officer Myron Clarke in bringing back a desperate prison escape artist who had been apprehended in New York.

This dangerous hotel room gem robber had nearly a year earlier escaped from San Quentin, and the prison was very desirous of having this gentleman back within the confines.

ON MY ARRIVAL in New York I wired Officer Clarke, who had gone on to Albany to visit relatives, that I would be at the Hotel Pennsylvania and could be contacted there.

Every day I expected that he would get in touch with me. Thinking that possibly I could get some information about the prisoner and the whereabouts of his escort, I went to the Tombs, the police station so well known throughout the United States. The lieutenant in charge said that he knew of Palmer and that he expected the prisoner would be brought in from Albany on that very day. He had not heard anything from Clarke.

The time for my departure from New York was close at hand. I made further inquiries about Clarke, but could get no information about him. I well knew the risks, the danger and the downright fatigue that an officer experiences in bringing a ruthless and unwilling prisoner on a five-day Pullman journey across the continent.

It is a long wearisome trip from New York to San Francisco in a Pullman, under the best of circumstances. But when an officer had to remain on watch all this time and observe a desperate and cunning felon confined with him in a small drawing room, that really did become a chore. The officer had his orders to "bring him back." Whether alive or otherwise was seldom mentioned. Anyway, "Bring him back."

At the point of origin from which the prisoner was to be taken a very thorough search was made of his person to be sure that no weapons or other contraband was concealed on him. He was stripped and in the presence of the jailers and the transfer officer, carefully inspected. With this assurance the officer allowed the man to dress.

HANDCUFFS AND sometimes leg irons were applied.

With receipt given, the transfer officer was now on his own. He had previously purchased his railroad and Pullman tickets and had his itinerary worked out.

He informed the prison of his "plan of flight." Frequently the two were taken to the railway station in the "Black Maria." At other times a taxi was used. At all times eternal vigilance was required. There was always the possibility that some of the prisoner's gangster friends might want to "make a delivery."

It was customary in bringing prisoners from the eastern seaboard by train to have a layover of 12 to 24 hours in Chicago. The felon was locked up in a cell or tank at the police headquarters so the guard could go to a hotel for a good sleep and rest before continuing his journey.

ONCE ON THE train the prisoner was deprived of much of his clothing. His leg irons might be removed but usually the handcuffs were retained. His clothing and few personal effects were entrusted to the porter.

Train officials were informed of the status of the two occupants of the drawing room. All meals were served in the room from the dining car. Only authorized train officials might enter.

Of course, there was the matter of lavatory privileges. Careful custodial officers did not remove the "decorations" even for this. During the day the guard might snooze a little but he had to remain alert to every movement his forced companion might make. The two might read, converse and even play cards. But one could not become too sociable or lenient.

At night the prisoner was assigned to the upper berth still with his hardware on. A stout chain attached to his metal belt was allowed to hang down behind the upper berth to the lower. The officer usually had the free end about his own waist or arm so that any movement of the man above would be easily detected. Usually the firearms, the handcuff keys and other important accoutrements were entrusted to the porter who, for a fat tip, rendered good service.

EVEN WITH ALL these precautions escapes did occur.

When I arrived at Chicago I got in touch with police headquarters to see if Clarke and his gem stealer had put in an appearance. The officers knew nothing of them. I left my address and also directed a wire to the Tombs in New York.

Not being able to linger longer in the Windy City I boarded a train and went on home.

"Cedar Rapid, Iowa, Sept. 24, 1920—Richard A. Palmer, convicted at San Francisco in March, 1919, on a charge of burglary made a daring escape from Myron Clarke, San Quentin guard, on the Northwestern train here this morning.

"Palmer was shackled and sleeping in the upper berth. Clarke was sleeping in the berth below him. As the train neared the city, Palmer reached into the lower berth, stole Clarke's trousers, containing the keys, unlocked his shackles and stepped out into the aisle. He then stole a suit of clothes, containing a hundred dollars from a sleeping passenger.

"He dressed himself, made a dash for the rear of the train, raised the trap of the sleeper and jumped. A soldier saw the man and pulled the bell cord. The train was backed up and Palmer was found where he fell.

"Although the train was running 40 miles an hour, Palmer escaped serious injury. He started again for the Coast in heavy shackles.

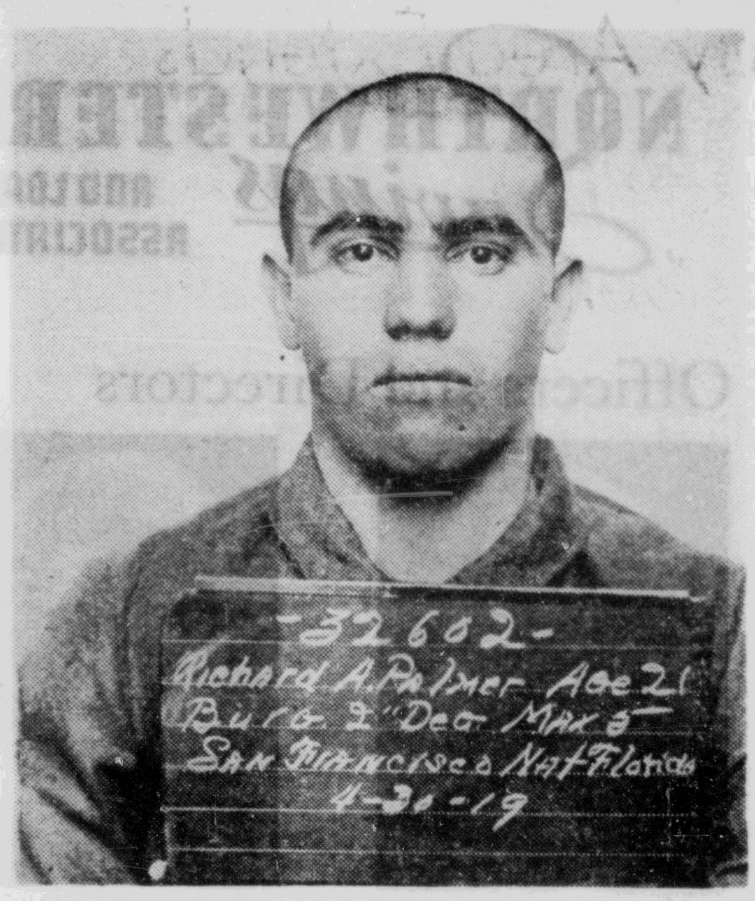

"Palmer, who escaped from San Quentin more than a year ago, was captured in New York on Aug. 27 after a chase that led through the United States, Canada and England. Palmer said he was convicted of jewel robberies in San Francisco. After his escape he fled to England, but shortly after his arrival he learned his father had died in California. But Mr. Palmer needed to replenish his funds.

"He was caught in the McAlpine while he was trying again his old tricks."

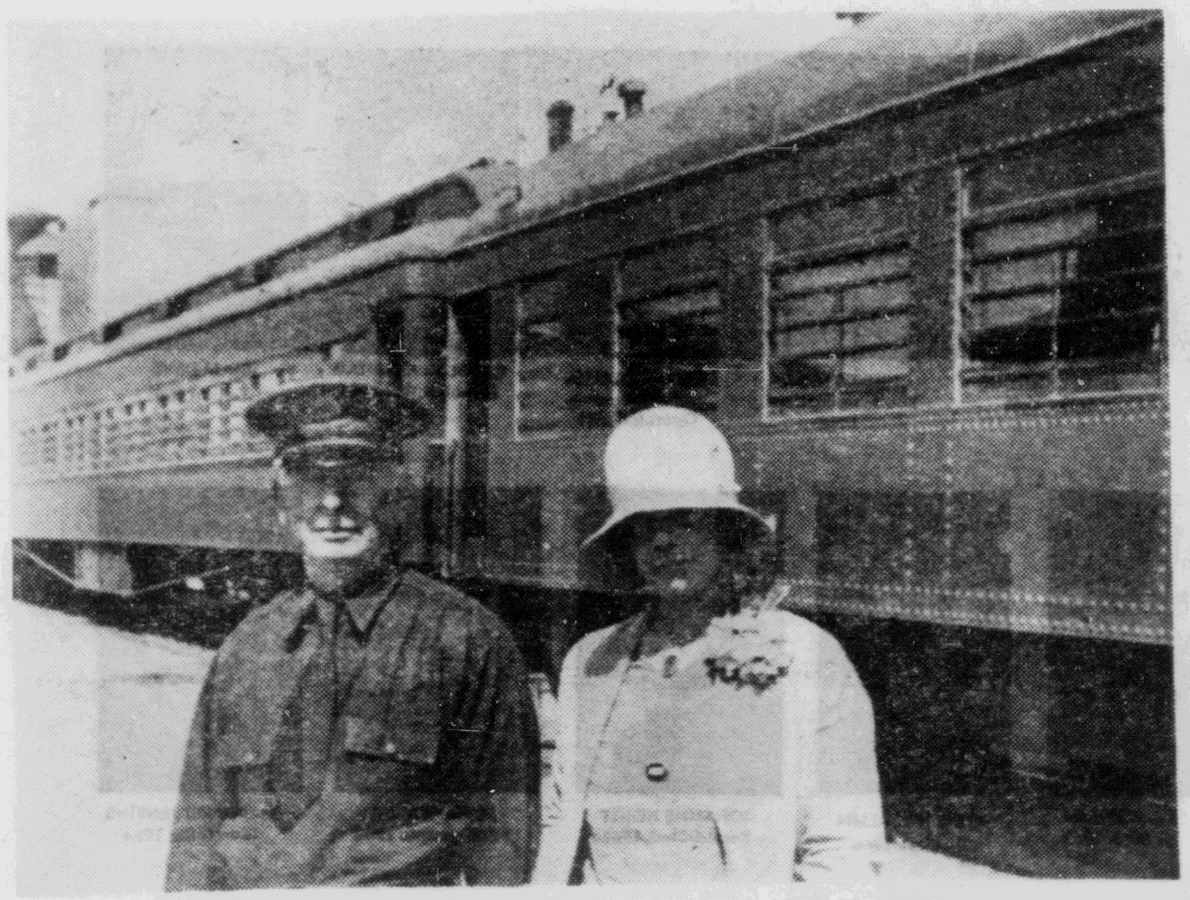

WOULD PALMER still have tried to make the escape if I had been along to help his guard?

Not even he could jump off a train moving at 40 miles an hour and continue on his way.

RICHARD PALMER was a young but hardened jewel thief with a record as an escape artist, including a successful break from San Quentin Prison. But he miscalculated the speed of a train when he tried escape again in September of 1920.

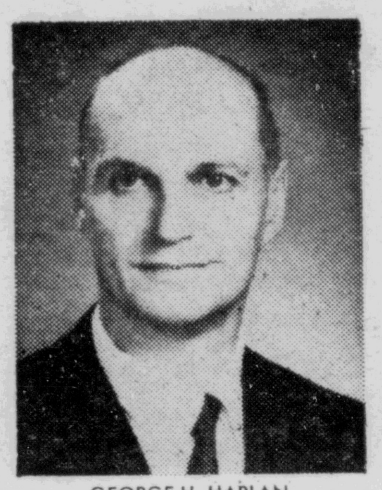

IN THE 1920s, the job of officers transporting prisoners across country was eased by special barred railroad cars such as these. But the train from which Richard Palmer leaped was a regular passenger train.

The Treasure House That Hearst Built Is Open All Seasons

The Travel Page

Where no season bars the blooming of exotic and native flowers, where trees imported from throughout the world abound, a five-mile winding road lures the tourist up to what many call a Shangri-La, the fabulous Hearst Castle.

With magnificent gardens, fountain walks and statuary, with zebras, sambar deer, tahr goats and Hereford cattle grazing on the hillsides, La Cuesta Encantada or The Enchanted Hill, William Randolph Hearst's own fond name for his estate, hangs from the sunny western slopes of the Santa Lucia Range in San Luis Obispo County.

NOW THE property of the state of California, Hearst San Simeon State Historical Monument, its official name, commemorates the devotion of William Randolph's mother, Phoebe Apperson Hearst, to the arts, her patronage of artists, writers and architects, her apparent influence on her son who spent more than 50 years and over a million dollars a year in collecting his vast hoard of foreign art.

And to be sure, art treasures galore decorate the sumptuous rooms and hallways of La Casa Grande, the main structure distinguished by twin Spanish towers. Here at San Simeon grow geraniums in an $8,000 urn. Here at San Simeon rests the bed of Cardinal Richelieu.

On this vast estate, you'll marvel at the ancient Greek temple with Neptune and the Nereids depicted on the pediment, the Gothic Library shelving many rare editions including one autographed by Queen Victoria herself, the theater seating 50 comfortably.

Dominating the western approaches to the castle, the Neptune Pool holds enough filtered water to sail a good-sized boat, 250,000 gallons in all. Surrounding this outdoor pool, most of the fountain statuary came from Italy. One of the indoor pools has lamp standards carved from alabaster.

As you browse around the first floor, walking on the Pompeian mosaic floor dating back to 50 B. C., the spacious halls make a lasting impression. Some 84 feet long by 35 feet wide and 23 feet from floor to ceiling, the assembly hall, containing four marble medallions weighing more than one ton each, served as the gathering place for guests before dinner.

THE HEARST CASTLE at San Simeon, now a California state historical monument, is a magnificent edifice worthy of the mammoth collection of art treasures it houses. It is open to the public the year-around. (American Airlines photos)

WITH CARVED wooden seats used some time ago by monks during long hours of prayer, the dining hall also displays quite a ceiling, completely hand-carved into life-sized saints.

To house this gigantic assortment of rooms and precious art, architect Julia Morgan created a shrine of beauty. But her job proved rather complicated at times for Hearst never stopped adding more treasures, necessitating constant expansion.

Certainly not a real castle, the San Simeon house functioned as Hearst's home, where he lived, worked and entertained. Enjoying his hospitality were such notables as Winston Churchill, Calvin Coolidge and George Bernard Shaw.

Open during all seasons Hearst Castle deserves your visit, having a little bit of everything in the way of foreign art.

Studies Of State Legislators, Peoples South Of The Border

By DON KEOWN

THE STATES: UNITED THEY FELL by Frank Trippett, World, 232 pages, $5.95.

INSIDE SOUTH AMERICA by John Gunther, Harper & Row, 564 pages, $7.95.

The proposition that the federal government has hacked away at state prerogatives until the legislatures have found themselves virtually powerless is a popular theme with politicians and an accepted one with certain conservative circles.

In his "The States: United They Fell," Frank Trippett, an award-winning Newsweek editor and writer specializing in government, sees it far differently.

The states, and especially their legislators, have lost influence and prestige through their own ineptitude and institutional inadequacies. The federal government, he tells us, has simply moved in to fill a vacuum left by the lethargy of the states.

The legislatures, Trippett asserts, trail far behind a public generally receptive to progressive programs. Actually, as Trippett sees it, there is little relationship between legislator and constituent. Instead, the lawmaker in the state capitol has traditionally served a special, limited constituency made up of the commercial interests or corporate establishment. Indeed, with its mercantile roots, the legislature is part of that establishment.

And it is to the interests of the commercial community that the state governments be tied down to antiquated theories and practices, although the entrepreneurs themselves would not consider operating their own businesses on the basis of such an obsolete 19th Century orthodoxy.

Thus, Trippett notes, you have the windy and ritualistic discussions of the ever-present current financial crises that mark the opening of each legislative session, whether times be prosperous or otherwise. Social programs must be pared. Somehow, of course, the legislators do find the money for their own pension schemes and salary increases, and for the subsidizing of the true constituency and its pet log-rolling ploys. And often the year ends with substantial surpluses.

Trippett points to taxation as a field in which this legislative propensity for serving the special interests is most evident.

After much wailing over the plight of the small homeowner, he notes, a cut is made in property taxes that saves the little man a few dollars and the commercial interests a great deal. Then, to offset this lost revenue, a sales tax increase or some other consumer tax is enacted. The small homeowner winds up paying a much larger share of the tax burden than he would have under the old system. But now he pays it a bit at a time, and it goes unnoticed and unprotested.

Trippett points out, too, that legislators seldom have difficulty in choosing between sales and other consumer taxes, and income taxes that could be weighted more heavily against the well-to-do.

Trippett is frequently caustic in his assessment of the legislatures. California's lawmakers of the Artie Samish era wind up along side Florida's "Pork Chop Gang," Georgia's early-day Yazoo Land Fraud perpetrators, the Virginia minions of the Byrd machine and other prime examples of the foibles and worse of state governments.

"The behavior of state legislatures sometimes appears quite irrational. Not abnormal, merely irrational," Trippett says of Southern statehouse reaction to the Supreme Court's school desegregation ruling.

But despite a dismal record of incompetence, inactivity and corruption, state governments will survive, he believes, because "as a source of humor alone the state legislature fulfills a valid social function, and as custodians of the obsolete and passe' it has proven itself indispensable."

Perhaps Trippett tends to overstate his case. There must be more legislators of the maverick stripe who serve the general good rather than the special interests than he has indicated. And the commercial sector's objectives must coincide with the public welfare more often than he suggests. But it is equally apparent that the picture he paints, black as it is, is a great deal closer to the truth than the long cherished myth of a state government anxious to meet its responsibilities, but prohibited from doing so by bullying federal government.

JOHN GUNTHER has been criticized for expertising without adequate background or investigation.

Some would have you believe that Gunther hops about a continent in a series of overnight stops in the capital cities before sitting down to write one of his "Inside . . ." books.

The truth, of course, is that his research is considerably more prolonged and penetrating than that.

But it is precisely because Gunther has the ability to find and identify quickly the kernel of truth in any situation that makes him one of the great journalists of this century. After one of his exploratory trips, he can record the national temperature more accurately then can many writers and analysts who have lived all their lives in that country.

He knows where to go and whom to see. He is not easily mislead. He sees beyond superficialities. And he is able to detect the relationship between statistics and the people, and to relate both to the world scene.

He possesses, too, the ability to make even a list of stark statistics interesting to his reader. Every page from his big books brims with bright, challenging, meaningful information.

Most North Americans will begin the book with only the vaguest knowledge of our nearest neighboring continent. But they will finish it with a much clearer understanding of what has gone on to the south of us, what is taking place there now, and what is likely to occur there in the future.

Country by country, Gunther subjects the states of South America to searching examination — history, culture, politics, social structure, economy, religion, foreign relations, all the different factors that make the South American nations so fascinatingly varied and volatile. You meet intimately the influential, despot and democrat alike, and the man-on-the-street or in-the-field. It is social history, and historical sociology.

Gunther also offers his own persuasive convictions about South America, and our best course toward it.

Poverty, he tells us, is to be found there to a degree incomprehensible to the United States citizens. Its victims are nearing the point of explosive revolt against exploitation and destitution. Such movements are certain to have anti-American overtones simply because we have been identified too long with too many tyrants.

Unless development, education, democratization and dignity come soon to the little people of South America, Communism or chaos will result. Nor should we demand or expect a democracy cut to the North American pattern, for there is a great deal of difference between South Americans and ourselves.

And what these proud people want most of all, Gunther tells us finally, is to be allowed to be themselves, controlling their own destinies, unfettered by yokes of tyrants or the pressures of foreign interests no matter how well intentioned.

Readers who follow the exhaustive Gunther report that precedes these conclusions will have little hesitancy in accepting them as valid and vital.

A NEW 300-page paperback entitled "The Inside Story" is a translation by English clergyman J. S. Phillips of "the heart of the New Testament" into modern English.

Covered are the Gospels of Luke and John, the Acts of the Apostles and the Letter to the Christians at Rome.

Priced at 35 cents and containing contemporary newspaper photographs related to the Biblical passages as illustrations, the book has been published by the American Bible Society as part of its program to "place the Scriptures into the hands of people in a language they can understand and at a price they can afford . . . "

MEREDITH Press has published its "Better Homes and Gardens Ideas Annual" for 1967.

The 1967 annual, which sells for $1.35, includes such features as rose variety recommendations for every need, a portable and year-around container garden, the coordination of deck with the house, bareroot planting instructions, lawn-building advice, back yard planning, such "must" subjects as annuals, biennials, perennials, bulbs, shrubs, vines, trees and houseplants, and a great deal more.

It's as pretty as a seed catalogue — and considerably more helpful and inspiring.

A PAPERBACK edition of Mark Lane's controversial "Rush to Judgment" is to be published by Fawcett as a Crest paperback on Feb. 14.

"Can The Ink Stain On Trousers Be Removed?"

Yes, some ink stains can be removed from some fabrics, but that is not the problem with the trousers you submit for examination. The discoloration is not a stain, but fabric damage.

The gray trousers are made of rayon and polyester fibers. The rayon fibers in this instance are white and the polyester fibers are black. Combined they produce the gray effect. In your situation, examination reveals that sulfuric acid has been spilled on the trousers. Because rayon is readily affected by strong acids and polyester is not, the acid removed the white rayon fibers, leaving the black polyester which appears like a spot. You'll notice that the fabric is thinner because of the loss of the rayon, but no hole appears.

Rayon fibers are susceptible to wear, also, and in areas where they receive extra wear, the rayon will disappear and leave what appears to be a stain as the stronger polyester fiber of a different color remains.

This is not a "stain" Mrs. D. S. A., but a dropping out of the rayon upon contact with an acid. The same will result at points of excessive wear.

WHAT SHOULD YOU KNOW OF DYING? by Tobias Wells, Doubleday, 192 pages, $3.95. Reviewed by Don Keown.

Child murder is a theme usually avoided by mystery story writers. But Tobias Wells has written a tense and challenging crime club novel about such a case.

Detective Knute Severson of the Boston police, and his taciturn partner Benedict, are called in on the case when a small boy is found dead of suffocation in an abandoned refrigerator.

It seems another one of those tragic accidents that could have been avoided but wasn't.

But Severson and Benedict, particularly the latter, have doubts. The investigation that follows enables Wells to once again demonstrate a remarkable ability for characterization and for the plotting of the police procedural story.

CABLE CAR by June Drummond, Holt, Rinehart and Winston, 191 pages, $3.95. Reviewed by Donald G. Davis.

The question is whether Champac Valley should be sealed off with a dam so that the country can press on with needed industrial development.

One of the persons who must help make that vital decision, international dam builder Paul Roman arrives on the scene on the eve of important national elections. The "in" government wants the dam; the opposition doesn't. And Roman and his lovely daughter are threatened with death.

A local man is beaten to a pulp, but left alive so he can falsely tell which "side" beat him; the beaters are dressed as farmers but their faces are masked. And then a leading politician is shot to death and there is a strong hint that Communist forces from outside the country are being brought into play.

But it's the cable car, which links the village with the top of the mountain, that provides the drama. Two people are trapped there, hung high in the air with the threat that the cables will be exploded.

This is South African novelist Drummond's first book to be published in the U.S. A moving, crackling story, it deserves the coveted Rinehart Suspense Novel label.

Not content with cornering the market in dandy spy novels, the British seem to be moving with equal success into the suspense field.

The protagonist tells his own terrifying story, how he thinks he has committed two murders. But has he? Or is he playing a game?

You'll be as confused as the police, and it's not giving the game away to say you won't finish the twists and turns of the ingenious plot until the very last page.

A widowed writer, unexplainedly existing in a de luxe London flat on the proceeds of an article on furniture, is subjected to mysterious phone calls and burglaries, climaxing with the apartment custodian's brutal murder on her threshold, and a subsequent journey for the truth to Italy.

A slick, if predictable plot, but curiously impersonal . . . we never do learn the age, size, or even appearance of the protagonist.

Novelist Explores Tinsel Morality Of The 'Jet Set'

THE BEAUTIFUL LIFE by Edwin Gilbert, G. P. Putnam's Sons, 320 pages, $5.95. Reviewed by Barbara L. Cullen.

Brushing aside middle-class convention, Edwin Gilbert indulges in the papier-mache and tinsel morality of New York's "Jet Set" — a would-be aristocracy of wealth or favored genealogies. The "beautiful" life is the facade behind which Gilbert's stereotyped characters hide from their empty and meaningless existences.

Members of the Jet Set have no purpose other than to be "In." They strive for headlines in the society pages, top ratings in popularity contests and pace-setting fashions.

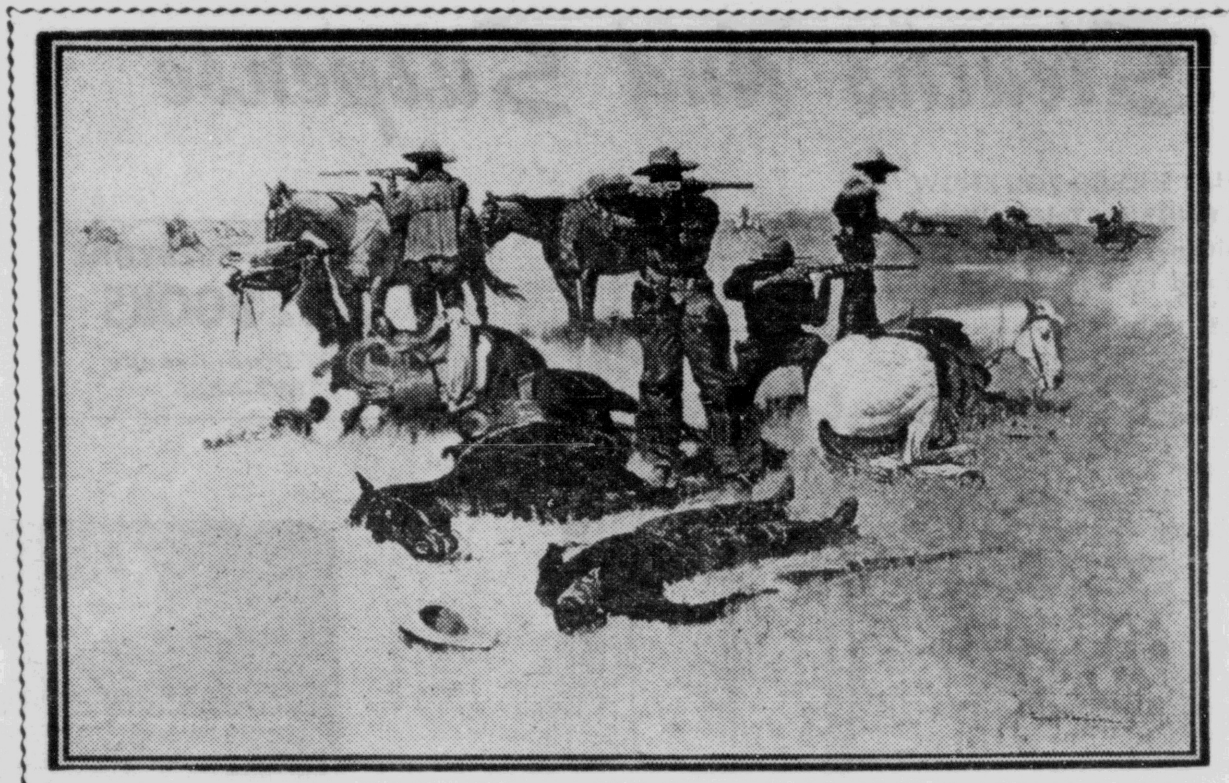

Because the glitter of today's success is tomorrow's tarnish, they operate on a philosophy of "Change." Here there is no search for enduring Truth and Beauty, formidable middle-class values. Here is only loneliness and frustration born of the search for the new coiffure, the "In" vogue dress, the select restaurant and the different party gimmick.

Gilbert might have made a good case against this mode of life, but he undermines his position by presenting spokesmen of the Middle Class — the doorman, chauffeur, coiffeur, restaurant and boutique entrepreneur, social secretary and columnist — as people who, despite perceiving the fatuousness of the situation, willingly, even eagerly, continue to support and preserve the status quo. They bask in what they see as reflected glory.

Also rendered ineffectual against the staid postures of our society is Mr. B. B. Grovenour, a "Social Register Drop-out" by choice and a city planner by profession. His efforts to define and achieve some stability of values through the preservation of historical landmarks are sometimes sympathized with, more often ignored. Even on the domestic level he finds that the fabric of his marriage has disintegrated. His need to share a meaningful relationship with a woman thrusts him into the compromising situation of the clandestine affair.

What then will prevail? Are men like Grovenour too few, too weak, while those who stand to profit too complaisant?

Whatever sting Gilbert intended upon the vacuous realm of the Jet Set is dulled by his shallow character delineations. The lack the depth and vitality is too glaring for it to be considered seriously.

When Famous Americans Gave Their Time To Study Of Peace

This book carries the subtitle: "Being the Proposals of Prominent Americans to the White House Conference of International Cooperation."

This conference was called by President Lyndon B. Johnson and held in Washington from Nov. 29 to Dec. 1, 1965.

An appendix lists committee members. All committees were made up with the intention of giving representation to all private citizens' opinions.

Topics covered were: "Curbing the Arms Race," "Keeping the Peace," "Developing International Law," "Protecting Human Rights," "Promoting Cultural Exchange," "Containing the Population Explosion," International Finance," ' 'Expanding World Trade," "Helping the World's Cities," "Exploring Outer Space," "Using Science and Technology," "Harnessing the Peaceful Atom," "Doing Something About the Weather," and "Meeting Other Challenges."

A random sampling of committee members: R. Buckminster-Fuller, Norman Cousins (Saturday Review), Alfred A. Knopf (publisher), Miss Marian Anderson, Van Cliburn, Herbert R. May (McCall Corp.), Gardner Cowles (Cowles magazine and broadcasting), Frank Bowles (Ford Foundation), Francis Keppel, U.S. Commissioner of Education (consultant) and so on.

From reading "Letters to the Editor," of the New York Times, I gather that these committee members did not think of themselves as "rubber stamps" and gave much more than a "token" amount of their time to this worthwhile study.

The History Of The Submariners

DOWN TO THE SEA IN SUBS by Vice Adm. Charles A. Lockwood (Ret.), W. A. Norton and Co., 376 pages, $6.95. Reviewed by Richard Lyttle.

Charles A. Lockwood's career in the Navy spanned the development of the submarine, from his first command, an A Boat in 1914, all the way to development of the atomic submarine.

The story of submarines is an exciting one, and Lockwood's account tells of the submariners' work and enthusiasm in development of the weapon. Although the subtitle is "My Life in the U.S. Navy," this book is more a history than an autobiography. Lockwood does not dwell on his own achievements, but delights in telling what others did.

He is an engaging writer and tells his story in a clear, straightforward manner. This is his second book. We hope there will be more.

GREAT AGES SERIES

The Empire That Bridged Rome And The Renaissance

BYZANTIUM by Philip Sherrard and the editors of Time-Life Books, Time, Inc., 192 pages. Reviewed by Larry Kramer Jr.

"Byzantium," a recent addition to the Great Ages of Man series, achieves the same high standard of excellence set by its predecessor volumes.

The book's objectives are two-fold—to present the Byzantine Empire in its roles of "political organism . . . synthesizer and preserver of culture," and to create in the reader the desire for further study of the subject.

The combination of text and supporting picture essay used here characterizes the series. This marriage of words and pictures is particularly effective in illuminating a period which Westerners have glibly termed "the Dark Ages."

Dr. Sherrard's text conveys clearly the synthesizing nature of Byzantine culture — joining Roman law with Christianity, bringing together the peoples and the arts of Greece, Rome, the barbarian West and the sophisticated East, and nurturing the thought of Classic antiquity for its rebirth in Western Europe which flowers after Constantine's empire has faded and fallen to the Turks.

The superbly selected, edited and reproduced pictorial component makes Byzantium come to life as a magnificent era in its own right and at the same time shows the Eastern Empire as a part of the transition from Rome to Renaissance. For example, Paul Hogarth's sketches of Constantinople at its height are works of art in themselves, catching the flavor of Byzantine daily life in a way that words cannot.

The Great Ages of Man series to date and this volume in particular are providing a mind-opening service of real value for the general American reader.

In learning American history, too often we have seen our national heritage in isolation from all but a smattering of English or Graeco-Roman tradition. As a result, many of us find it difficult to develop a perspective in which today takes its appropriate place in the long continuum of man's past achievements and follies.

As long as America was temporally and geographically separated from the rest of the world our narrow sense of history might be embarrassing but not disastrous. Modern means of communication and transportation have overcome the barriers of time and distance and our world role demands that we also overcome our historical insularity.

"Byzantium" and the series of which it is a part are valuable tools in our effort.

A Guide For The Amateur Entering The Antique Field

AMERICAN ANTIQUE FURNITURE by Edgar G. Miller Jr., Dover, two volumes, 1,112 pages, paperback, $3.75 each. Reviewed by Maxine Keown.

First published in 1937, this book has served ever since as a guide for amateurs entering the sometimes tricky field of antique furnishings.

Miller, himself, was an amateur, but a most knowledgeable one. He produced a book containing more than 2,000 illustrations that covers the field thoroughly, although the main focus is upon really fine furniture.

Now Dover Publications Inc. has reproduced the book, unabridged and unaltered, in two bulky softcover volumes.

Readers will find a wealth of information on the development of early American furniture, on the various periods and their styles, on antique dating and buying and on related subjects, all clarified by the exceptionally informative mass of illustrations put together by Miller.

MARIN POETS' CORNER

PICTURES IN THE SKY

I saw God paint a picture
Last evening in the sky,
He hung it there so masterly,
And pinned it with a star.

And as I stood enraptured
With the glory of the scene,
A golden light came slowly down
And brightly did it gleam.

White clouds came up, in fairy grace,
To sail about on high.
The sun bent down to kiss the sea
And red gold was the sky.

Just as the sun touched waters dark,
To mark the close of day,
Across the waters of the sea

I stayed to watch the stars come out.
The moon shone down on me
A bit of God's great masterpiece
For all mankind to see.

Before I close my eyes in sleep
May I give thanks to He—
Who painted pictures in the sky,
For folks like you and me.

FAIRFAX — RUTH ACKERMAN

On The Stereo Scene

By JOHN SUNIER

On the Angel and Capitol labels:

BERLIOZ: The Trojans — highlights from Parts I and II — Regine Crespin/Guy Chauvet/Chorus and Orchestra of the Paris Opera/Georges Pretre conducting — Angel Stereo B-3670:

This two-dis album marks the first recording of anything sizable from Berlioz's two great operas, "The Fall of Troy" and "The Trojans at Carthage."

During the recent San Francisco opera season, longer selections were presented, and with Miss Crespin in the lead also, but even these were only a fraction of the massively long evening of opera the French composer had envisioned. But part is better than nothing, and this music deserves much more attention than it has received in recent years.

The bringing of the giant horse into Troy is the main event in the first part, which takes up only the first of the four sides. During Part II, the highlights of the highlights are the quintet, sung as Dido becomes more and more enamored of her heroic guest Aeneas; the orchestral "Royal Hunt and Storm," and Dido's final aria before her self-sacrifice.

Crespin is excellent, although Chauvet doesn't seem to quite measure up to John Vicker's thrilling performance in San Francisco.

VILLA-LOBOS: Concerto for Guitar and Small Orchestra (1951); WEISS: Suite in A Minor; BACH: Arioso — Laurindo Almeida, guitar/Concert Arts Chamber Orchestra/Stanley Wilson—Capitol Stereo SP 8638:

Within a quite Baroque framework the music really swings and sways. Balance between guitar and orchestra is perfect in stereo. The two solo works taking up Side 2 are arranged by Almeida and played with his usual skill and accent on melodic line.

If this one is to your liking, be sure to hear also the Gnattali guitar concerto which Almeida has recorded on Capitol SP-8625 — cut from the same cloth.

AT THE DROP OF ANOTHER HAT — Michael Flanders and Donald Swann — Angel Stereo S 36388:

These two witty Englishmen-musicians are back with us again for their third or fourth recording.

There is really nobody else in the area of humor and satire to which these mild-mannered fellows may be compared; they are a law unto themselves. Gilbert & Sullivan might have influenced them, as well as the English music halls, Mort Sahl and modern day frustrations in general.

Flanders & Swann fans will double up over "The Gas Man Cometh," "Los Olvidados," and even another sketch about the terrors and discomforts of flying — this managing to say a few new things that everyone from Woody Allen to Jonathan Winters missed.

Along with Peter Sellers, the Hoffnung Festivals, and Beyond the Fringe, Flanders & Swann are the best of British humor on records.

CARL ORFF: Carmina Burana — Popp / Unger / Wolansky / Noble / Wandsworth School Boys' Choir/New Philharmonia Chorus and Orchestra/Rafael Fruhbeck de Burgos conducting — Angel Stereo S 36333:

This new offering has been widely hailed as the best of the best, but for this writer's ear perhaps that is to its disadvantage. It is almost too controlled and careful; this primitive-sounding and exciting choral music requires a healthy, gutsy abandon which is exactly what Smetacek's version on the Parliament bargain label has going for it.

Among the best live performances of this work are many of those by college music groups. Reading the libretto will demonstrate quickly why healthy young people get a kick out of performing this cantata.

CHAIKIN: Concerto for Accordion; SHISHAKOV: Concerto for Balalaika; VASSILENKO: Suite for Balalaika; REZNIKOV: Toccata for Balalaika — Yuri Kazakov, accordion/Mikhail Roshkov, Eugene Blinov and Eugene Avksentiev, balalaikas —Monitor Stereo MCS 2074:

The now-deleted Westminster lp which contained the first two above works was long a favorite in my library. They are joyous and direct works full of the Russian peasant folk flavor, the second even performed with an orchestra of folk instruments. Now they have been rechanneled for stereo and two new encores have been added to the original lp, both again featuring the Slavic cousin of the guitar, the balalaika.

BRIGHT IDEAS

Sawhorse Is Given Status

By JOE JONES

A team of sawhorses and a tabletop do yeoman work at church suppers and such, so why not employ this combination at home?

You'll find many uses for it — as a sewing or cutting table, as a game or homework table, as an indoor or outdoor auxiliary buffet, for wrapping presents and tending indoor plants. No end of possibilities.

MAKE IT any size you like. For the top use a piece of plywood or a blank door. Buy steel sawhorse brackets (no nails or bolts needed) at hardware or department store. Have your lumberman cut the legs and crosspieces to fit.

Paint the sawhorses a brilliant color or for more fun, paint each one a different color. Give the top a natural wood finish or cover it with a patterned, vinyl, self-adhesive paper.

USE IT indoors or out. If you like, keep it assembled in your foyer. Use it as permanent serving table in the dining room.

The Key To Putting Down Floor Tile Is In The Adhesive

By ANDY LANG

Whatever secret there is to the correct installation of resilient floor tiles is mixed up somewhere in the adhesive.

SINCE THE same dealer that sells floor tiles sells the proper type of adhesive for these particular tiles, it would seem unlikely that anyone could use the wrong cement. But our mail over the years shows that this isn't necessarily so. Somehow, in some way, some persons use adhesives which aren't ideal for the kind of tiles they have purchased.

There are two general types of adhesive for the cementing of resilient floor tiles.

One is used for asphalt and vinyl asbestos, the other for vinyl, rubber and other materials. But within these two types, there are some variations. Therefore, when you buy tile, ask the dealer to give you the specific adhesive for it.

WHERE YOU have a choice, select a brand made by the company that makes the tile. But no matter what, read the label on the container to be sure you are getting what you need. Every once in a while, you may run into a store employee who knows even less about it than you do.

(You can get Andy Lang's helpful booklet, "Installing Resilient Floor Tiles," by sending 25 cents and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Know-How, P. O. Box 954, Jamaica, N. Y., 11431.)

At a nominal price, you can get an installation kit which includes a notched spreader for applying the adhesive. Follow the instructions on the container for its proper use. You will find that, with asphalt and vinyl asbestos tile, you can spread the adhesive on one quarter or one half of the floor at one time.

WITH THIS adhesive, you must wait a considerable period of time for it to dry before applying the tiles. In fact, if you don't have time to finish the job, you can wait until the next morning to do so.

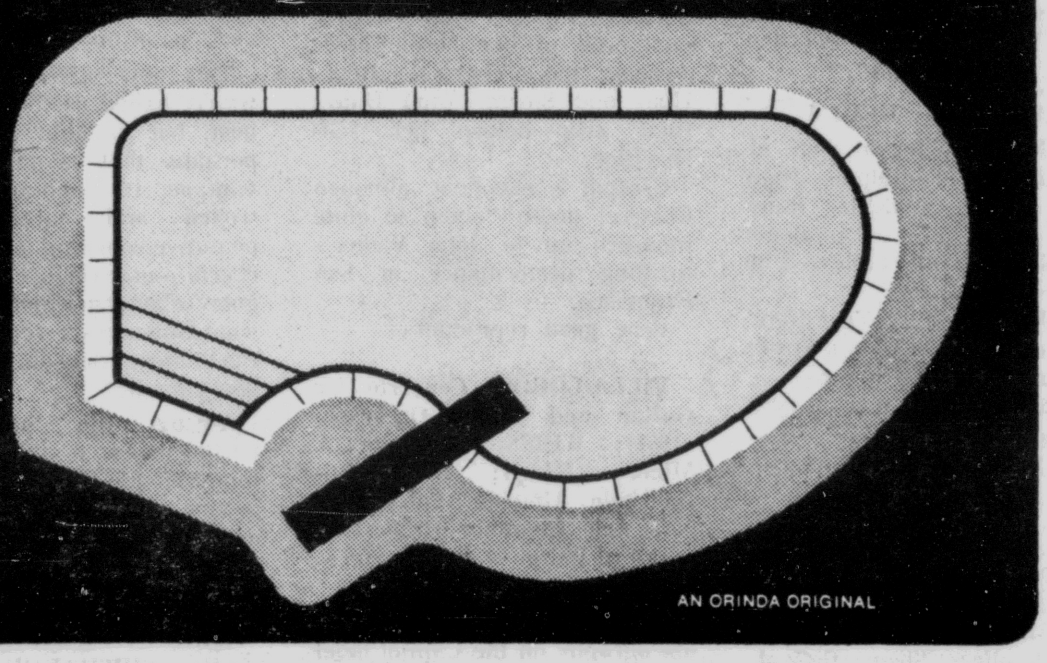

This type of adhesive will cause you all kinds of trouble if it is spread too thickly or if it is still damp when the tiles are laid.

With other resilient tiles, you can put down only enough adhesive to take care of 10 or less tiles at one time. The procedure is to spread the cement, almost immediately installing the tiles, then going on to the next limited floor area. After three or four rows of tiles have been laid, they should be rolled, either with a rented large floor roller or a smaller one, such as a household rolling pin.

ASPHALT AND vinyl asbestos tiles need not be rolled.

Getting back to that notched spreader, its use is mandatory if you want to avoid the most common error: Putting down too much cement, some of which later may come up between the seams of the tiles. Another way to avoid having the adhesive ooze up is to lay each tile into place. Don't slide it. And don't try to set a speed record. Take your time.

Today's Camellias Have Many Uses

Camellias came to us from China via Europe early in the last century, and for many, many years their popularity depended on an inbred formality.

The camellia of yesteryear was almost always a double-flowered variety such as Pink Perfection, and the shrub was almost always used as a specimen, rather than as a general landscape item.

PERHAPS because of the limitations we imposed on it, the camellia's popularity waned, and sometime around the early part of this century, it reached an all-time low. Then the comeback started.

Today, camellias rank second only to roses in popularity, and thanks to hybridizers their variety is ever increasing. Today's camellia can still be formal, but it can also be informal enough to find use as a hedge or ground cover, as a small patio tree and even a hanging basket plant. Flowers are often still double, but semi-double and single blooms are now more common and seemingly more popular.

The new popularity is partly the result of two new camellia types, which increased the family's variety and versatility. Joining the original Japonica varieties in the last few decades were the Sasanqua camellias from Japan and the Reticulatas from China.

SASANQUAS are loosely formed shrubs, willowy and supple, lending themselves to cultural uses one never dreamed of for camellias. Reticulatas are large, open shrubs with huge blooms. Their beauty is almost unbelievable.

And partly the popularity is a result of constant hybridizing of the time-honored Japonicas. These have an infinite capacity for change — either through hybridization or through mutation. No one has yet come up with a blue camellia nor even a yellow one, but they have come up with just about everything else you could hope for.

WE'LL LEAVE the varieties for you to discover on your next trip to a nursery. Right now let's consider some of the new uses camellias have been put to.

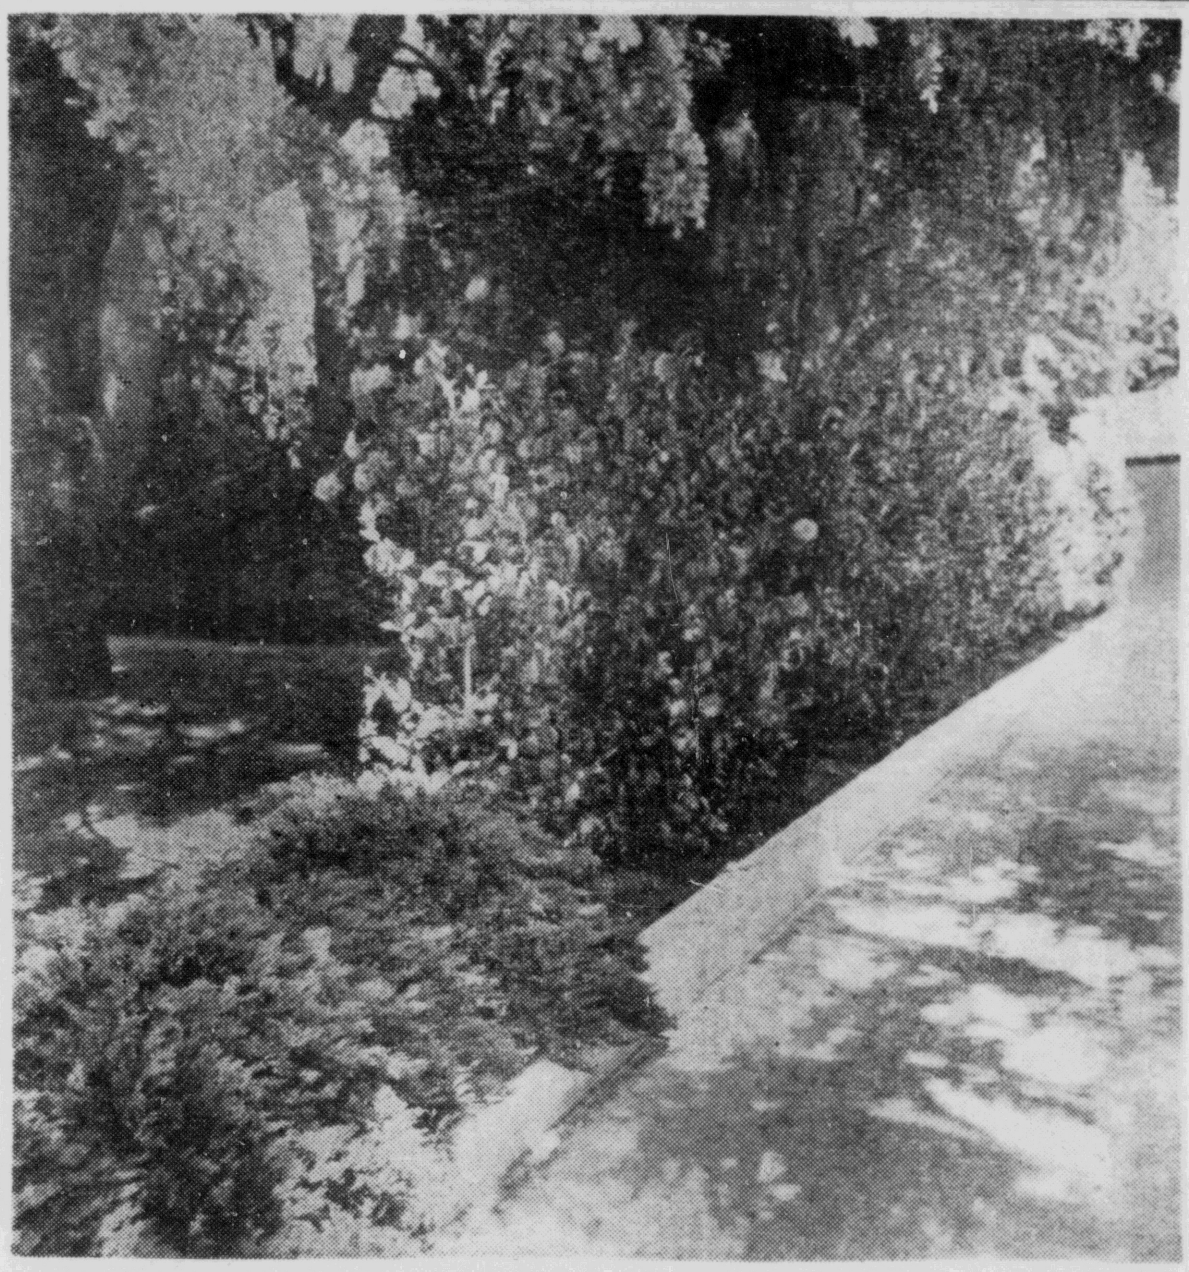

First, as a hedge: The Japonica camellias make slow-growing and highly unusual dividers in the garden — beautiful when not in bloom and twice as beautiful in bloom. Despite the camellia's formal background, these should be informal hedges, never clipped, and pruned only enough to harvest some of the bountiful crop of flowers.

Secondly as an espalier: Both the Japonica and Sasanqua varieties are found in nurseries as espaliered plants. The Sasanquas are easier to start this way due to their natural form, but Japonicas make a more substantial shrub. Take your pick.

AS A SMALL patio tree: This form is gaining popularity, according to nurserymen. Vigorous camellias, both Japonicas and Sasanquas, are trained up a single trunk to produce a full head of bloom, suitable for use at the edge of patio or against a fence.

As a hanging basket: Sasanqua camellias are offered by nurserymen already planted in redwood baskets. Their naturally willowy character is enhanced by pruning so that the blooms hang down from on high, an appealing and strictly different addition to your garden.

As a groundcover: The more supple of the Sasanqua camellias can be pegged down to a shaded bank to form an unusual groundcover — one from which you can pick blooms. And how many other groundcovers can you name that yield up bouquets for the home?

Arbor Ideal For Shade

Even more interesting is to build the bench as a lip for a planter box which can be filled with easy-care greens. Select the plants to get a variety of leaf color and texture. A bristle-cone pine, sedums, some hen-and chicks, and a bronze-leaf Japanese maple combine well.

A CHECKLIST FOR GARDENERS OF MARIN

✓Rhododendrons and azaleas may be planted now for spring bloom. Try the Southern Indicas, or Sun Azaleas for sunny garden spots.
